FLAG DAY

Behold, its streaming rays unite,
One mingling flood of braided light;
The red that fires the southern rose,
With spotless white from northern snows,
And, spangled o'er its azure, see,
The sister stars of liberty
Then hail the Banner of the Free,
The starry flower of Liberty!

—OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES
(1809-1894)

TODAY IS FLAG DAY

Today is the 188th birthday of the flag of these United States -- Flag Day -- and all citizens of this country, from sun-up to sun-down, should display the 50-star emblem of the nation.

The Flag was conceived by George Washington and legend has it that the first one was sewn together by Betsy Ross. The red and white of the thirteen horizontal stripes were taken from the flag of the mother country, England, and the then 13 stars on a blue field represented this new constellation rising in the west, with one star for each of the 13 original states.

George Washington is quoted as declaring, "We take the stars from the heaven and the red from the Mother Country, separating it by white stripes, thus showing we have separated from her and the white stripes will go down to posterity representing liberty."

The Flag is a symbol representing the nation; the Declaration of Independence; the Constitution; and the heroic deeds of our fathers, husbands and sons in all our wars from the Revolution to the present. It also stands for the sacrifices of our women folks; and the contributions of patriotic women down through the years since the beginnings of this nation.

Today, with the entire World in tension and this nation facing its gravest threats, the Flag is even more important as a symbol of our hope for peace and the future, not only for our own sons and daughters but also for the sons and daughters of the many oppressed nations of the world.

Remember wherever our Stars and Stripes are flung to the wind, civilization replaces savagery; and the dignity of individual freedom and liberty replaces the degradation of slavery to dictatorships.

So fly the Flag today on its birthday, if nothing else than to remind yourself that under its proud folds you enjoy the greatest freedom and the highest standards of living in the entire world.

Now Or Never In Legislature

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- The Missouri Legislature today is close to that "now or never" point.

This week and next are the last full weeks the 1965 session can do business. Action on legislation must cease at midnight, June 30.

And there's still a lot of major bills pending in one house or the other. But Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has expressed confidence the major portion of his top recommendations will clear both houses in acceptable form by the deadline.

When the Senate comes back at 2 p.m. the first order of business will be completion of the argument on a bill establishing the Missouri Commission on the Arts-an effort to bring the musical, performing and pictorial arts to the rural areas.

Some rural senators picked on the bill last week with such vehemence it was put back on the calendar temporarily. The arguments could be extended.

But perhaps more importantly there could be a problem on any one of the reapportionment plans to meet the one man-one vote orders of the federal courts.

The House has passed its bill creating 168 house districts-instead of 163-and it is scheduled to be heard by a Senate committee Tuesday night. The companion constitutional amendment will be considered by a House-Senate conference committee to iron out differences.

A House committee failed last week to come up with an agreeable compromise on a Senate-passed bill establishing new congressional districts. Rep. Earl Sponsler, D-Texas County, chairman, said he hoped the committee could clear away the obstacles this week.

A conference committee also will work this week on House-Senate differences on the major appropriation bills, for financing state government and instutitions in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Both houses have fairly heavy calendars of bills to work on. The House was scheduled to come back at 3 p.m. today.

The Senate definitely planned to work an extra day this week and Rep. Mel Carnahan, D-Phelps County, House majority leader, told members to come back prepared to work Friday. He said if a large portion of the work was completed by the usual quitting time at noon Thursday, the Friday session might not be necessary.

NO CINCH WINNERS

RICHMOND, Ky. (AP)--Madison county election officials are sure there is a division of opinion among Democrats here. Robert Turley received 3,398 votes to 3,397 for Robert Combs in the county judge primary election race. In the same election, Kenton Moberly polled 3,086 and William Green 3,084 votes for sheriff.

Weekend Accidents

One accident occurred one and one-fourth miles east of Charleston Saturday at 11 p.m. on Highway 60, when a 1957 Buick driven by Danny Grimes, 22, Hazelwood, ran off the highway and overturned. He was taken to the Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Saturday at 1:30 p.m. on Highway 61, two miles north of Benton, an Oldsmobile driven north by Robert Karnes, 23, Sikeston, struck a 1964 Chevrolet driven by Mary James, 22, Chaffee.

She had stopped to make a left turn. The Karnes car was coming over a hill and skidded into the James car. Mrs. James suffered shock and was taken to a Cape Girardeau hospital.

In an accident Saturday at 3:30 p.m. on Highway 25 near Advance, one driver and two passengers were injured, one critical. They were taken to a Cape Girardeau hospital. A 1953 Chevrolet, driven by Fannie Heffner, 61, Advance made a left turn into the path of a 1963 Pontiac driven by Larry Umfleet, 20, Delta. In the Chevrolet the driver and a passenger, Fred Heffner, 62, Advance, were seriously injured, and a third party, Bell Andrews, 69, Advance, is in critical condition. Umfleet's car went into a ditch and burned, and the driver is in a Cape hospital for observation.

In an accident in Delta on Highway 25 at 6:45 p.m., three persons were injured when Oliver Snider, 20, Delta, was driving a 1958 Chevrolet, lost control and struck three parked cars, knocking one of them into the home of O. C. Duncan. Injured were the driver with head lacerations and bruises; Bobby Kight, 20, and Jimmy Lynn, both of Delta, who received bruises and abrasions, and all taken to a Cape Girardeau hospital. The driver was arrested, and charged with being intoxicated.

On Highway 60, four miles east of Charleston, Sunday at 1:45 p.m., a 1965 Mustang driven by Leonard Carrier, 24, Bowling Green, Ky., was struck by a 1957 Ford driven by Queen Thomas, 24, Charleston, when the latter made a U-turn in front of the Carrier car. Carrier received facial cuts and was treated by a Charleston physician and released.

SEMO To Receive School Aid

Missouri's local school districts will receive a windfall of more than $7.5 million in 1966-67-68 because of a study suggested by Governor Warren E. Hearnes and conducted during the off-duty hours late in May by Division of Welfare employees.

The Governor was advised late last month of the possibility of the funds through a telegram from the U. S. Department of Health, Welfare and Education and immediately requested the survey be made.

He reports that $2,598,310 will be appropriated each of the next three years from Federal funds. The program he thought would be extremely important to St. Louis City, Jackson county and Kansas City.

"I am gratified to learn that Missouri School districts are entitled to this federal money," the Governor said today. "It will be of particular benefit to many school districts which do not receive full tax support from families with several children drawing aid to dependent children funds."

In Scott county 185 children from 33 families will receive $42,550. Stoddard county is to receive $42,090 for 33 families having 183 children.

New Madrid county has 310 children from 55 families and will receive $71,300. Mississippi county is to receive $92,920 for 72 families having 404 children.

Neophyt Split By Freighter

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — "The Neophyte was my home for 2½ years," said Lee Quinn, "but it's over now and there is nothing more to say. I have no plans for the future."

Quinn, 37, an adventurer from Los Gatos, Calif., has been sailing his 45-foot ketch, the Neophyte, around the South Pacific for the last 30 months with all-girl crews.

Before dawn Sunday the 4,000 ton coastal freighter Woomera ran the Neophyte down a mile outside the Sydney harbor, split the ketch in half and sank the forward section.

Quinn and the three girls with him were rescued by the Woomera's lifeboat after half an hour in the water.

"I still say girls make the best crew," said Quinn. "There was absolutely no panic."

Quinn and his crew, Helena Anderson, 18, Hobart; Barbara Sodt, 29, Berwyn, Ill.; and Jennifer Shadock, 22, of Tasmania, were treated for abrasions and shock.

Sikeston Rates At Cape State

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. -- A total of 798 students at Southeast Missouri State College earned "B" averages for the past semester, including 19 from Sikeston.

The 798 students represent about 20 percent of the total enrollment at Cape. The SEMO grading system ranks "A" as 4, "B" as 3, "C" as 2, "D" as 1, and "F" as 0.

Included in the select group were: Albert C. Ancell, Wilma Sue Barnett, Norman E. Brooks, Paul H. Conley, Marilyn Kay Conrad, James A. Critchlow, Clara B. Eisenbach, David R. Gillilland, Marian I. Lewis, Charles B. Luber.

Carolyn M. Merrick, Karen A. Pratt, Ruth Ann Roberts, Anita Marie Spear, Timothy E. Spear, Bob F. Spitzmiller, Alice C. Underwood, William W. Wilkison, Jeannette Sue Williams and Patricia Sue Bouse.

Youth Charged With Shooting Of His Father

CARUTHERSVILLE -- Authorities have charged 17-year-old Windell Barham with second degree murder in connection with the shooting of his father, Marvin Barham, 47, at their farm home near Portageville.

The charge was lodged against the son after a Pemiscot County coroner's inquest ruled Barham's death a homicide.

The youth was at liberty under $2500 bond. The shooting occurred Saturday morning, and Barham died the next day at a Memphis, Tenn., hospital. Before he died, Barham reportedly told authorities that the shooting was accidental. An autopsy revealed that Barham was shot in the abdomen and the lower part of the back.

Montgomery "Flabbergasted"

A suit filed against Joel Montgomery for $5.2 million left the Sikeston banker "flabbergasted" he told a Standard reporter today.

The suit, filed Friday by two Kansas City business men, alleges that Montgomery defrauded them by failing to pay the creditors of the bankrupt Parliament House Motor Inns Inc.

"I am flabbergasted. I don't even know what they are talking about. It is fantastic. It is beyond my comprehension. All I did was to foreclose their note owed to me," Montgomery said.

Hilary A. Bush, attorney for Montgomery, said Montgomery loaned $200,000 to the corporation that was formed in an attempt to salvage the motel corporation. He said the $200,000 was not enough, as other debts were not covered.

Five Arrested

Police made five arrests during the week-end. All were on different charges.

Rufus Terry, Benton, was charged with public drunkenness.

Linus Walker, 828 Matthews, was charged with taking off at a high rate of speed.

Walter Barber, Essex, was charged with careless and imprudent driving with failure to have car under control.

Pulene Robinson, 230 Felker, is charged with disturbing the peace by use of loud and profane language.

Isaac Brown, Benton, was arrested on the charge of having no drivers license.

New IGA Store

Plans will be announced sometime this week for a new IGA food store to be located in Sikeston south of the Dace Body Shop on the east side of the highway.

Rangers Find Bodies

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Vietnamese rangers combing a rubber plantation just north of the shattered town of Dong Xoai found the bodies of about 100 government troops today, the remains of the 7th Airborne Battalion, a U.S. military spokesman announced.

Dong Xoai was reported quiet but braced for more trouble from the Viet Cong.

As the rangers moved through the French-owned Michelin rubber plantation a few miles north of Dong Xoai they found an assortment of grim relics left behind by the Viet Cong, among them the wreckage of a U.S. Army helicopter and a U.S. Army man's identification tag.

U.S. authorities announced "at the request of the Vietnamese government, elements of the 173rd U.S. Airborne Brigade have moved to Phuoc Vinh to protect the airfield and aircraft there."

Phuoc Vinh is the main airfield for the Dong Xoai area. The U. S. paratroopers had been expected to move from there into the Dong Xoai conflict but the Vietnamese commanders were reluctant to ask for them.

The Viet Cong mounted a number of attacks and ambushes in various parts of Viet Nam today, all the way from the 17th Parallel to the southern tip of the nation.

Ninety American and Vietnamese planes hammered targets in North Viet Nam in a series of separate raids.

Twenty U.S. Air Force jet bombers escorted by 30 other jets attacked the Ban Xom Lom barracks 70 miles southwest of Hanoi. Five buildings were reported destroyed and 10 heavily damaged.

Forty-two planes hit three areas of the Ba Bon army barracks 60 miles north of the demilitarized zone, U.S. spokesmen said.

Heavy air strikes also continued inside South Viet Nam against suspected Viet Cong targets. U.S. Navy and Marine Corps planes were said to have flown 118 sorties Sunday. Pilots claimed heavy damage to targets and suspected troop concentrations.

Six Americans were killed over the weekend, but none appeared to have died as the result of enemy action.

Four U.S. Army helicopter crewmen were killed Saturday night when their craft crashed 30 miles east of Saigon during a storm.

An explosion aboard a truck at Chu Lai beachhead Sunday killed two U.S. Marines and injured 19 others. The men had been swimming, and a spokesman said a grenade fell from one man's belt, exploded in the bottom of the truck and set off a five-gallon can of gasoline.

The American paratroopers were rushed to the airfield at Phuoc Vinh after the Viet Cong ambushed a Vietnamese paratroop battalion Saturday night. The airfield, 40 miles north of Saigon, is the main supply point for the Phuoc Binh-Thanh special military zone.

The Vietnamese battalion was attacked as it moved into Thuan Loi village, 4 miles north of Dong Xoai. The Viet Cong struck from the north and west, sealing off the government paratroopers from the rear.

Reports from the area said 250 of the battalion's 400 men were killed, wounded or captured. This brought the number of Vietnamese dead or missing in the fighting around Dong Xoai since Thursday to about 600. Eighteen Americans were listed as dead or missing.

Vietnamese government forces claimed they killed 300 Viet Cong in the fighting Thursday for Dong Xoai and that U.S. air strikes killed another 400. The figures were not confirmed by U.S. military sources.

A relief force entered Thuan Loi Sunday and found the town empty. Both Viet Cong and government dead had been hauled away, and there were no civilians.

A U.S. helicopter made a midnight flight through enemy fire and rain to fly three U.S. advisers out of Thuan Loi during the fighting.

Lt. Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Viet Nam, visited Dong Xoai Sunday and conferred with Vietnamese Brig. Gen. Cao Van Vien.

South Viet Nam's general staff announced by radio it had formed a 10-member committee under the chairmanship of Maj. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu to set up a new government and organizations "along with a war cabinet."

The 10 members include army corps commanders, chief of general staff and air force commander Brig. Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky.

In effect, Thieu thus becomes chief of state, although civilian Phan Khac Suu remains for the time being as caretaker chief of state with Premier Phan Huy Quat. Thieu was defense minister in the Quat government.

U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor returned to Saigon from conferences in Washington with President Johnson and other top officials.

Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri of India, who wound up a state visit to Canada today, told the Toronto Globe and Mail that commitment of U.S. troops into combat in Viet Nam "might lead to dangerous consequences."

He said that India and Canada see "more or less eye to eye" on Viet Nam and both countries feel that talks might be possible between the warring factions. India and Canada are members with Poland of the International Control Commission that oversees operation of the 1954 Geneva agreement on Indochina.

In a joint communique Shastri and Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson took neither side of the Viet Nam conflict.

Today marks the opening of operation "Head Start" at the Southwest Grade School for 160 pre-schoolers.

According to Superintendent of Schools Lynn Twitty, "The basis for the operation of a program like "Head Start" is to provide experiences, especially for children coming from low income or disadvantaged homes. However, the program is not restricted because of family income and the pre-school experiences will be helpful to all of next fall's first graders."

The program, directed by Jack Cothern, will employ eight instructors from the regular school system. They participated last week in a special training course held at Oklahome State University at Stillwater, Okla. The eight are Martha Stevenson, Jewel Harber, Christine Davis, Violetta McGee, Ida Fulton, Janice Randon, Barbara Havis and Minnie Sprowls. All have experience in the lower grade levels.

The instructors are to be assisted by eight who are enrolled during the regular year in a college - teacher program. They are: Lynn Farris, Jo Coates, Patsy McWilliams, Pat Kiser, Almeda Green, Pearlie Green, Leomia Newman and Mrs. Lois Shelby.

Emphasis will be placed on social activities planned in such a way as to make the children better adjusted and cooperative in preparation for their first schooling next fall.

Two Year Old Girl Missing

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. AP-- More than 100 persons searched woods and fields along the Mississippi River today for a 2-year-old girl.

The child, Betsy Gill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gill of near Cape Girardeau, disappeared from home Sunday.

She was being cared for by her 13-year-old sister, Jean, while the parents were away.

Ten Emergencies

Ten persons were treated the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community Hospital over the weekend. Carl Parker, Charleston, hit hand with sledge hammer; Jeffrey Riley, Blodgett, fell off pickup truck; Ray Richards, slipped and hurt ankle; James Vaught, stung by bumble bee; Jacqueline Roslen, Morehouse, fell on shoulder. Nora Frazier, Morehouse, bruised wrist; Robert Deal, hit with bottle; Johnny Childress, collided with another baseball player; Jerry Mattock, Morley, burned with hot water; Loretta Hedges, East Prairie, firecracker blew up.

Mrs. A. Johnson Wins Contest

THE WINNER of the contest identifying the most number of employes of the Sikeston Mercantile Company, and the date of the picture, was Mrs. W. A. Johnson of Morehouse.

She identified all of them correct, but she won the contest by guessing closest to the year the picture was taken, which was 1908. She guessed 1910.

Also identifying them all correctly was Mrs. Raymond Crews, who guessed 1911. Mrs. Andy Hill, 1805 Indiana, guessed 1916. Joe Mathis, 428 S. Kingshighway, also identified them correctly, but guessed the year to be 1904. Mrs. Virginia Weidemann guessed the year to be 1915.

HERE ARE THE CORRECT NAMES OF THE EMPLOYES OF THE Sikeston Mercantile Company in 1908:

1. Chas. F. McMullin, President; 2. John E. Marshal, Treasurer; 3. Jos. H. Stubbs, Vice-President and General Manager; 4. Chas. Prow, Book Keeper; 5. Willis Guess, Drayman; 6. Henry Welsh, Undertaker and Embalmer; 7. W. E. Bennett, Dry Goods Department; 8. R. B. Brooks, Shoe Department; 9. Marion Jewel, Hardware Department; 10. Joe Mathis, Grocery Department; 11. Aulton Cravens, Grocery Department; 12. Leonard McMullin, Grocery Department; 13. P. H. Gross, Grocery Department; 14. J. P. Gilbert, Implement Department; 15. Steve Humphreys, Implement Department; 16. Ida Frazier, Shoe Department; 17. Iva Cole, Dry Goods Department; 18. Iva Myers, Dry Goods Department; 19. Mag Cooper, Dry Goods Department; 20. May Kavanagh, Cashier; 21. Beula Karnegor, Dry Goods Department; 22. Miss Alger, Dry Goods Department; 23. Mrs. Young, Dry Goods Department; 24. Robert Blakemore, Furniture Department; 25. Clyde Myers, Clothing Department; 26. Rolla Brown, Clothing Department; 27. Azzie Cravens, Delivery Man; 28. Monroe Cravens, Delivery Man; 29. Harry Martin, Warehouse Man; 30. Lee Lawrence, Grocery Department; 31. Marian Rozier, Milliner; 32. Alma McKnight, Milliner Department; 33. Joe Stubbs, Jr., Candy Boy; 34. Clay Stubbs, Candy Boy.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
Monday, June 14 is Flag Day.

* * *

THE 14TH OF JUNE

Flag Day is the day designated for countless individual ceremonies where patriotic Americans throughout the nation join to display the Flag of the United States and pay it their reverence and respect.

Today is Flag Day.

Sikestonions in the past several years have been pretty well united in observance of the occasion. Some time back there seemed to be a dearth of Stars and Stripes among our residences; some of our places of business, too, apparently had run out of flags to fly, or just did not fly them. But more recently that has changed, and the change is something Sikeston can be proud of.

The Flag, of course, is a symbol. It represents the United States of America and everything about this country of ours: its cities and farms, its freedoms and rights, its ways of living, its national policies. Everything. Perhaps some folks are unhappy at times with the way some matters go; but then they remember that it is all under the Flag, and that the Flag is still waving despite other temporary difficulties over the many decades.

The bread and wine of Holy Communion are symbols, too, that have been here a long time because they are based on something very solid.

The Flag of the United States came into being on this same date in 1777 through a resolution adopted by the Congress, and Flag Day is on June 14 because of that fact. The resolution was simple and brief. It has stayed in effect through the years with changes only to keep the Flag up to date as new states were added to the Union.

"Resolved: that the flag of the 13 United States be made of 13 stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be 13 stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

That's the way the Flag has been ever since, except for its growing galaxy. The principles it symbolizes haven't changed much, either.

Fifty-one years ago, on Flag Day, Woodrow Wilson said of the Stars and Stripes: "It is henceforth to stand for self-possession, for dignity, for the assertion of the right of one nation to serve the other nations of the world -- an emblem that will not condescend to be used for purposes of aggression and self-aggrandizement; that is too great to be debased by selfishness; that has vindicated its right to be honored by all the nations of the world and feared by none who do righteousness."

President Wilson's words still hold good.

To say that as a symbol of our nation the Flag if what we make it, would not be new, but it is true. It means different things to different people. But taking them all together, it means America. It is a fine thing that today more and more folks are standing up and saying that whatever means America means a lot to them.

As we set out our flags today we should do so with some thoughtfulness. Too, we should let the youngsters help in the affair and should give them a word of explanation on what they're taking part in.

They're the right age to begin realizing.

Should an economist tell the truth or should he merely parrot the official Johnson administration line?

We are not enamored of the new economics.

Neither apparently is William M. Martin, Jr., Federal Reserve chairman, who warns that there are economic similarities now and those prevailing in 1929 before the great depression.

Martin's speech at Columbia University in New York was not an intemperate blast at the administration. He also mentioned the dissimilarities in present business conditions and those in 1929.

This caused a break in stock market prices, which isn't anything to become alarmed about. The market has been riding high and it is jittery and almost any recent negative news has sent prices plunging downward.

Rep. Wright Patman, chairman of the House Banking Committee, is a sworn enemy of Martin. He has escalated his vendetta against Martin - to coin a threadbare term used to describe the war in Viet Nam -- by urging that Martin resign.

Patman probably would be pleased if President Johnson fired Martin if he doesn't want to quit. The country shouldn't tolerate it.

What is needed in the federal government is more men willing to give honest answers and to speak their own minds freely. Martin should stay and he should continue to speak out. He will perform a real service to the nation, particularly if he sees any recession on the horizon and tells the country about it. The people deserve the best information that is available so that they can prepare for any adverse developments in making their own plans.

If the economic news from Washington is always tinged by political considerations the American people will never be told the truth and they will have no guidance useful in making their own decisions.

When politics take over, truth flies out the window. The effort then is devoted to getting someone into public office or keeping him there.

Patman accuses Martin of challenging the President on economic policy. Indeed he has, and more power to him.

We vote for freedom of information. It's in the public interest.

Let's not spoon feed the American people only the good economic news.

They want their news straight and useful and they will make constructive use of it to fit their own needs.

SEASONAL NOTE

What is so rare as a day in June? The poet James Russell Lowell asked the question with an inflection that forbade a positive answer. But a ten-year-old once gave way to temptation to tell the teacher in an English class that he liked Halloween better. He was sent into the dressing room for 20 minutes of repentance for contempt of literature.

The right answer is, of course, that then, if ever, come perfect days. Lowell himself gives it before any reader should have formed a doubt. Well, here it is June. So far the days have been sunny and cool, and a light breeze has brought a sea-freshness into the streets even of landlocked cities. The rain has paid some attention to the old rhyme about coming back another day, and has done even better. It has visited many of us only at night when, instead of having to cut our way through it in the sodden thoroughfare, we can listen to it gurgling with innocent glee in the rainspout, or purring a lullaby to us on the leaves.

So altogether there has been little to complain of. This year the month may live up to its billing. Even so, near unanimity of opinion about anything seems to stir up the rebel in a few of our neighbors. When we suggested to a taxi driver the other day that it looked as if it would be a lovely month, he only snapped that "It had better be" in a tone which discouraged us from trying to reopen the conversation. As for quoting Lowell -- well, we didn't. We guessed the driver might be that ten-year-old boy grown up.

WEEK MANMADE INVENTION

Unlike the year, the month and the day, which are all tied in with observable movements of the earth and moon, the week is a manmade invention, a period of time developed strictly for purposes of convenience. At some periods and places in history, this period of time has been as short as three days. At other periods and places, it has been as long as ten. The seven day week as we know it developed in the near east and was first used by the Babylonians and the Jews. It was not until the fourth century that the week of seven days was established as a regular calendar division by the Christian countries of western Europe.

YOU CAN'T ARGUE WITH ARITHMETIC

From 1100 jobs a few years ago to 0 today--that's the story of another New England woolen mill recently forced out of business by imported Japanese wool fabric for men's suits. Last year 11 such mills closed in America for the same reason.

A typical American mill wage rate is $1.93 an hour--5 to 7 times the Japanese wage rates. That is why, since the war, more than 100,000 American jobs in worsted mills alone have disappeared.

Hopeless? Not entirely. American mills are automating as fast as their profits give them the necessary money to buy cost-cutting equipment and so hold on to American jobs. But American labor shares the responsibility to cut costs by more efficient production. You can boast about your high wage rate, but it buys no groceries until you earn it, and you'll earn it when you produce such a value that the American public can afford to "Buy American" again.

ARE RECESSIONS OBSOLETE?

The current issue of a national business publication contains an article which explains that recessions have become obsolete. Among the reasons given are that:

--our economy is, at last, truly diversified,

--We have become smarter through experience,

-- government payrolls and spending add a steadying influence to our economy,

-- government policy won't allow a business downturn to get underway.

Experience teaches that each extended period of economic expansion has been hailed as the beginning of a new era of continuous prosperity. Each boom entices sideline commentators to pontificate on how we have finally attained success in overcoming the threat of business downturns (usually through governmental interference). Skeptics can view the appearance of such comments as "signs of the times," because they appear more frequently in the later stages of economic expansion.

Such rose-colored optimism should be tempered with a high degree of realism:

--It is true that business profits in dollar amount are at peak levels, but how about profits based on the volume of business?

--How much are profits overstated before being realistically adjusted to account for the effects of inflation?

-- To what extent do higher profits result from real operating efficiencies as compared to paper profits from arbitrary changes in tax laws? (Tax laws and investment credits can be changed any time politicians agree to do so.)

These questions call for some sobering, and, therefore, helpful thought -- especially as to the effectiveness of government in making recessions obsolete.

A sound basis for long term prosperity can rest only on the willing exchange of goods and services in a free market with a minimum of political interference. And this we have less of each year. In matter of fact, many elements of pre-1929 "prosperity" are with us today -- only to a greater and more disturbing degree:

--continued inflation of our money supply, which distorts and makes more difficult the evaluation of business performance,

--governmental influence in the determination of wages and prices,

--tax policies which, through the coercive power of the state, take productive income from some and give it to others who are less productive.

These disturbing elements interfere with the primary benefit of a free market system: to quickly and individually reward successful risk takers and producers on the one hand, and to retard unsuccessful ones on the other. Governmental interference in this process simply transfers the burden of mistakes from individuals to society as a whole, and such interference sets in motion the distorted forces that lead to government-induced economic collapses such as we had in 1929.

If past pitfalls are to be avoided, we must allow our economy to operate on a free exchange basis that gives quick and personal reward for success and quick and personal loss for failure. A prompt return to this basic principle is our best assurance for future prosperity.

NOTHING SERIOUS

At a party a physician was complaining about all the women who approached him for advice on these occasions. "You know," he said to the man sitting beside him, "you're a lawyer, do you think I should charge them for this advice even if I give it after office hours?"

"By all means," said the lawyer. "Advice is advice."

Next day the physician received an envelope from the lawyer.

The bill read simply: "For advice--$50."

"Six thousand Missouri motorists today have a better chance to cope with our traffic problem and stay alive."

This statement highlighted the report of the first fifty Adult Driver Improvement Schools conducted by the Missouri Highway Patrol.

Colonel Hugh H. Waggoner, Superintendent of the Missouri Highway Patrol, was reporting on the Patrol's increased effort to curb the traffic accident "explosion" that has skyrocketed traffic deaths to a 13 per cent increase for the first five months of this year over last year. Last year's traffic toll set a new high in Missouri.

The Adult Driver Improvement Schools, which are now being conducted throughout the State by a team of eighteen especially trained Highway Patrol Safety Officers, are designed to make better drivers of those who attend the school.

"These schools in the general sense aren't safety meetings. We have gathered together every bit of information which we think will help drivers do a better job of driving and avoid being involved in accidents and made it into a hard hitting three and a half hour school," Waggoner explained.

In talking about the response to the school, the Colonel said that he would like to accelerate the program to reach more drivers, but manpower problems curtailed expansion at this time.

"I am confident this school can lower traffic deaths, reduce injuries and cut the economic loss from traffic accidents," he said. "We stress defensive driving, how to avoid the accident situation and how to better the chances to stay alive when in the accident situation. We have learned many driving tricks from the millions of miles our patrolmen drive each year. We are including these in our schools."

The Patrol's Driver Improvement Schools are open to the public -- there is no charge, no tests or actual driving.

H. L. Hunt Says

PUNISHMENT AND CRIME

The idea of crime and the idea of punishment go together in our minds. Yet more and more they do not go together in reality.

This is unquestionably one of the primary causes of our spiralling crime rate. Many thoughtful men believe it to be the chief cause.

The faster the crime rate rises, the more diligently some strangely misguided people labor to reduce the frequency and effectiveness of punishment for crime. The Supreme Court issues a new edict almost every week to cripple the activities and limit the authority of law enforcement officers. Judges continually lenient toward convicted criminals are applauded, while those who are more stern are condemned.

The hue and cry over the death penalty, pro and con, tends to obscure the far more important issue of lesser penalties. Very few criminals ever face the possibility of being put to death. But all of them at one time or another face the possibility of imprisonment.

Imprisonment is our chief deterrent penalty against crime. It is an effective deterrent because the one value nearly everyone holds in common is the value of freedom. To deprive a man of his freedom is a grave and drastic step; but precisely because it is drastic, it is truly effective punishment to those found guilty of assaulting and robbing their fellow men.

It is sometimes objected that imprisonment is costly. Crime is more costly. It is sometimes said criminals should have "another chance." They give their victims no second chance. When criminal guilt is proved, punishment should be unfailing.

Port in the Storm

DA NANG, South Viet Nam AP -- A small group of American pilots called "The Blue Knights" have flown more than 750,000 miles in hope of tangling with enemy MIGs.

They are members of the U. S. Air Force's 476th Tactical Fighter Squadron and their speedy chariots are F104 Skyfighters.

"We've sighted MIGs once or twice, but they wouldn't come near us," said Maj. Walter W. Irwin, Apple Valley, Calif. "To the best of our knowledge, they were North Vietnamese, not Chinese."

The Blue Knights got a hurry-up call to speed here from their California base after two MIGs shot down two U. S. F105 Thunderchief fighter bombers on a mission against North Vietnamese targets early in April.

Defending the fallen Thunderchief pilots, Maj. Irwin remarked: "It isn't that the MIGs got them were superior airplanes. The Thunderchiefs were loaded down with bombs."

On their arrival here April 19, the Blue Knights were assigned to keep the MIGs off U. S. fighter bombers.

They've done their job to perfection.

"There hasn't been a single plane of ours shot down by an enemy plane since we came over," said Irwin. "Our striking forces have been unmolested from the air."

Even so, the Blue Knights are a bit blue about the whole business.

They have spent about 1,500 hours in the air on more than 570 sorties--every one to a North Vietnamese target area--and flown three-quarters of a million miles.

But what most of them really want is to test themselves in combat against the enemy. So far the MIGs have refused to respond to the challenge.

The pilots average age is 29 to 30. At 42, Irwin, the operations officer, is the "daddy rabbit" of the outfit.

The Skyfighter pilots are proud of their plane. It flies at twice the speed of sound and carries two air-to-air Sidewinder missiles plus a 20mm "Gatling gun" that can fire more than 4,000 rounds a minute.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The ambassador representing the oldest monarchy in the world has just resigned in revolt against Haile Selassie, Conquering Lion of the Tribe of Judah, Elect of God, Emperor of Ethiopia.

The ambassador, Berhanou Dinke, long considered a fixture in the Washington Diplomatic Corps, has left his embassy and is now in seclusion. He does not plan to return to Addis Ababa but will ask the State Department for asylum. Fearful of Ethiopian government agents, Dinke has declined to make known his whereabouts.

However, he has written a book, "My Experiences in His Majesty's Government," which has been surreptitiously circulated in Ethiopia and could cause revolution.

In the book, Ambassador Dinke urges democratic reforms against a regime which he says has become too autocratic and has been suppressing libery. He is careful not to incite bodily harm to the Emperor, to whom Dinke is related by marriage, but he is critical of Haile Selassie's one-man rule.

In 1963 when the Emperor visited the United States, Ambassador Dinke was his considerate host. The two men were together frequently and no one would have dreamed that differences could have developed between them.

—SIGNS OF UNREST—

Nor have there been any indications, until recently, that Haile Selassie's throne was not as solid as the mountains which have made his kingdom one of the most independent and inaccessible in Africa. For many years it was the only independent African nation and only Mussolini's modern and well-equipped Black Shirts were able to conquer it in 1936.

At that time, Haile Selassie, a lonely figure, appeared at the League of Nations to make a personal plea to the great powers for help. No one came to his defense. And the march of the dictators continued until it engulfed half the world.

After the war, Haile Selassie returned to his throne, and for the past twenty years has appeared to be one of the most stable rulers in the world. This writer lunched with him outside Addis Ababa one year ago this month, at which time he discussed the problems of education, social reform, and democratic government. I also watched him decorate a battalion of the Ethiopia Air Force for bravery in the border skirmishes with Somalia. He seemed to have the support of the Army.

However, there were student riots in Addis Ababa last month protesting the slowness of land reform. And earlier, in 1960, a revolt was staged by the Emperor's son. The two seemed to have made up, because both were at the same table when I lunched with Haile Selassie last June.

According to Ambassador Dinke, however, the entire Cabinet was executed after this revolt, and as of today no one dares disagree with the Emperor. The Army immediately got a 50 per cent pay raise, which may explain its loyalty.

—APPEAL FOR FREEDOM—

Emperor Haile Selassie ascended the throne a young man of 38, full of reforms. He abolished slavery, reduced the power of the rases, or dukes, who had dominated the country, established schools, started building dams and reclamation projects.

But as the years passed, the young men he had sent to Paris, London and New York, to be educated, came home dissatisfied and restless. They claimed reform was not moving fast enough. Eventually they helped hatch the revolt of 1960.

Flying back from Brazil where he was on a state tour, the Emperor was bitter. "Now I am reaping the crop I have sown," he said.

Ambassador Dinke was equally bitter when he mailed his resignation to the man to whom he is related.

"This resignation," he wrote, "is submitted with the view to organizing a council of citizens to plead the cause of freedom.

"I am in a free country where I can breathe, speak and write freely while my people, haunted by fear of arrest or punishment, impose upon themselves the limitation to express their human rights. This limitation and their hunger for freedom cannot be eternal. Herbert Hoover once made this living observation: 'The spark of liberty in the mind and spirit of man cannot be long extinguished; it will break into flames that will destroy every coercion which seems to limit it.'

"To this end, I appeal to all freedom-loving people to write to the Emperor urging him NOT to deny the right of the people to air their grievances, and to respect the constitution which he himself claimed to have granted of his own free will and accord.

"As one of my countrymen, Hagos Guebre Yesus, put it, in his land reform, 'The veil is too thin to shield this fraud.' This is the time to test its sincerity."

"The country is full of criticism and bitterness," Ambassador Dinke informed me. "I have outlined the remedies in my book 'My Experiences in His Majesty's Government' which I have mailed to Ethiopia in advance of my resignation. If they are not confiscated, copies of the book should be in the hands of many Ethiopian leaders this minute.

"I hope the book will do some good."

Dinke said he planned to remain in seclusion for some time, near either New York or Washington, but would keep in touch with Ethiopian leaders who shared his political views.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Union Turns Capitalist, Buys Corporation, Retains Old Management, Makes Profits, Saves Jobs.

New York: -- The other day Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz told the miniature hatters' convention that Adlai Stevenson had introduced its chief, Alex Rose, to him as "the wisest man you'll ever know."

"And," added the urbane Wirtz, "I've heard two Presidents (of the U. S.) since then say the same thing."

This concentration of eclat at the millinery makers' Lilliputian convention, and the parade of some of the nation's most powerful personalities drew this itinerant correspondent from the Washington trenches.

Vice-presidents and Cabinet members bearing messages from U. S. Presidents are as rare at small gatherings as the disappearing Nene, the female Hawaiian goose.

They came to pay homage to a powerful liberal vote-maker. But liberal though he is, Mr. Rose, the fascinating record shows, is eclectic and has endorsed Republicans--not all of them of the liberal wing.

Perhaps the best profile of this strange man, almost unknown west of the Hudson, though he has helped make more presidents than Col. House and Jim Farley, is in a rarely told hatters' union adventure. It proves that Mr. Rose is a wise man indeed, for he rarely permits his ideology to muddle its way into interfering with more bread and butter for his 35,000 members and better profits for the manufacturers who employ them.

The clearest view of this union venture could have been obtained at an old-fashioned meeting in the Town Hall of Amesbury, Mass. Actually it was a meeting of the stockholders of the Merrimac Hat Co. which, just six years ago, was hit by competition from the felt hat plants of Communist Czechoslovakia and appeared to be going out of business.

However, last month's shareholders' meeting was as vigorous and profitable as the company is today. What happened in the intervening six years?

In 1959, when Alex Rose and his colleagues in the United Hatters, Cap and Millinery Workers International learned that the Merrimac firm was about to go out of business and that the small New England town would suffer, the union bought the company.

The International raised most of the purchase money. The local Amesbury hatters raised an additional sum. And the townspeople bought stock as well.

But the union did not dismiss the management. Instead, company president, Hans Rie was asked to stay on as chief executive. He was told to retain such "associates and assistants in executive posts as he felt could contribute to the welfare of the enterprise." The union-controlled board of directors encouraged the development of new and attractive materials for sales promotion.

Management in this labor-sponsored hat company thus had an even freer hand in using its talents and capacities than it had previously.

All stockholders' interests have been treated with meticulous care. With management's talents now being nursed by the labor people, and the international union's leaders urging its local members to greater efficiency, the firm has prospered.

Stockholders therefore now receive an annual dividend of $2 a share -- equal to that paid by A. T. & T. or Boeing. Par value of each share now is $50.

With the union behind him, president Rie -- a specialist in "superior quality" felt hat production -- now is retrieving the market from the Czech salesmen.

Thus, in addition to the dividends per share, there is a special "dividend" per worker. Each employe gets a two per cent bonus at year's end. This is the equivalent of a full week's extra pay. So everybody's happy -- the management, the stockholders, the employes, the local union, and the townspeople.

And how does a labor-owned corporation bargain with the local union of the international which owns the firm? Exactly as do labor and private management--sometimes loud, sometimes bitter, always tough.

Thus jobs, wages, profits and community prosperity are preserved. There was good news in the Town Hall that night.

It's a wise man who knows what side his members' bread is buttered. Small union. But big moral.

Miss Carol Werneck

Miss Carol Werneck Is Installed As Honored Queen Of Job's Daughters

Miss Carol Werneck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adron Werneck, was crowned Honored Queen of Bethel number 27 of the International Order of Job's Daughters Saturday evening, June 5, at the Masonic Temple in a most impressive and beautiful ceremony.

The temple was simply yet graciously decorated with a large spray of purple carnations and white gladioli accented with green foliage and touched by "baby breath." An eye-catching purple and white satin ribbon completed the arrangement. Miss Werneck chose purple and white, the colors of the organization.

The ceremony began promptly as Mrs. Aquilla Grimes, Bethel Guardian, was escorted into the room by Dana Garner, Installing Senior Custodian and Carolyn McCord, Installing Junior Custodian.

Mrs. Grimes formally opened the installation ceremony and the Reverend Joseph Wagner, rector of the First Methodist Church, gave the invocation before Miss Rita Mathis, Installing Honored Queen, was escorted into the Bethel by Mr. Aquilla Grimes, Associate Guardian of the Bethel.

Miss Mathis gracefully accepted her position in the East, and asked that the other Installing Officers be escorted into the Bethel. After they were escorted into the room, Miss Mathis introduced the following officers: Installing Guide, Miss Carol Miller; Installing Marshall, Miss Katie Blanton; Installing Chaplain, Miss Becky Turner; Installing Junior Custodian, Miss Carolyn McCord; Installing Senior Custodian, Mrs. David Garner; Installing Recorder, Miss Jane Wyman; Installing Musician, Mrs. Elmer Poage; and Installing soloist, Mrs. M. L. Canedy and Miss Jeannie Winters.

Immediately following the introduction of the Installing Officers, the elected and appointed officers were escorted into the Bethel by the Installing Guide and Marshall.

After the entrance of the newly elected and appointed officers, the Holy Bible was reverently brought into the Bethel by Installing Chaplain, Miss Becky Turner. The Bethel Choir entered the room just ahead of Miss Turner and formed an aisle of honor on either side of the altar, where the Bible was to be placed. As the Installing Chaplain knelt at the altar to open the Holy Bible, the lights were lowered and Miss Jeannie Winters hushed the crowd by beautifully singing "He."

The Installing Marshall presented the flag of our country west of the altar and after a tribute to the National Emblem was made by the Installing Honored Queen, the "Star Spangled Banner," was sung by everyone present. The Marshall placed the flag in the East and the crowd repeated the Pledge of Allegiance.

After the crowd was greeted by the Installing Honored Queen and after a prayer was given by the Installing Chaplain, the Bethel officers were introduced as follows: Honored Queen, Carol Werneck; Senior Princess, Melinda Morrison; Junior Princess, Becky Sloan; Guide, Debbie Ingram; Marshall, Pricilla Righter; Recorder, Pam Marsh; Treasurer, Jodie Graff; Chaplain, Beth Montgomery; Librarian, Judi Pike; Musician, Dixie Wheeler; Assistant Musician, Carolyn Hill; First Messenger, Debbie Couch; Second Messenger, Debbie Collins; Third Messenger, Sherri Sprout; Fourth Messenger, Elizabeth McCollum; Fifth Messenger, Marsha Morrison; Inner Guard, Karen Mills; Outer Guard, Carolyn Lucy; Senior Custodian, Margaret Morrison; and Junior Custodian, Katie Stallings.

Preceding the obligation which was given to the officers by the Installing Honored Queen, the lights were dimmed and Miss Jeannie Winters sang a very appropriate song, "You'll Never Walk Alone."

Miss Mathis, after giving the obligation, installed all of the Bethel officers in due form.

Miss Carol Werneck was escorted to the altar by the Installing Guide and Marshall and, there they caused her to quietly kneel. Miss Mathis approached the altar and made appropriate remarks before she placed a glittering crown on Miss Werneck's head and invested her with the Cape of Royal Purple Velvet. Mrs. Canedy sang a very original song to the new queen after which Miss Werneck's cousin, Linda Werneck, presented her with a gift. Miss Werneck's father proudly escorted her to the East where she was presented with the gavel of her office after the Installing Recorder read the proclamation.

Miss Werneck took charge of the ceremony and immediately went into the ceremony of Escorts and Honors. First to be escorted were Miss Werneck's ministers, the Reverend Joseph Wagner and the Reverend Willard Spencer, who after being introduced were given honorable seats in the East.

Junior Past Honored Queen, Miss Becky Turner, was escorted west of the altar where Miss Werneck presented her with one dozen red roses and her Past Honored Queen's Jewel. Mrs. Canedy sang a song to the retiring Honored Queen, after which Mrs. Grimes presented Miss Turner with a token of her appreciation and Mr. Grimes presented Miss Werneck with a token of his appreciation.

At this time, Miss Sharon Shain and Miss Carol Kim, Bethel choir members were escorted west of the altar where the new Honored Queen presented them with gifts. Both girls are moving and the Honored Queen offered the Bethel's best wishes.

The ceremony of Escorts and Honors continued with the escorting and introducing of the evening's Installing Officers, and, with the escorting and introducing of the Bethel Guardians, Mr. and Mrs. Grimes.

The Masons and the Eastern Star were acknowledged and sincerely thanked before the Honored Queen's family was escorted to the East.

Miss Werneck closed the ceremony of escorts, honors, and introduction and extended her gratitude to everyone present.

The American Flag was retired by the Marshall, Pricilla Righter, and the girls went into the traditional closing ceremony. While singing "Onward Christian Soldiers," the Job's Daughters formed the Cross of Jesus and knelt to sing, "Nearer My God to Thee." The Reverend Willard Spencer gave the benediction and the Bethel Guardian formally closed the ceremony.

Immediately following the Installation, the Job's Daughters were entertained by the Travelers at a Hootenanny in the basement of the temple.

Cards Split Twin-Bill With Braves, Win Nightcap 12 to 2

ST. LOUIS AP -- Both Milwaukee and the St. Louis Cardinals went away happy Sunday from a bitter rhubarb in which catcher Gene Oliver of the Braves was ejected twice in one inning, and the Cardinals lodged a protest.

Milwaukee Manager Bobby Bragan, who also was booted out with pitcher Hank Fischer in the inning, was pleased because his second place club won three of four games with the Cardinals, including 4-1 victory in the first game of Sunday's doubleheader.

Cardinal Manager Red Schoendienst was happy because his team won the rhubarb-favored nightcap, 12-2, getting 15 hits and Schoendienst hoped - cracking a slump.

"I hope the team gets a lift out of this," Schoendienst said. "All the balls were falling in there today. I think everybody loosened up."

The victory was only the fourth in 18 games for the Cardinals. Hits were painfully scarce until the second game explosion Sunday.

Bragan walked up and down his rather quiet dressing room, shouting "Five out of seven's okay with me" and "I'll settle for three-out-of-four in this town anytime."

The fourth inning of Sunday's second game was a scorekeeper's nightmare. The first rhubarb started with a play at the plate in which umpire Stan Landes called St. Louis' Dick Groat safe.

Brave catcher Gene Oliver leaped to an argument with Landes, letting the ball roll into the dust while Cardinal Jerry Buchek trotted from first to third. Oliver was charged with an error for that.

Oliver was thrown out and pitched his mitt high into the air. But he went to the dugout, donned his catcher's mask, and returned to the field.

Landers walked back to the plate to resume the game, looked at Oliver, did a double take, and threw the catcher out again.

Then Schoendienst set up a beef, contending Bragan had gone to the mound twice in the same inning and should be forced to relieve pitcher Fischer. Landes wouldn't allow this and Schoendienst played the game under protest.

Two plays later, Lou Brock doubled to right and Cardinal Julian Javier bumped into Fischer as he rounded third.

Javier was out at home but umpire Augie Donatelli allowed the run, explaining Fischer had obstructed Javier.

Then came the big rhubarb in which Fischer and Bragan were tossed out.

"I saw him coming at me and tried to move to my left," Fischer said after the game.

"He struck his elbow out and went out of his way to get me, and the ump said I ran into him."

Javier had another version. "I make my turn at third a little wide," he said. "I was just trying to get home and he (Fischer) was in my way. He didn't do it deliberately."

Nicklaus Man To Watch In U. S. Open at St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) —Regardless of what Joe Dey did to the U.S. Open course at Bellerive Country Club during the weekend, the man to watch when the tournament opens Thursday still will be Jack Nicklaus.

Dey, executive director of the U.S. Golf Association, surveyed the course Saturday and then ordered the fairways widened on all but one of the par 4 holes and on both par 5s.

"Regardless of what you may have read in magazines or what the whole country seems to believe," he said, "we want the golf course to be playable and fair."

This should not make much difference to Nicklaus, the favorite to finish first in the field of 150. Nicklaus, the top money-winner on the pro tour, has scored well in practice over the 7,191-yard course, longest in Open history.

Nicklaus and the rest of the tour will practice on the course today throgh Wednesday.

They will have an easier time of it after Day's plotting, but the distance, numerous traps, and large, undulating, fast greens still will make it a difficult test. Par is 70, but few predict the winner will break 280.

Dey said the average increases in width were from five to six yards.

"What we're doing in general is cutting back the Bermuda rough so that the fairways are mostly their original width," he said. "On No. 7, it was only 21 yards wide from the edge of the bunker to the rough. We think the fairway ought to be at least 30 yards wide."

No. 7 is a 401-yard par 4.

Dey called the general condition of the course "wonderful".

"Everything has come just as we hoped it would," he said.

Chamberlain Fined $750 By N.B.A.

NEW YORK (AP) — Wilt Chamberlain, star center of the Philadelphia 76ers, has been fined $750 by National Basketball Association President Walter Kennedy because of a magazine article which appeared under Chamberlain's byline.

Chamberlain's name appeared last April over a story in Sports Illustrated, titled: "My Life in a Bush League." Kennedy said the article, critical of NBA owners and coaches, "contained many wholly inaccurate statements of fact, all of which drew conclusions from an erroneous premise."

The Treasury is seeking a substitute for silver in coins. How about trying two-way stretch material?

Big Red Signs Three More Draft Choices

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 14 -- Three more football Cardinal draft choices came to terms today, giving the Big Red a total of 11 of a possible 14 draft choices signed for 1965.

One more, flanker Buddy French of Alabama, is still not committed.

Defensive end Frank Roy of Utah, fullback Steve Murphy of Northwestern and tight end Tony Giacobazzi of Iowa are the three latest Cardinal rookies. They will report to the team's Lake Forest, Illinois, training camp on July 19.

Roy, the Big Red's seventh draft choice, is 6-3 and weighs 240. Murphy, drafted 13th, is 6-0 and weighs 215; and Giacobazzi, the club's 20th selection, is 6-3 and weighs 230.

The Cardinals made 20 selections during the meeting last November 28, but six are "futures" with another year of collegiate eligibility. This group includes halfback Johnny Roland of Missouri, tackle Glenn Hines of Arkansas, quarterback Jimmy Heidel of Mississippi, end Chuck Drulis Jr., of Duke, halfback Harlan Lane of Baylor and halfback Roy Shivers of Utah State.

Two of the Cardinals' choices, quarterback Joe Namath of Alabama and halfback Bob Bonds of San Jose State, have signed with other teams.

The Big Red signed draft choices, by round, are:

Our Michael Leading Two Year Old

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The way things are going Johnny Sellers has his mount for next year's Kentucky Derby. The name of the colt is Our Michael the leading contender for the 2-year-old championship of 1965.

Sellers, who won the 1961 Derby astride Carry Back, has ridden Our Michael in all of his five races to date at five different tracks.

Result: four victories and one second with the latest triumph coming last Saturday in the 5½-furlong Christiana Stakes at Delaware Park.

In the Christiana, Our Michael spotted New Windsor a two-length lead, then drew out in the last furlong to beat Flame Tree by 2½ lengths as New Windsor faded to third.

The impressive performance by Our Michael overshadowed Marshua's victory over What a Treat in the Coaching Club American Oaks at Aqueduct and Carpenter's Ruler's nose triumph over Terry's Secret in the Argonaut Stakes at Hollywood Park.

In Saturday's other features Gummo won the Swaps Handicap at Arlington Park, Prairie Schooner scored in the Macomber Handicap at Suffolk Downs and Reverse took the Michigan Derby at Hazel Park.

June is busting out all over —with vacationing school kids.

Dan Sikes Wins Cleveland Open

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer

CLEVELAND AP -- Easy-going Dan Sikes knew what he was doing when he rolled in a 35-foot putt on the final hole to capture the $135,000 Cleveland Opne Golf Championship.

"I had to make that putt. . . who wants to play off with Tony Lema?" the rangy Sikes quipped after he whipped Champagne Tony by one stroke Sunday.

The end came dramatically when Sikes, who hadn't won a tournament since the Doral, Fla., Open in 1963, sank his pressure putt from the edge of the 18th green.

It was his fifth birdie of the round and gave him a five-under par 66 on the Highland Park 6,821-yard layout.

Sikes, who started the final round three strokes back of the 31 - year - old Lema, finished with a 72-hole total of 272--12 strokes under par.

It was a great comeback for the 24-year-old Sikes, a non practicing attorney, whose best previous effort this year was a second place finish in the Los Angeles Open.

Lema, who failed in his bid to win a second straight Cleveland Open, also lost the $25,000 first prize, biggest purse on the tour this year.

Australia's Bruce Devlin, a consistent money-winner, kept the pressure on the leaders right to the end with a sizzling 65, best round of the tournament.

The 27-year-old Devlin, who putted brilliantly, started the day six strokes off the pace and wound up third with a 274.

Bert Weaver's 71 gave him 279 for fourth place while Mike Souchak, Julius Boros, Dick Sikes and Tommy Aaron deadlocked for fifth with 280s.

Other top finishers included Bob Rosburg with a 281 and Arnold Palmer, Randy Glover, Billy Maxwell and Gordon Jones with 282s.

John Deere And Malone & Hyde Win In Musial League

In Little League games Saturday night, John Deere rolled past Collin's in the first game and Malone & Hyde went all the way to beat K.S.I.M. in the second. John Deere took 5 runs in the first inning and increased the margin as the game went on, to beat Collin's with a score of 20 to 12. Hornback led Collin's in their struggle as he whacked 3 for 3. Figley was the winning pitcher for John Deere while he gave the loss to L. Miller.

Malone & Hyde walked over K.S.I.M. in the second game as they could produce only one hit and manage nine runs compared to their opponent's 13 hits and 22 runs. Eisenbach, the winning pitcher, held K.S.I.M. to their lone hit. Keefer pounded that hit in the first frame for K.S.I.M. Pratt and Eisenbach both had hits for every time they stepped to the plate. Tiechman was the losing pitcher.

Betterment For Cities

Cities entered in the Missouri Community Betterment Program tend to attract new industries and enjoy a notable number of industrial expansions.

This was revealed in a recent analysis of new industrial plant locations and manufactiring expansions in Missouri during 1964, compiled by the Missouri Division of Commerce and Industrial Development.

The study shows that one out of every four communities in the CID sponsored community improvement program last year acquired at least one new industry compared to a state-wide record of one new industry for each eleven communities. One city in the program announced the acquisition of five new industries during the year.

The analysis shows that member cities of the Community Betterment Program captured 47 per cent of the new industries that located in the state during the period.

There were 160 Missouri towns and cities in the Program during 1964 with 40 of the number acquiring new industries. Five new plant locations were announced for the city of Bonne Terre which resulted in 89 new jobs being created. Sedalia ranked second with four new enterprises announced that will employ up to 90 persons. Cape Girardeau, Hannibal, Joplin, Kirksville, Lee's Summit, Mountain Grove, Neosho, Republic, and Sikeston each announced the acquisition of two industries with a total of 316 new jobs created. Twenty-nine cities in the program acquired one industry during the year with new jobs created expected to exceed 1,385.

There was also a healthy rise in plant expansions in cities that participated in the Community Betterment Program during 1964. The Division of Commerce announced that 56 communities in the state reported plant expansions last year with 30 of the number being members of the Missouri Community Betterment Program.

Plant expansions last year in cities belonging to the program created in excess of 477 additional jobs in the communities, Gene Clack, Director of the Missouri Community Betterment Program announced today. "This analysis indicates cities with a self-improvement program and striving to attain established goals are apt to prosper," he added.

Immoral Law

(Editorial in "The Wall Street Journal")

When President Johnsor last Monday asked Congress for a new law to safeguard the voting rights of Negro citizens he rested his case on the Constitution and on a basic principle of morality.

What he has now proposed that the Congress do is enact a law which would violate that Constitution he asks us not to flout and, more, which is itself immoral.

If you think not so, consider:

The Administration bill offers a formula — a complicated one, which we will come to in a moment -- to prohibit certain States from using any test of a citizen's ability to read and write our language as a qualification for voting.

The argument for doing this is the 15th Amendment to the Constitution which provides, clearly enough, that neither the Federal Government nor any State shall deprive a citizen of his vote "on account of" his race or color.

But the proposed bill does not stop with providing means against the violation of the 15th Amendment. It does not aim at insuring that any such State literacy test shall be fairly drawn and impartially administered so that it may not be used as an excuse to deprive anyone of his vote "on account of" his race.

The effect -- and indeed the purpose -- would be to abolish such tests entirely in the affected States. And that flies squarely in the face of this self-same Constitution which the President professes to uphold.

The very first article of that Constitution authorizes the individual States to decide the qualifications of voters in both federal and State elections, subject only to the proviso that whoever is deemed qualified to vote for "the most numerous branch of the State legislature" is automatically qualified to vote in federal elections.

Making this a State function was no casual decision. It was reaffirmed in identical language in the 17th Amendment -- adopted, incidentally, more than 40 years after the 15th Amendment, which provided that all such qualifications should be impartially applied among all citizens.

This principle in the Constitution has been repeatedly upheld and affirmed by the U.S. Supreme Court, not merely in dusty antiquity but as recently as 1959 by judges presently sitting upon that bench.

Now we are well aware that there are a good many people, and perhaps the President is included, who oppose any literacy requirement. They say that a man's illiteracy is irrelevant to the question of having his judgment counted in public affairs. No man can quarrel with the right of such people to argue their case, and, if persuasive, to alter the Constitution so as to prohibit them.

But the requirement that voters be able to read and write is by no means restricted to those Southern States now the object of this special legislation. Many others --including New York State-- require that qualification, as the Constitution entitles them to do.

If it is immoral, as the President says, to deprive a qualified citizen of his right to vote "under color of a literacy test," is it moral to violate one part of the Constitution under the color of upholding another which is in no wise in conflict?

Nor does the question end there, for what this bill proposes to do is to set up a double standard. Some States would be permitted to keep their literacy requirement. Others would not.

The formula prescribed is that of a ratio between the number of persons of voting age within a State and the numbers of voters in an election. If 50 per cent or more of the voting age inhabitants do vote, then the State is absolved. The federal authorities will keep out, and the State may set its own qualifications for voters, including literacy tests. Otherwise, no.

This formula has been carefully devised so that in practice it is expected to apply only to six states, Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi, Georgia, South Carolina and Virginia. In these states the federal authorities would not only have the right to supervise voter registration but to abolish the voter qualifications they don't like.

A few moments reflection on this formula will suggest such weird paradoxes, and the possibility of such strange discriminations, as to stagger the mind.

A minor one is that a strict application of the formula would probably make it applicable to Alaska. However, a way has been devised to exempt it, which as much as anything suggests that the intent is not to write a general rule of law but to subject certain States to special laws.

Not so minor, but certainly weird, is the provision that a person once registered as a voter by the federal authorities will be stricken from the list if he fails to vote "at least once during three consecutive years while listed." In short, you have to vote or you can't.

Of more consequence is the fact that if we have this law a citizen, white or Negro, can be entitled to a vote in Alabama no matter how illiterate he is, or for that matter even if he is a moron. But if the same citizen, white or Negro, lives in New York state he will not be entitled to vote.

This would create a truly ingenious paradox. The illiterate citizen, Negro or otherwise, sould find himself with more "rights" in Alabama and her five outcast sister States than in the great State of New York. More, the educational level of the voting citizens of Alabama, the low level of which is part of the general complaint against it by civil rights leaders, would be further reduced. And this by federal sanction.

Unfortunately, the irony is not funny. Beneath the paradox lies a serious question. Is it moral that our national laws should apply one rule to one State and another to another requiring that the people of one State abolish qualifications for voters while the people of another State may uphold their standards?

Nor is that the end of the consequences of that weird formula. Recall that it permits the Federal Government to put all this machinery in motion, the takeover of the whole voting procedure by federal authorities, only when the voting percentage of a State falls below 50 per cent of the voting age population. If there was ever a device open to what President Johnson calls manipulation, this is it.

So long as a State contrives that one-half of its adults vote, it is free of the formula. This will not be overlooked by ingenious men who can contrive many things when justice is measured by percentages.

And this brings us to what we think is the fundamental immorality of this proposed law, unintentioned though it may be by those who drew it.

Any citizen, white or Negro, has the right to be treated by the law like all other citizens. If he has to meet qualifications to vote -- age or any other -- they must be only the qualifications asked of all. If he qualifies like any other he has the right to vote, and to deny him that right is to deny him what is inalienably his.

It makes no difference whether 99 per cent of his neighbors vote or whether only 20 per cent do. It makes no difference whether he has voted in the last three elections, or in none at all before he presents himself at the polls. His right is to vote or not vote as he pleases.

PRAYER
For Today From The Upper Room

Monday, June 14, 1965
My servant Caleb, because He had another spirit with him, and hath followed me fully, him will I bring into the land whereinto he went; and his seed shall possess it. (Proverbs 14:24)
PRAYER: We thank Thee, O Lord, for the great biblical characters who believed in Thee and remained faithful in spite of all situations. Grant me, O Lord, to trust in Thee and follow Thee fully, as others have done. For the Savior's sake. Amen.

Symbolic Letters

Meaning of the X and P religious symbols is explained thusly: Chi and Rho are the first two letters of the Greek word XPISTOS (Christos) and so often are used as an abbreviation for the name of Christ.

Although the Frisco station has been completed and is ready for occupancy down to the smallest detail, the official opening will not be held until sometime next week, according to station agent Tom Malone. Delay is being cuased by the grounds not being completely filled in, Mr. Malone says.

Mr. and Mrs. John Powell and children left Monday morning for Salt Lake City, Utah, and other western points. They plan to spend the next two months vacationing. Mr. Powell has resigned his position as bookkeeper with the Farmer's Supply Co. J. E. Green, who until recently was connected with Stubbs Motor Co., will be connected with the Farmer's Supply Co., in Mr. Powell's place.

Sportsmen's Park with its new large dance pavillion and its bathing facilities, will open Tuesday night with music by Pickell Cullison's seven-piece orchestra. The new amusement park, which is located about one mile east of Sikeston, is being equipped by C. B. Watson and business associates of Cairo. The pavilion will be under the floor management of Ernest Harper on dance nights. The pavilion is also equipped for moving picutres and vaudeville. The bathing beach is an old swimming hole, which is to be glorified with a white sand beach, boats, bath houses, a wharf and diving boards. The water is the natural underground springs, which have filled in the cavity left after many years of sand dredging.

The fire department rolled across Center Street Wednesday afternoon a trifle too late to save the large frame building, which had caught on fire. The house, which was owned by L. M. Stallcup and G. B. Greer, was formerly the Darby home and was very old. John Brumit had the place rented and his household furnishings were a complete loss.

Armed Forces

ABILENE, Tex. -- Lloyd D. Rice, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Rice of 309 Second St., East Prairie, Mo., has been promoted to airman second class in the U. S. Air Force at Dyess AFB, Tex.

Airman Rice is an air policeman in a unit that supports the Strategic Air Command mission of keeping the nation's intercontinental missiles and jet bombers on constant alert.

The airman attended Anniston (Mo.) High School. His wife, Patricia, is the daughter of Mrs. Bob Cade of 207 W. Olive St., East Prairie.

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark. —Airman First Class Gary L. Avitts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cheslie E. Avitts of 400 E. Eighth St., Portageville, Mo., has been selected Outstanding Maintenance Man of the Month at Blytheville AFB, Ark.

Airman Avitts was chosen for the honor in recognition of his exemplary conduct and duty performance. He is an aircraft radio repairman in a unit which supports the Strategic Air Command mission of keeping the nation's intercontinental missiles and jet bombers on constant alert.

The airman is a graduate of Portageville High School. His wife, Gwendoly, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Taylor of Hayti, Mo.

Longbow's Effectiveness

The famous English longbow was from five to six feet in height and an archer could shoot six aimed shots a minute at an effective range of 200 yards.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I was upset by the letter from the woman who wanted to tie her husband's jaws together with a silk stocking to keep him from snoring. Some women may think I'm nutty as a fruitcake but the sound of my husband snoring is the sweetest sound I know. It tells me that he is at my side--where he belongs.

Not only do I enjoy hearing him snore, but I love to look at his face when he is asleep. He looks so much like our son when he was a baby. There is a quality of innocence in his face that reduces me to mush. His hair is mussed up, like a little boy's, and his lips have a mischievous curve.

My husband has no idea I like to watch him sleep so please don't pring my intitials or the name of this city. Just sign me. -- MRS. CONTENTED

Dear Mrs.: You sound like a lady in love. How lovely--for both of you.

Dear Ann Landers: When I was 17 I fell for a handsome guy who played drums in a well-known band. I was stubborn, foolish and full of romantic fantasies.

When I became pregnant I was glad because I thought sure Ed would marry me. I was wrong. He said if I tried to force a marraige he'd swear the baby wasn't his and get two of his buddies to testify in court that his story could be true.

A friend of my older brother heard of my trouble and asked me to marry him. He said he had always been in love with me and wanted to take care of me and the child. I agreed.

It is not true that you can't learn to love a person. I learned to love my husband and I'd put our marriage up against anyone's. Ed's child is now four years old. And I now have a little girl.

The drummer boy called yesterday from Detroit. He is playing a job here next week and wants to see me and "his son." He says he has never been able to forget me and now he wants to patch things up. When I told him "No", he said he has legal rights. Does he? I am so confused and frightened I don't know what to do. He is calling again next week. Please give me some advice. --BAD PAST

Dear Past: The drummer boy has no legal rights. When he calls again tell him to take his drum and beat it.

Dear Ann Landers: I want you to know before you read this letter that I am no kid. I'm a married woman. My friends tell me I am behaving like a 6-year-old. Am I?

My little dog was very dear to me. I thought more of Pike than I do of most of my friends.

Last week Poke became ill. I was in bed with the flu and could not take him to the vet, so I asked my sister to take him. Poke died on the way to the hospital.

I was so attached to Poke I can't stop thinking about him. I find myself getting his food and listening for his scratching at the door. My friends have told me to get another dog. I'm afraid I couldn't bear to go through this agony again. What do you say?--HOUSTON

Dear Houston: Life is full of risks. Those who are afraid to make an emotional investment for fear of being hurt cheat themselves of the most meaningful part of living.

Your suffering, in a sense, is a measure of the joy Poke brought to you. If he hadn't meant a great deal you wouldn't be so bereft. Get another dog. You'll be glad you did.

Parents are people--they can be right and they can be wrong. To help understand their viewpoint and to promote harmony at home, write for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents." enclosing with your request 20¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Increase Calls For Choppers After Rains

KENNETT -- The Missouri State Employment Service reports that excessive rains in the Bootheel have increased demands for cotton choppers 30 per cent above the anticipated needs and that the choppers are receiving wages between 60 and 80 cents per hour.

The Dunklin County strawberry harvest ended last week and 60 laborers from Texas were referred by the Kennett State Employment Office to Michigan for work there.

The farm labor bulletin, released by the Missouri Division of Employment Security, pointed out that in the Sikeston area there is a shortage of workers temporarily because of the excessive shower activity in that section and the failure of pre-emergence weed chemicals to control grass in cotton fields. Wages in some Sikeston localities are the highest since 1959 for cotton chopping. By about June 14 this situation is expected to return to a normal status.

The Farm Labor Information Station and Rest Camp on Sikeston Route Two served 820 migrants during the week ending May 30. Of this number 809 were from Texas, seven from Arkansas and four from Alabama. When they departed, 41 were enroute to Illinois, 160 to Indiana, 554 to Michigan, 61 to Ohio and four remained to Missouri. To date, 3,711 persons have used the camp facilities this year. This number is 308 below the comparable date last year.

The Poplar Bluff area report states that too much rain has been falling there and all crops need plowing and chopping. Some farmers are paying 75 cents an hour for cotton choppers and the demand is pressing for farm hands and cotton choppers.

Cotton chopping has become general over most of Pemiscot County with the demand for choppers increasing daily. It is reported that farmers are competing for available labor at pick-up points.

The demand for farm labor continues to be heavy in the Cape Girardeau area also. The situation there has been balanced with a surplus of inexperienced single male workers, ages 16 to 20, with the closing of high school and college.

Morehouse News

Cleddis Huffman was mowing his lawn Tuesday afternoon after work and a piece of rusty wire went in his leg above the knee. The doctor was unable to get it out and he has taken pencillin, tetanus shot and also an X-ray and was unable to work the remainder of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Abernathy and family and Mrs. Barbara West and baby attended the cemetery decoration Sunday at McGres Chapel near Lutesville.

Mrs. Anna Brown, 93, returned home Friday after spending four weeks in the Sikeston Hospital, suffering from a severe heart attack.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Clark attended the graduation of their grandson, Timothy Lee, Thursday night from the eighth grade at McKinzie Junior High in St. Louis and their granddaughter, Sharon Lee, who graduated from Afton High School Friday night. The latter suffered a mild heart attack and spent the weekend in the Lutheran Hospital in St. Louis. She had a severe heart attack two years ago.

Mrs. Eleanor Fox, Misses Thelma and Nellie Reynolds attended the Sikeston order of Eastern Star Lodge Thursday night at the Masonic Temple where the District Deputy, Mrs. Lela Maitland, was introduced.

Mrs. Artie Heath, Sunday School teacher, and her helper, Mrs. Carl McKnight, gave her Beginner's Class a picnic Sunday at the Assembly of God Church. Those attending were Mrs. Louis Driner and daughter, Nancy, Steve McKnight, Darlene and Phyllis and Sonja Heath.

The Vacation Bible School is in the second week at the Morehouse Methodist Church, with a good enrollment.

Mrs. Hazel Saulters underwent surgery Saturday at the Lucy Lee Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

Mrs. Marvalene Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Launius and John of Morehouse, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sloan and Mrs. Allie Stroud of Sikeston, Claude Hunt and Mr. and Mrs. Bud Hunt and daughter of St. Louis, attended the cemetery association held Sunday at the Walker's Church in Bloomfield.

It takes a lot of "outside" help to get this year's big telephone job done...

This year Southwestern Bell is investing nearly $1 million a day in an intensified construction effort to make your telephone service (already the most modern and reliable in the world) even better.

These construction dollars, pouring into communities large and small, account for some 17,500 jobs among the hundreds of firms which sell supplies, services and materials to the telephone company.

These jobs mean more paydays for secretaries, accountants, architects, brickmasons, carpenters, engineers, truck drivers, bulldozer operators, ditch diggers—thousands of people who aren't telephone company employees.

There's another tangible benefit, too. Because hundreds of individual projects affect virtually every telephone exchange we serve, the economic impact in these communities will be significant and widespread.

That's how Southwestern Bell's construction program works to help build a more prosperous America. You, personally, will benefit through even better telephone service. "Your Town, USA" benefits from a surge of new dollars into the local economy.

Fireworks And Fun Planned For July 5

BLOOMFIELD -- A gigantic night fireworks display, music, games and food will be the big attractions again this year at the annual Bloomfield Fourth of July Picnic.

Subject to minor changes and additions, the entire program was worked out by men at a meeting in the new Bank of Bloomfield civic assembly room.

In charge of the meeting were John Davis and Bill Fulkerson, co-chairmen of the ways and means committee, who made the assignments and outlined the program and the duties of the program committee.

In order to raise funds to pay for the entertainment and prizes, the ways and means committee appointed Fred Stoll and Fred Koenig to sell advertising space in The Vindicator to the business firms in Bloomfield, a plan used last year.

James Spain was named chairman of the games committee and charged with the duties of buying prizes, setting up stands and getting his assistants.

Tom Hewgley was made chairman of the games for youngsters, including two baseball games between the top Little League and the top Pony League teams. He also was asked to see if other children's games could be arranged.

Charles Christian was named chairman of the popcorn and lemonade stand.

The Lions Club was given the job of operating the Sno-Cone stand.

Mack Scism and Charles Graham will be in charge of the electric light and power facilities.

Dick Hart was named chairman of the musical entertainment committee. This committee will try to obtain a band for the afternoon and one for the evening to provide dance music for teenagers and possibly gospel singers.

Co-chairmen for the food committee are Don Gibbs, Elmer Hopkins and James Pepper. They are to provide the chickens for the barbecue dinner and the provisions for the sandwich stands.

The hamburger stand will be operated by the Amvets.

Bill Fulkerson, C. L. Rudder and Marvin Smith will be in charge of the chicken barbecue dinner operation.

Bloyce Unger and Harry Norman were given two details; to head the finance committee and to be in charge of the ticket sales for the barbecue chicken dinners.

Bob Gaines is charged with preparing the park grounds before and during the picnic, using the fire truck equipment to keep down dust if necessary.

Elmer Spangler was named chairman of the fireworks committee. His committee will set off the fireworks displays July 5, the date of the picnic.

Alvin Corbin and Fred Koenig are co-chairmen of the grounds committee. This year the plans are to have the stands erected in the form of a midway, giving a carnival atmosphere to the picnic.

Because July 4 falls on a Sunday this year Independence Day will be observed July 5. The annual picnic will be on that date.

Purchases Town, Population 50

MENLO PARK, Calif. AP--In the sagebrush and jack-rabbit country of lonely northeastern Navada, Kenneth Krueger, a train - weary San Francisco Bay area commuter, found the little town of Currie - population 50 - for sale.

It was just what he and his wife Jeannette had been looking for. So they bought it with their life savings of $85,000.

Tuesday, Kreuger, 45, and his wife will pull up stakes at their apartment here and point their station wagon east for Currie.

The ex-suburbanites are assured of a cordial reception. Krueger, until last week motor vehicle inspector for Pacific Telephone & Tellegraph Co. in San Francisco, automatically will become the town mayor, sheriff, fire chief, ranger, assessor and landlord.

That's because he not only bought the town's 75 acres but its few houses and businesses as well. Krueger and his wife will run the general store, the service station, a bar and a trailer park.

Until 1900 Currie was a railhead for cattle and sheep growers. Now the livestock goes to market in trucks but Currie still caters to hunters and fishermen. It lies at the foot of the towering Goshute and Ruby mountains whose slopes abound in elk and deer and whose streams and tumble with trout.

A blink of the eye and you're past it on U. S. 93, 76 miles north of Ely.

The Kruegers don't know exactly when they got the yen to flee suburbia.

But, Krueger says, "five years ago, on our vacations, we began probing all the desolate areas of California. We were hunting for a spot where, if you wanted to make it as such, you could practically live the year 1859 all over again."

For various reasons the land they saw in California didn't appeal.

Last year the Kruegers stopped in Currie. There they met F. A. Majors who wanted to sell the town --lock, stock and barrel.

"We had the money, says Krueger, "But, believe me, it wasn't through inheritance or anything like that. It was our savings, close-to-the vest living."

"Yes, even beans and hot dogs, at times."

The couple will live in a two-bedroom house. "It's not like here on the peninsula or in San Francisco," Krueger admits. "But I've seen worse. It's livable."

Drueger says he expects his position as the town's only businessman to keep him on the jot most of the time.

"But it's going to be a lot more than just punching a time clock. We're going to build up Currie, but still keep it on a real, live old frontier basis. We've never been happier in our lives."

Doniphan Woman Heads Democrats

KENNETT — Mrs. Orlean Kobert of Doniphan was installed as president of the 10th District Missouri Federation of Women's Democratic Clubs. She succeeds Mrs. Fred Rigdon of Kennett. Ninety Democratic women and their guests gathered at the Kennett American Legion Building for the district meeting.

Mrs. Lue Lozier, president of the Missouri Federation of Women's Democratic Clubs installed the new officers.

Other officers are: Mrs. David Rolwing of Charleston, first vice president; Mrs. Mabel Abington of Poplar Bluff, second vice-president; Mrs. Wilma Ringer of Dexter, third vice-president; Mrs. Norma Kay of Chaffee, fourth vice-president; Mrs. Bill Rose of Cape Girardeau, fifth vice-president; Mrs. Faye Romburg of Farmington, recording secretary; Mrs. Beatrice Green of Doniphan, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Elmer Kreyling of Perryville, treasurer; Mrs. W. O. Edwards of New Madrid, auditor; and Margaret Rone of Hayti, parliamentarian.

Among the special guests were State Director of Revenue Tom David, his wife and daughter, State Auditor Haskel Holman and assistant budget director A. C. Sullivan.

Speaker was Rep. David Rolwing of Charleston who discussed the reapportionment issue now confronting the Missouri Legislature.

The Mississippi County legislator noted that the Missouri Legislature set the precedent for electing members of the Senate and House of Representatives when it became a state and other legislative bodies followed its example by electing senators on the basis of population and representatives from each county.

However, he said, Missouri legislators have not been able to find any precedent to follow in complying with the recent Supreme Court ruling that the House must be reapportioned according to population. He said even the Solicitor General in Washington, D.C. has been unable to offer a guideline for the legislature to follow.

Rolwing said the Missouri Legislature is trying to follow county lines as much as possible in its attempt to reapportion, but under the present plan, about half of the representatives in Missouri would come from St. Louis County, St. Louis, Jackson County and Springfield.

He said 24 states have already petitioned Congress to call a constitutional convention on the issue. Only nine more states are needed for this to be done, he said.

The 10th District of Missouri Federation of Women's Democratic Clubs is composed of Butler, Cape Girardeau, Dunklin, Mississippi, New Madrid, Pemiscot, Perry, Ripley, Scott, St. Francois, Ste. Genevieve and Stoddard counties.

Summer Camp Plans Underway

KENNETT -- The Cotton Boll Area Girl Scout Council, which comprises all of Southeast Missouri, has plans well under way for summer camping for the Girl Scouts of this area.

Camp Latonka, located on Lake Wappapello, will operate 12-day sessions this summer beginning June 13 and running through August 5. Several hundred Girl Scouts are expected to participate in one of these sessions.

For the Girl Scouts who don't want to leave home for 12 days, camping is offered closer to home by the day. The council will operate 10 of these day camps.

The Kennett Girl Scouts will have their Day Camp from June 21 to June 25 at Jones' Woods with Mrs. T. A. Brown serving as camp director.

Celluloid, invented in 1869, is considered the first modern synthetic plastic.

THE CITY OF SIKESTON, MISSOURI
Resolution

A resolution declaring the necessity for the construction of 1 1/2 inch hotmix asphaltic pavement on 6 inch soil cement base on Indiana Street from Missouri Avenue to Broadway in the City of Sikeston, Missouri; stating the nature of the improvement; the estimated cost and providing that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills levied and assessed against the abutting property. Be it resolved by the Council of the City of Sikeston, State of Missouri, as follows: Section 1: That the Council of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said Street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the City of Sikeston. Section 2: That the nature and scope of the improvements shall consist of furnishing all costs, including labor, materials and transportation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement. Section 3: That the estimated cost of the improvement is $2.60 per lineal foot of abutting property, to be charged against the lots and tracts of land abutting the improvement. Section 4: That payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills evidencing special assessments against the abutting property in the manner specified by the statutes of the State of Missouri and the ordinances of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, because in the opinion of the City Council the General Revenue fund of the City of Sikeston is not in a condition to warrant an expenditure therefrom to pay for the improvement. Section 5: That any work performed on construction of the improvement shall be in compliance with the provisions of the prevailing wage laws of the State of Missouri, such prevailing wage rates having been established by the Industrial Commission of Missouri. Section 6: That the City Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy of this Resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the City of Sikeston, so that it shall be published for seven consecutive insertions. Read the first, second and third times and passed and approved this 7th day of June, 1965. Approved: Kendall Sikes, Mayor; Attest: John W. Vaughn, City Clerk. 218 inc 224

matter of fact

The banana (an African name) was first brought to America shortly after the time of Columbus from the Canary Islands. It was first established in Hispaniola and soon spread to other islands and the mainland. More than 3,000,000 tons of bananas are exported each year. The United States is the world's largest importer of this fruit, although large quantities also go to Great Britain and continental Europe, especially from the West Indies and Africa.

Flood Kills One

REEDS SPRING, Mo. (AP) — The cloudburst that flooded Reeds Spring Saturday night caused damage estimated at more than $1 million and killed one man.

Mayor Frank Judah estimated the loss. He said the Hagle General Factory reported a loss of $750,000, mostly to materials, and more than $50,000 damage resulted at Bushong's Inc., a combined department store and market.

The mayor said about 20 business places had damage from $500 to $3,000, and many homes were flooded. Blacktop pavement was washed away on some streets by water four feet deep that rushed down from the Ozark hills.

Swept to his death was Charles L. Hargus, 44, of Springfield, Mo. Hargus and his wife were driving to Table Rock Lake to fish when their car and trailer were caught in the flood. Mrs. Hargus climbed atop the trailer and was rescued.

The water had receded by Sunday morning. Mayor Judah said it would take 30 days to clean up the mess.

Reeds Spring, with 555 residents, is 35 miles south of Springfield.

Rep. Durward Hall, R-Mo., said his office in Washington is taking steps to obtain disaster aid for Reeds Spring. He said it had contacted the Federal Housing Administration and the Small Business Administration for information about long-term, low interest loans.

Hall also said he had talked with Gov. Warren Hearnes and that the governor had promised every possible aid.

Robert Wilcox of Springfield, health educator for the Missouri district division of health, said state public health nurses will hold a typhoid and tetanus immunization clinic at the Reeds Spring drug store. The clinic will continue for about six days. The vaccine is free.

Hamra's Enterprises In Suit

Hamra's Department Stores, Inc., and Hamra's Apparel, Inc., were named in a civil injunction suit under the Fair Labor Standards Act on file today in U.S. District Court at Cape Girardeau.

The three firms maintain a common central office and warehouse at 210 First Street, Kennett, Mo. Hamra's Enterprises, Inc., has a place of business at Sikeston, Mo. Hamra's Department Stores, Inc., has two establishments at Kennett, and Hamra's Apparel, Inc., has retail stores at Dexter, Malden, and Portageville, Mo., and at Piggott, Ark.

Three employees at the central office and warehouse, involved in ordering and handling interstate shipments, were allegedly not paid the required $1.25 minimum wage.

The complaint said that 13 employees of the Kennett establishment covered by the Act because the enterprise as a whole is covered, were not paid either the $1.15 hourly minimum wage, nor time-and-a-half for hours worked in excess of 42 per workweek.

The court was asked to bar future violations, and to require the defendants to maintain adequate time and pay records, as prescribed under the statute.

Three gold mines, which reach more than 9,000 feet below the surface, lie within the municipal area of Johannesburg, South Africa.

Outstate Urban Areas Championed

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- Larger urban areas in outstate Missouri may help solve some of the problems in the Kansas City and St. Louis metropolitan areas.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes advanced that idea Friday night in a speech before the Missouri Good Roads Association.

He envisioned rejuvenation of 25 outstate cities to counteract urban decay and rural population losses.

Hearnes said new highways can stimulate growth of outstate cities -- such as a new route from Kirksville to the Arkansas line and a diagonal route from northeastern to southwestern Missouri.

Such highways may become financially possible under the new "Little Appalachia" plan which the governors of Missouri, Arkansas, Kansas and Oklahoma pushing.

Hearnes said the four states hope to receive $1 to $2 million at the state, primarily for highway planning. Ultimately aid might reach $300 million.

Speaking of urban outstate areas he said:

"We might envision a healthy tri-city area of Jefferson City-Columbia - Fulton with 300,000 or perhaps a half million people, a Kirksville with 250,000 population, West Plains 100,000, a thriving Mexico with as many -- all very strong, well balanced, economically thriving centers.

"Springfield, Sikeston, Cape Girardeau, Joplin, Hannibal -- all would be nearby centers to attract the people, instead of one or two huge cities in which the people would be absorbed in the maze of massive problems."

Versatility, Key At DuQuoin State Fair

DU QUOIN, ILL. -- (Special) -- Versatility keys the Du Quoin State Fair's night show extravaganze this year as zany Phyllis Diller, sweet-singing Brenda Lee and remarkable George Kirby head a quality cast which also is the largest ever to appear here.

All prominent on the nation's top entertainment circuit, Diller, Lee and Kirby will furnish more than one-half of the 150-minute show runs for seven nights, Aug. 30 through Sept. 5, in the Du Quoin exposition's 43d year.

A resident of nearby Webster Groves, Mo., and mother of "Fang" Diller's five children, Phyllis is best known as one of the rare female stand-up comics who has appeared on countless television shows.

Miss Lee also has made more than her share of tv appearances since her first hit recording, "Jambalaya," and network show in 1956. Dozens of other hits have followed as has international fame, the result of working visits to Europe and South America. Also appearing with Miss Lee at Du Quoin will be The Casuals, a talented singing - instrumental group.

Kirby, of course, will be making a repeat performance at the Fair following his smash Labor Day - night appearance last year. An imaginative mimic, singer, raconteur, pianist and dialectician, Kirby was a show-stopper in his first visit and has an even larger collection of triumphs now.

Others scheduled to appear are Gus Augspurg and his Girl Friends, the Good Time Singers, The Half Brothers, Manhattan Rockets, and Lou Breese's Orchestra. Johnny Matson will serve as m.c.

Tickets to all night performances, as well as other Du Quoin Fair attractions, are now available.

Discovery Bill Being Urged On

Senator Edward V. Long (D.-Mo.) today urged the Senate Commerce Committee to approve a bill which would make new scientific discoveries more accessible to industry and small business.

The bill would help state organizations in transferring to business firms new ideas from university and Federal research projects.

"In the past 10 years, the Government has supported almost $100 billion in research and development. It is just plain good business sense to seek additional usage of this bought and paid for resource of technical knowledge," Senator Long said.

Under this bill "states such as Missouri can benefit from research and development done anywhere."

The bill would permit an institution designated by the governor of each state to draw up and administer 5-year plans for the utilization of scientific information. The plans would be approved by the Secretary of Commerce. The Federal government would supply funds equal to state funds up to certain levels. Missouri, for instance, would be eligible for around one-half million dollars in Federal funds.

The bill would help states provide surveys, demonstration clinics, and information centers. In addition to Federal funds for states, the bill would help open up to all firms the results of Federal research.

"Small business is particularly at a disadvantage in fields where technological change is rapid," Senator Long said. "Technical extension services from nearby universities can bring small business scientific knowledge developed under U.S. tax-dollar funding."

The Senator praised the Midwest Research Institute of Kansas City, and the University of Missouri Extension Division. Both already have technical transfer programs.

MRI is today conducting a pilot project for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The University Extension Division has been sharing the discoveries of the University's research laboratories with many small Missouri firms.

Both MRI and the University demonstrate that "local effort, personalized and selective, is the key to technological transfer. The proposed Act has this idea as a basic ingredient," Senator Long said.

"If the proposed joint state-Federal approach can extract an additional bonus benefit of $1 from every $1000 invested in science and engineering, it will have paid for itself. I am certain the value will be many times that amount. It will lead to a new surge in the American economy."

House Passes Re-Districting

JEFFERSON CITY AP--The status of major issues before the Missouri Legislature:

Reapportionment -- House has passed a bill setting up the 168 proposed districts for the House. Meanwhile, a joint committee of the House and Senate was prepared to try to work out a compromise on the suggested constitutional amendment on House redistricting. The House wants four - year staggered terms for its members, plus increased clerical staffs. The Senate wants House members to remain on two-year terms, keep the same clerical limits and establish a commission to set House district lines. A special commission forged ahead in plans for senatorial redistricting. And a House committee figured on a couple of more meetings before drafting congressional district lines in accordance with federal one - man - one vote decisions.

Appropriations -- Headed into conference committee this week with a target of completion on major bills by around mid-June. Meanwhile, the omnibus, or catchall, appropriation bill should clear the House Appropriations Committee early in the coming week.

Commission on the Arts -- Passed by the House and in the midst of a Senate argument. It should be settled there one way or other by mid-week. If amendments are accepted it might have to go back to the House.

Sixty per cent majority for general obligation bond issues --Passed by the House and if it is to be successful it must emerge from the Senate Judiciary Committee this week.

Conflict of Interest--The bill requiring lobbyists to report their connections and how they spend their money, and preventing public officials from private gain because of their positions, has passed the House and is pending on the Senate calendar with a committee amendment attached.

Mental Retardation Clinics--A bill to establish nine regional clinics at an estimated cost of $3.6 million has passed both houses and is heading for the desk of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes who recommended it.

Sales Tax--The bill to change the tax to a gross receipts tax and close a court discovered loophole is on the Senate Calendar. So is a bill to make purchasers start paying the tax on purchases of 15 cents or more, instead of 25 cents or more.

Cooking Sweetbreads

Sweetbreads may be braised or fried without precooking; however, the membrane must first be removed. If they're going to be used in a salad or creamed with ham or veal, do precook them to make them firm as well as to keep them white.

When they're not used immediately after purchasing, precook them also. This variety meat is very delicate and highly perishable. Precooking increases the keeping quality slightly.

Elks Induct Eighteen

Eighteen new members were inducted into the Elks Lodge last week.

They are Rene DeKriek, N. E. Fuchs III, Lawrence Robbins, Loomis Mayfield, Jr., James Moore III, Bob Wilson, Robert Ralph, George Bluemlein, Bill Keefer, Ed Michael, W. J. Crutcher, Paul Meyer, John Moll, R. L. Saulter, Alton McCann, J. R. Watson, W. P. Hunter, Jr. and Ernest Bizzell.

A dance was held Saturday night at the Lodge for Elks and their guests.

Sunday along with the Chaffee Lodge, Sikeston Elks held Flag Day Services at Chaffee.

The next meeting will be held June 23 at Elks Lodge.

A social outcast is an honest person who always tells the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth.

CONTRARY WINDS

Airmen say that one of the first rules they learn is to turn their plane towards the wind and fly against it. The wind lifts the plane up to higher heights.

Where did they learn that? They learned it from the birds. If the bird is flying for pleasure, it goes with the wind. But if the bird meets danger it turns right round, faces the wind and flies higher and higher toward the very sun.

Discipline, difficulties and often suffering are God's winds —His contrary winds, sometimes His buffeting winds. They can be God's hurricane, but they take human life and lift it to higher levels toward God's Heaven and the atmosphere the soul requires for fuller development.

Obstacles ought to set us singing. The wind finds voice, not when rushing across the open sea, but when hindered by the outstretched arms of tall pine trees or broken by the fine strings of an Aeolian harp. Then it is heard in songs of power and beauty that stimulate the imagination and elevate the soul.

Do not resist or fear the winds of discipline, of hardness or even of opposition. Let them blow freely upon your life. Like the bird and the plane, you will be lifted up to where you may see wonders that otherwise you would never know.

Nothing happens by chance. God has a plan for every life, and it is an infallible truth that "all things work together for good to them that love God," and His paths are ever mercy and truth. — Margaret Guerney

Today In U. S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, June 14, the 165th day of 1964. There are 200 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1941, President Franklin D. Roosevelt ordered the freezing of German and Italian assets in the United States.

On this date

In 1777, the Continental Congress adopted the Stars and Stripes as the U.S. Flag.

In 1934, Benito Mussolini met Adolf Hitler in Vienna.

In 1940, the Germans occupied Paris.

In 1944, American forces invaded Saipan in the Marianas.

In 1945, the U.S. Chamber of Commerce announced it favored a peacetime military training program.

Ten years ago — Russia offered Japan a draft peace treaty.

Five years ago — One million Filipinos turned out in Manila to greet President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

One year ago — Eleven steel companies and the Steelworkers Union signed an agreement to promote racial equality in the industry.

Sikeston Boys Join Navy

CAPE GIRARDEAU--Boilermaker First Class Bob Moss, Navy recruiter, announced the enlistment of Douglas Norwood Sitzes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert E. Sitzes of 928 Linn St. and Craig Ralph Copsy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Copsy of 109 Stoddard St., both of Sikeston.

Both are recent graduates of Sileston senior high school.

Young Sitzes enlisted in the Navy's nuclear field. Copsy enlisted in the high school seaman recruit program.

Sitzes and Copsy enlisted and are now undergoing recruit training in the same company at Great Lakes, Ill.

matter of fact

Insects are the most eminently successful of all animals. They represent at least 80 per cent of all known animal life. They number about 850,000 species. Some entomologists estimate the actual number of species at more than 2,000,000. The most numerous in species are the beetles, butterflies and moths, ants, bees, wasps and flies.

Stock Market Drifts Uneven

NEW YORK AP -- The stock market failed to hold a small early gain and drifted unevenly this afternoon. Trading was moderate.

The list gained a little in early trading as it followed through from Friday's sharp recovery drive. The business background was regarded as favorable but considerable hesitation was linked to the increasing involvement of U. S. forces in South Viet Nam.

Auto stocks backed away from early gains and were mixed, despite good reports from the industry. A slightly higher tone prevailed on balance among steels, tobaccos, electrical equipments and rails.

The big international oils were mostly unchanged. Drugs and aerospace issues headed lower irregularly. Chemicals, electronics and nonferrous metals were mixed.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .4 at 321.7 with industrials up .2, rails up .7 and utilities up .1.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was down 1.70 at 880.00.

American Photocopy was heavily traded as interest continued in it on the basis of its proposed joint venture with IBM on a business copying machine. "Apeco" was the most active stock Friday. IBM was ahead more than 5 points at the start but trimmed its gain to 3 or so.

Prices were generally higher on the American Stock Exchange. Trading was moderate.

Corporate bonds declined. U. S. Treasury bonds were unchanged.

U. S. Life Tells Of Moonshiners

RICHMOND, Va. AP--Moonshiners no longer are heading for the hills, they're heading for the big city.

Makers of illicit whisky--usually country boys according to the folk legends--are moving to the city because, says Stanley E. Gaulding, head of the enforcement division of Virginia's Alcoholic Beverage Control Board, "the hunters are driving them out of the woods and because of the lack of foliage in winter for cover.

"They also want to be closer to their markets."

Cairo Eligible For Urban Renewal

CAIRO--Cairo has been recertified by the Housing and Home Finance Agency as having a Workable Program for Community Improvement, Mayor Tom Beadles said today.

Recertification means the city will remain eligible for several types of federal assistance, including Urban Renewal.

Mayor Beadles pointed out that recertification does not mean approval of any specific federal aid. The Workable Program is a showing by the community of how it intends to use its own public and private resources to eliminate and prevent slums and blight.

The Cairo program has been renewed each of the past several years. Renewal is made only when the community shows reasonable progress each year under its Workable Program.

Pigeons Outlawed From San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO AP -- If a pigeon could read, he'd know he is outlawed from downtown San Francisco, starting July 1.

That's when a new section of the Police Code, approved by the Board of Supervisors, takes effect. It sets up 10 acres--all away from downtown -- where pigeons may be fed. Elsewhere, the code calls for pigeon traps.

But the code isn't clear on who's responsible. So the swarms of pigeons go right on convening at the bus terminal, the railroad depot, on cornices of downtown buildings, monuments, fountains and streets.

"We don't plan to do anything about the pigeons until we see how the public drive for a sanctuary in Golden Gate Park progresses," says Dr. Ellis Sox, the city's health director.

"And even then, it is not up to my department to remove the birds from the downtown area.

"If, after a time, the proposed sanctuary is not ready, then we will ask that pigeon traps be set up in Union Square and other populated areas heavily populated by pigeons. But we do not have funds to finance such a program."

Pigeons Helps Get Degree

MIAMI, Fla. AP -- Pigeons helped put a working mother through college and they may help her win a master's degree.

Marjorie Gleason graduated this spring in Florida Atlantic University's first class as a bachelor of arts in humanities. She paid for gasoline used commuting between her Opa-locka home, near Miami, and Florida Atlantic in Boca Raton, 30 miles north, by carrying caged racing pigeons in the trunk of her car and releasing them on campus for training flights back to Opa-locka.

The brown - haired, brown-eyed housewife is shooting now for another pigeon - ferrying deal to pay commuting expenses.

Mrs. Gleason said she "just had to finish college--20 years and six children after attending Flint, Mich., Junior College."

She and her husband, Ralph H., came from Flint to Opa-locka when Gleason was assigned there as a Marine Corps aviator during the Korean War.

Ferdinand de Lesseps, French engineer, began both the Suez and Panama Canals, but completed only the former.

FLAG DAY

Behold, its streaming rays unite,
One mingling flood of braided light;

TODAY IS FLAG DAY

Today is the 188th birthday of the flag of these United States -- Flag Day -- and all citizens of this country, from sun-up to sun-down, should display the 50-star emblem of the nation.

The Flag was conceived by George Washington and legend has it that the first one was sewn together by Betsy Ross. The red and white of the thirteen horizontal stripes were taken from the flag of the mother country, England, and the then 13 stars on a blue field represented this new constellation rising in the west, with one star for each of the 13 original states.

George Washington is quoted as declaring, "We take the stars from the heaven and the red from the Mother Country, separating it by white stripes, thus showing we have separated from her and the white stripes will go down to posterity representing liberty."

The Flag is a symbol representing the nation; the Declaration of Independence; the Constitution; and the heroic deeds of our fathers, husbands and sons in all our wars from the Revolution to the present. It also stands for the sacrifices of our women folks; and the contributions of patriotic women down through the years since the beginnings of this nation.

Today, with the entire World in tension and this nation facing its gravest threats, the Flag is even more important as a symbol of our hope for peace and the future, not only for our own sons and daughters but also for the sons and daughters of the many oppressed nations of the world.

Remember wherever our Stars and Stripes are flung to the wind, civilization replaces savagery; and the dignity of individual freedom and liberty replaces the degradation of slavery to dictatorships.

So fly the Flag today on its birthday, if nothing else than to remind yourself that under its proud folds you enjoy the greatest freedom and the highest standards of living in the entire world.

Now Or Never In Legislature

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- The Missouri Legislature today is close to that "now or never" point.

This week and next are the last full weeks the 1965 session can do business. Action on legislation must cease at midnight, June 30.

And there's still a lot of major bills pending in one house or the other. But Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has expressed confidence the major portion of his top recommendations will clear both houses in acceptable form by the deadline.

When the Senate comes back at 2 p.m. the first order of business will be completion of the argument on a bill establishing the Missouri Commission on the Arts-an effort to bring the musical, performing and pictorial arts to the rural areas.

Some rural senators picked on the bill last week with such vehemence it was put back on the calendar temporarily. The arguments could be extended.

But perhaps more importantly there could be a problem on any one of the reapportionment plans to meet the one man-one vote orders of the federal courts.

The House has passed its bill creating 168 house districts-instead of 163-and it is scheduled to be heard by a Senate committee Tuesday night. The companion constitutional amendment will be considered by a House-Senate conference committee to iron out differences.

A House committee failed last week to come up with an agreeable compromise on a Senate-passed bill establishing new congressional districts. Rep. Earl Sponsler, D-Texas County, chairman, said he hoped the committee could clear away the obstacles this week.

A conference committee also will work this week on House-Senate differences on the major appropriation bills, for financing state government and instutitions in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Both houses have fairly heavy calendars of bills to work on. The House was scheduled to come back at 3 p.m. today.

The Senate definitely planned to work an extra day this week and Rep. Mel Carnahan, D-Phelps County, House majority leader, told members to come back prepared to work Friday. He said if a large portion of the work was completed by the usual quitting time at noon Thursday, the Friday session might not be necessary.

NO CINCH WINNERS

RICHMOND, Ky. (AP)--Madison county election officials are sure there is a division of opinion among Democrats here. Robert Turley received 3,398 votes to 3,397 for Robert Combs in the county judge primary election race. In the same election, Kenton Moberly polled 3,086 and William Green 3,084 votes for sheriff.

Weekend Accidents

One accident occurred one and one-fourth miles east of Charleston Saturday at 11 p.m. on Highway 60, when a 1957 Buick driven by Danny Grimes, 22, Hazelwood, ran off the highway and overturned. He was taken to the Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Saturday at 1:30 p.m. on Highway 61, two miles north of Benton, an Oldsmobile driven north by Robert Karnes, 23, Sikeston, struck a 1964 Chevrolet driven by Mary James, 22, Chaffee.

She had stopped to make a left turn. The Karnes car was coming over a hill and skidded into the James car. Mrs. James suffered shock and was taken to a Cape Girardeau hospital.

In an accident Saturday at 3:30 p.m. on Highway 25 near Advance, one driver and two passengers were injured, one critical. They were taken to a Cape Girardeau hospital. A 1953 Chevrolet, driven by Fannie Heffner, 61, Advance made a left turn into the path of a 1963 Pontiac driven by Larry Umfleet, 20, Delta. In the Chevrolet the driver and a passenger, Fred Heffner, 62, Advance, were seriously injured, and a third party, Bell Andrews, 69, Advance, is in critical condition. Umfleet's car went into a ditch and burned, and the driver is in a Cape hospital for observation.

In an accident in Delta on Highway 25 at 6:45 p.m., three persons were injured when Oliver Snider, 20, Delta, was driving a 1958 Chevrolet, lost control and struck three parked cars, knocking one of them into the home of O. C. Duncan. Injured were the driver with head lacerations and bruises; Bobby Kight, 20, and Jimmy Lynn, both of Delta, who received bruises and abrasions, and all taken to a Cape Girardeau hospital. The driver was arrested, and charged with being intoxicated.

On Highway 60, four miles east of Charleston, Sunday at 1:45 p.m., a 1965 Mustang driven by Leonard Carrier, 24, Bowling Green, Ky., was struck by a 1957 Ford driven by Queen Thomas, 24, Charleston, when the latter made a U-turn in front of the Carrier car. Carrier received facial cuts and was treated by a Charleston physician and released.

SEMO To Receive School Aid

Missouri's local school districts will receive a windfall of more than $7.5 million in 1966-67-68 because of a study suggested by Governor Warren E. Hearnes and conducted during the off-duty hours late in May by Division of Welfare employees.

The Governor was advised late last month of the possibility of the funds through a telegram from the U. S. Department of Health, Welfare and Education and immediately requested the survey be made.

He reports that $2,598,310 will be appropriated each of the next three years from Federal funds. The program he thought would be extremely important to St. Louis City, Jackson county and Kansas City.

"I am gratified to learn that Missouri School districts are entitled to this federal money," the Governor said today. "It will be of particular benefit to many school districts which do not receive full tax support from families with several children drawing aid to dependent children funds."

In Scott county 185 children from 33 families will receive $42,550. Stoddard county is to receive $42,090 for 33 families having 183 children.

New Madrid county has 310 children from 55 families and will receive $71,300. Mississippi county is to receive $92,920 for 72 families having 404 children.

Neophyt Split By Freighter

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — "The Neophyte was my home for 2½ years," said Lee Quinn, "but it's over now and there is nothing more to say. I have no plans for the future."

Quinn, 37, an adventurer from Los Gatos, Calif., has been sailing his 45-foot ketch, the Neophyte, around the South Pacific for the last 30 months with all-girl crews.

Before dawn Sunday the 4,000 ton coastal freighter Woomera ran the Neophyte down a mile outside the Sydney harbor, split the ketch in half and sank the forward section.

Quinn and the three girls with him were rescued by the Woomera's lifeboat after half an hour in the water.

"I still say girls make the best crew," said Quinn. "There was absolutely no panic."

Quinn and his crew, Helena Anderson, 18, Hobart; Barbara Sodt, 29, Berwyn, Ill.; and Jennifer Shadock, 22, of Tasmania, were treated for abrasions and shock.

Sikeston Rates At Cape State

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. -- A total of 798 students at Southeast Missouri State College earned "B" averages for the past semester, including 19 from Sikeston.

The 798 students represent about 20 percent of the total enrollment at Cape. The SEMO grading system ranks "A" as 4, "B" as 3, "C" as 2, "D" as 1, and "F" as O.

Included in the select group were: Albert C. Ancell, Wilma Sue Barnett, Norman E. Brooks, Paul H. Conley, Marilyn Kay Conrad, James A. Critchlow, Clara B. Eisenbach, David R. Gilliland, Marian I. Lewis, Charles B. Luber.

Carolyn M. Merrick, Karen A. Pratt, Ruth Ann Roberts, Anita Marie Spear, Timothy E. Spear, Bob F. Spitzmiller, Alice C. Underwood, William W. Wilkison, Jeannette Sue Williams and Patricia Sue Bouse.

Youth Charged With Shooting Of His Father

CARUTHERSVILLE -- Authorities have charged 17-year-old Windell Barham with second degree murder in connection with the shooting of his father, Marvin Barham, 47, at their farm home near Portageville.

The charge was lodged against the son after a Pemiscot County coroner's inquest ruled Barham's death a homicide.

The youth was at liberty under $2500 bond. The shooting occurred Saturday morning, and Barham died the next day at a Memphis, Tenn., hospital. Before he died, Barham reportedly told authorities that the shooting was accidental. An autopsy revealed that Barham was shot in the abdomen and the lower part of the back.

Montgomery "Flabbergasted"

A suit filed against Joel Montgomery for $5.2 million left the Sikeston banker "flabbergasted" he told a Standard reporter today.

The suit, filed Friday by two Kansas City business men, alleges that Montgomery defrauded them by failing to pay the creditors of the bankrupt Parliament House Motor Inns Inc.

"I am flabbergasted. I don't even know what they are talking about. It is fantastic. It is beyond my comprehension. All I did was to foreclose their note owed to me," Montgomery said.

Hilary A. Bush, attorney for Montgomery, said Montgomery loaned $200,000 to the corporation that was formed in an attempt to salvage the motel corporation. He said the $200,000 was not enough, as other debts were not covered.

Five Arrested

Police made five arrests during the week-end. All were on different charges.

Rufus Terry, Benton, was charged with public drunkenness.

Linus Walker, 828 Matthews, was charged with taking off at a high rate of speed.

Walter Barber, Essex, was charged with careless and imprudent driving with failure to have car under control.

Pulene Robinson, 230 Felker, is charged with disturbing the peace by use of loud and profane language.

Isaac Brown, Benton, was arrested on the charge of having no drivers license.

New IGA Store

Plans will be announced sometime this week for a new IGA food store to be located in Sikeston south of the Dace Body Shop on the east side of the highway.

Rangers Find Bodies

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Vietnamese rangers combing a rubber plantation just north of the shattered town of Dong Xoai found the bodies of about 100 government troops today, the remains of the 7th Airborne Battalion, a U.S. military spokesman announced.

Dong Xoai was reported quiet but braced for more trouble from the Viet Cong.

As the rangers moved through the French-owned Michelin rubber plantation a few miles north of Dong Xoai they found an assortment of grim relics left behind by the Viet Cong, among them the wreckage of a U.S. Army helicopter and a U.S. Army man's identification tag.

U.S. authorities announced "at the request of the Vietnamese government, elements of the 173rd U.S. Airborne Brigade have moved to Phuoc Vinh to protect the airfield and aircraft there."

Phuoc Vinh is the main airfield for the Dong Xoai area. The U. S. paratroopers had been expected to move from there into the Dong Xoai conflict but the Vietnamese commanders were reluctant to ask for them.

The Viet Cong mounted a number of attacks and ambushes in various parts of Viet Nam today, all the way from the 17th Parallel to the southern tip of the nation.

Ninety American and Vietnamese planes hammered targets in North Viet Nam in a series of separate raids.

Twenty U.S. Air Force jet bombers escorted by 30 other jets attacked the Ban Xom Lom barracks 70 miles southwest of Hanoi. Five buildings were reported destroyed and 10 heavily damaged.

Forty-two planes hit three areas of the Ba Bon army barracks 60 miles north of the demilitarized zone, U.S. spokesmen said.

Heavy air strikes also continued inside South Viet Nam against suspected Viet Cong targets. U.S. Navy and Marine Corps planes were said to have flown 118 sorties Sunday. Pilots claimed heavy damage to targets and suspected troop concentrations.

Six Americans were killed over the weekend, but none appeared to have died as the result of enemy action.

Four U.S. Army helicopter crewmen were killed Saturday night when their craft crashed 30 miles east of Saigon during a storm.

An explosion aboard a truck at Chu Lai beachhead Sunday killed two U.S. Marines and injured 19 others. The men had been swimming, and a spokesman said a grenade fell from one man's belt, exploded in the bottom of the truck and set off a five-gallon can of gasoline.

The American paratroopers were rushed to the airfield at Phuoc Vinh after the Viet Cong ambushed a Vietnamese paratroop battalion Saturday night. The airfield, 40 miles north of Saigon, is the main supply point for the Phuoc Binh-Thanh special military zone.

The Vietnamese battalion was attacked as it moved into Thuan Loi village, 4 miles north of Dong Xoai. The Viet Cong struck from the north and west, sealing off the government paratroopers from the rear.

Reports from the area said 250 of the battalion's 400 men were killed, wounded or captured. This brought the number of Vietnamese dead or missing in the fighting around Dong Xoai since Thursday to about 600. Eighteen Americans were listed as dead or missing.

Vietnamese government forces claimed they killed 300 Viet Cong in the fighting Thursday for Dong Xoai and that U.S. air strikes killed another 400. The figures were not confirmed by U.S. military sources.

A relief force entered Thuan Loi Sunday and found the town empty. Both Viet Cong and government dead had been hauled away, and there were no civilians.

A U.S. helicopter made a midnight flight through enemy fire and rain to fly three U.S. advisers out of Thuan Loi during the fighting.

Lt. Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Viet Nam, visited Dong Xoai Sunday and conferred with Vietnamese Brig. Gen. Cao Van Vien.

South Viet Nam's general staff announced by radio it had formed a 10-member committee under the chairmanship of Maj. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu to set up a new government and organizations "along with a war cabinet."

The 10 members include army corps commanders, chief of general staff and air force commander Brig. Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky.

In effect, Thieu thus becomes chief of state, although civilian Phan Khac Suu remains for the time being as caretaker chief of state with Premier Phan Huy Quat. Thieu was defense minister in the Quat government.

U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor returned to Saigon from conferences in Washington with President Johnson and other top officials.

Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri of India, who wound up a state visit to Canada today, told the Toronto Globe and Mail that commitment of U.S. troops into combat in Viet Nam "might lead to dangerous consequences."

He said that India and Canada see "more or less eye to eye" on Viet Nam and both countries feel that talks might be possible between the warring factions. India and Canada are members with Poland of the International Control Commission that oversees operation of the 1954 Geneva agreement on Indochina.

In a joint communique Shastri and Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson took neither side of the Viet Nam conflict.

Today marks the opening of operation "Head Start" at the Southwest Grade School for 160 pre-schoolers.

According to Superintendent of Schools Lynn Twitty, "The basis for the operation of a program like "Head Start" is to provide experiences, especially for children coming from low income or disadvantaged homes. However, the program is not restricted because of family income and the pre-school experiences will be helpful to all of next fall's first graders."

The program, directed by Jack Cothern, will employ eight instructors from the regular school system. They participated last week in a special training course held at Oklahome State University at Stillwater, Okla. The eight are Martha Stevenson, Jewel Harber, Christine Davis, Violetta McGee, Ida Fulton, Janice Randon, Barbara Havis and Minnie Sprowls. All have experience in the lower grade levels.

The instructors are to be assisted by eight who are enrolled during the regular year in a college - teacher program. They are: Lynn Farris, Jo Coates, Patsy McWilliams, Pat Kiser, Almeda Green, Pearlie Green, Leomia Newman and Mrs. Lois Shelby.

Emphasis will be placed on social activities planned in such a way as to make the children better adjusted and cooperative in preparation for their first schooling next fall.

Two Year Old Girl Missing

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. AP-- More than 100 persons searched woods and fields along the Mississippi River today for a 2-year-old girl.

The child, Betsy Gill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gill of near Cape Girardeau, disappeared from home Sunday.

She was being cared for by her 13-year-old sister, Jean, while the parents were away.

Ten Emergencies

Ten persons were treated the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community Hospital over the weekend. Carl Parker, Charleston, hit hand with sledge hammer; Jeffrey Riley, Blodgett, fell off pickup truck; Ray Richards, slipped and hurt ankle; James Vaught, stung by bumble bee; Jacqueline Roslen, Morehouse, fell on shoulder.

Nora Frazier, Morehouse, bruised wrist; Robert Deal, hit with bottle; Johnny Childress, collided with another baseball player; Jerry Mattock, Morley, burned with hot water; Loretta Hedges, East Prairie, firecracker blew up.

Mrs. A. Johnson Wins Contest

THE WINNER of the contest identifying the most number of employes of the Sikeston Mercantile Company, and the date of the picture, was Mrs. W. A. Johnson of Morehouse.

She identified all of them correct, but she won the contest by guessing closest to the year the picture was taken, which was 1908. She guessed 1910.

Also identifying them all correctly was Mrs. Raymond Crews, who guessed 1911. Mrs. Andy Hill, 1805 Indiana, guessed 1916. Joe Mathis, 428 S. Kingshighway, also identified them correctly, but guessed the year to be 1904. Mrs. Virginia Weidemann guessed the year to be 1915.

HERE ARE THE CORRECT NAMES OF THE EMPLOYES OF THE Sikeston Mercantile Company in 1908:

1. Chas. F. McMullin, President; 2. John E. Marshal, Treasurer; 3. Jos. H. Stubbs, Vice-President and General Manager; 4. Chas. Prow, Book Keeper; 5. Willis Guess, Drayman; 6. Henry Welsh, Undertaker and Embalmer; 7. W. E. Bennett, Dry Goods Department; 8. R. B. Brooks, Shoe Department; 9. Marion Jewel, Hardware Department; 10. Joe Mathis, Grocery Department; 11. Aulton Cravens, Grocery Department; 12. Leonard McMullin, Grocery Department; 13. P. H. Gross, Grocery Department; 14. J. P. Gilbert, Implement Department; 15. Steve Humphreys, Implement Department; 16. Ida Frazier, Shoe Department; 17. Iva Cole, Dry Goods Department; 18. Iva Myers, Dry Goods Department; 19. Mag Cooper, Dry Goods Department; 20. May Kavanagh, Cashier; 21. Beula Karnegor, Dry Goods Department; 22. Miss Alger, Dry Goods Department; 23. Mrs. Young, Dry Goods Department; 24. Robert Blakemore, Furniture Department; 25. Clyde Myers, Clothing Department; 26. Rolla Brown, Clothing Department; 27. Azzie Cravens, Delivery Man; 28. Monroe Cravens, Delivery Man; 29. Harry Martin, Warehouse Man; 30. Lee Lawrence, Grocery Department; 31. Marian Rozier, Milliner; 32. Alma McKnight, Milliner Department; 33. Joe Stubbs, Jr., Candy Boy; 34. Clay Stubbs, Candy Boy.

Missouri's local school districts will receive a windfall of more than $7.5 million in 1966-67-68 because of a study suggested by Governor Warren E. Hearnes and conducted during the off-duty hours late in May by Division of Welfare employees.

The Governor was advised late last month of the possibility of the funds through a telegram from the U. S. Department of Health, Welfare and Education and immediately requested the survey be made.

He reports that $2,598,310 will be appropriated each of the next three years from Federal funds. The program he thought would be extremely important to St. Louis City, Jackson county and Kansas City.

"I am gratified to learn that Missouri School districts are entitled to this federal money," the Governor said today. "It will be of particular benefit to many school districts which do not receive full tax support from families with several children drawing aid to dependent children funds."

In Scott county 185 children from 33 families will receive $42,550. Stoddard county is to receive $42,090 for 33 families having 183 children.

New Madrid county has 310 children from 55 families and will receive $71,300. Mississippi county is to receive $92,920 for 72 families having 404 children.

Neophyt Split By Freighter

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — "The Neophyte was my home for 2½ years," said Lee Quinn, "but it's over now and there is nothing more to say. I have no plans for the future."

Quinn, 37, an adventurer from Los Gatos, Calif., has been sailing his 45-foot ketch, the Neophyte, around the South Pacific for the last 30 months with all-girl crews.

Before dawn Sunday the 4,000 ton coastal freighter Woomera ran the Neophyte down a mile outside the Sydney harbor, split the ketch in half and sank the forward section.

Quinn and the three girls with him were rescued by the Woomera's lifeboat after half an hour in the water.

"I still say girls make the best crew," said Quinn. "There was absolutely no panic."

Quinn and his crew, Helena Anderson, 18, Hobart; Barbara Sodt, 29, Berwyn, Ill.; and Jennifer Shadock, 22, of Tasmania, were treated for abrasions and shock.

Sikeston Rates At Cape State

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. -- A total of 798 students at Southeast Missouri State College earned "B" averages for the past semester, including 19 from Sikeston.

The 798 students represent about 20 percent of the total enrollment at Cape. The SEMO grading system ranks "A" as 4, "B" as 3, "C" as 2, "D" as 1, and "F" as O.

Included in the select group were: Albert C. Ancell, Wilma Sue Barnett, Norman E. Brooks, Paul H. Conley, Marilyn Kay Conrad, James A. Critchlow, Clara B. Eisenbach, David R. Gilliland, Marian I. Lewis, Charles B. Luber.

Carolyn M. Merrick, Karen A. Pratt, Ruth Ann Roberts, Anita Marie Spear, Timothy E. Spear, Bob F. Spitzmiller, Alice C. Underwood, William W. Wilkison, Jeannette Sue Williams and Patricia Sue Bouse.

Youth Charged With Shooting Of His Father

CARUTHERSVILLE -- Authorities have charged 17-year-old Windell Barham with second degree murder in connection with the shooting of his father, Marvin Barham, 47, at their farm home near Portageville.

The charge was lodged against the son after a Pemiscot County coroner's inquest ruled Barham's death a homicide.

The youth was at liberty under $2500 bond. The shooting occurred Saturday morning, and Barham died the next day at a Memphis, Tenn., hospital. Before he died, Barham reportedly told authorities that the shooting was accidental. An autopsy revealed that Barham was shot in the abdomen and the lower part of the back.

Montgomery "Flabbergasted"

A suit filed against Joel Montgomery for $5.2 million left the Sikeston banker "flabbergasted" he told a Standard reporter today.

The suit, filed Friday by two Kansas City business men, alleges that Montgomery defrauded them by failing to pay the creditors of the bankrupt Parliament House Motor Inns Inc.

"I am flabbergasted. I don't even know what they are talking about. It is fantastic. It is beyond my comprehension. All I did was to foreclose their note owed to me," Montgomery said.

Hilary A. Bush, attorney for Montgomery, said Montgomery loaned $200,000 to the corporation that was formed in an attempt to salvage the motel corporation. He said the $200,000 was not enough, as other debts were not covered.

Five Arrested

Police made five arrests during the week-end. All were on different charges.

Rufus Terry, Benton, was charged with public drunkenness.

Linus Walker, 828 Matthews, was charged with taking off at a high rate of speed.

Walter Barber, Essex, was charged with careless and imprudent driving with failure to have car under control.

Pulene Robinson, 230 Felker, is charged with disturbing the peace by use of loud and profane language.

Isaac Brown, Benton, was arrested on the charge of having no drivers license.

Rangers Find Bodies

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Vietnamese rangers combing a rubber plantation just north of the shattered town of Dong Xoai found the bodies of about 100 government troops today, the remains of the 7th Airborne Battalion, a U.S. military spokesman announced.

Dong Xoai was reported quiet but braced for more trouble from the Viet Cong.

As the rangers moved through the French-owned Michelin rubber plantation a few miles north of Dong Xoai they found an assortment of grim relics left behind by the Viet Cong, among them the wreckage of a U.S. Army helicopter and a U.S. Army man's identification tag.

U.S. authorities announced "at the request of the Vietnamese government, elements of the 173rd U.S. Airborne Brigade have moved to Phuoc Vinh to protect the airfield and aircraft there."

Phuoc Vinh is the main airfield for the Dong Xoai area. The U. S. paratroopers had been expected to move from there into the Dong Xoai conflict but the Vietnamese commanders were reluctant to ask for them.

The Viet Cong mounted a number of attacks and ambushes in various parts of Viet Nam today, all the way from the 17th Parallel to the southern tip of the nation.

Ninety American and Vietnamese planes hammered targets in North Viet Nam in a series of separate raids.

Twenty U.S. Air Force jet bombers escorted by 30 other jets attacked the Ban Xom Lom barracks 70 miles southwest of Hanoi. Five buildings were reported destroyed and 10 heavily damaged.

Forty-two planes hit three areas of the Ba Bon army barracks 60 miles north of the demilitarized zone, U.S. spokesmen said.

Heavy air strikes also continued inside South Viet Nam against suspected Viet Cong targets. U.S. Navy and Marine Corps planes were said to have flown 118 sorties Sunday. Pilots claimed heavy damage to targets and suspected troop concentrations.

Six Americans were killed over the weekend, but none appeared to have died as the result of enemy action.

Four U.S. Army helicopter crewmen were killed Saturday night when their craft crashed 30 miles east of Saigon during a storm.

An explosion aboard a truck at Chu Lai beachhead Sunday killed two U.S. Marines and injured 19 others. The men had been swimming, and a spokesman said a grenade fell from one man's belt, exploded in the bottom of the truck and set off a five-gallon can of gasoline.

The American paratroopers were rushed to the airfield at Phuoc Vinh after the Viet Cong ambushed a Vietnamese paratroop battalion Saturday night. The airfield, 40 miles north of Saigon, is the main supply point for the Phuoc Binh-Thanh special military zone.

The Vietnamese battalion was attacked as it moved into Thuan Loi village, 4 miles north of Dong Xoai. The Viet Cong struck from the north and west, sealing off the government paratroopers from the rear.

Reports from the area said 250 of the battalion's 400 men were killed, wounded or captured. This brought the number of Vietnamese dead or missing in the fighting around Dong Xoai since Thursday to about 600. Eighteen Americans were listed as dead or missing.

Vietnamese government forces claimed they killed 300 Viet Cong in the fighting Thursday for Dong Xoai and that U.S. air strikes killed another 400. The figures were not confirmed by U.S. military sources.

A relief force entered Thuan Loi Sunday and found the town empty. Both Viet Cong and government dead had been hauled away, and there were no civilians.

A U.S. helicopter made a midnight flight through enemy fire and rain to fly three U.S. advisers out of Thuan Loi during the fighting.

Lt. Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Viet Nam, visited Dong Xoai Sunday and conferred with Vietnamese Brig. Gen. Cao Van Vien.

South Viet Nam's general staff announced by radio it had formed a 10-member committee under the chairmanship of Maj. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu to set up a new government and organizations "along with a war cabinet."

The 10 members include army corps commanders, chief of general staff and air force commander Brig. Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky.

In effect, Thieu thus becomes chief of state, although civilian Phan Khac Suu remains for the time being as caretaker chief of state with Premier Phan Huy Quat. Thieu was defense minister in the Quat government.

U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor returned to Saigon from conferences in Washington with President Johnson and other top officials.

Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri of India, who wound up a state visit to Canada today, told the Toronto Globe and Mail that commitment of U.S. troops into combat in Viet Nam "might lead to dangerous consequences."

He said that India and Canada see "more or less eye to eye" on Viet Nam and both countries feel that talks might be possible between the warring factions. India and Canada are members with Poland of the International Control Commission that oversees operation of the 1954 Geneva agreement on Indochina.

In a joint communique Shastri and Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson took neither side of the Viet Nam conflict.

Today marks the opening of operation "Head Start" at the Southwest Grade School for 160 pre-schoolers.

According to Superintendent of Schools Lynn Twitty, "The basis for the operation of a program like "Head Start" is to provide experiences, especially for children coming from low income or disadvantaged homes. However, the program is not restricted because of family income and the pre-school experiences will be helpful to all of next fall's first graders."

The program, directed by Jack Cothern, will employ eight instructors from the regular school system. They participated last week in a special training course held at Oklahome State University at Stillwater, Okla. The eight are Martha Stevenson, Jewel Harber, Christine Davis, Violetta McGee, Ida Fulton, Janice Randon, Barbara Havis and Minnie Sprowls. All have experience in the lower grade levels.

The instructors are to be assisted by eight who are enrolled during the regular year in a college - teacher program. They are: Lynn Farris, Jo Coates, Patsy McWilliams, Pat Kiser, Almeda Green, Pearlie Green, Leomia Newman and Mrs. Lois Shelby.

Emphasis will be placed on social activities planned in such a way as to make the children better adjusted and cooperative in preparation for their first schooling next fall.

Two Year Old Girl Missing

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. AP-- More than 100 persons searched woods and fields along the Mississippi River today for a 2-year-old girl.

The child, Betsy Gill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gill of near Cape Girardeau, disappeared from home Sunday.

She was being cared for by her 13-year-old sister, Jean, while the parents were away.

Ten Emergencies

Ten persons were treated the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community Hospital over the weekend. Carl Parker, Charleston, hit hand with sledge hammer; Jeffrey Riley, Blodgett, fell off pickup truck; Ray Richards, slipped and hurt ankle; James Vaught, stung by bumble bee; Jacqueline Roslen, Morehouse, fell on shoulder. Nora Frazier, Morehouse, bruised wrist; Robert Deal, hit with bottle; Johnny Childress, collided with another baseball player; Jerry Mattock, Morley, burned with hot water; Loretta Hedges, East Prairie, firecracker blew up.

Mrs. A. Johnson Wins Contest

THE WINNER of the contest identifying the most number of employes of the Sikeston Mercantile Company, and the date of the picture, was Mrs. W. A. Johnson of Morehouse.

She identified all of them correct, but she won the contest by guessing closest to the year the picture was taken, which was 1908. She guessed 1910.

Also identifying them all correctly was Mrs. Raymond Crews, who guessed 1911. Mrs. Andy Hill, 1805 Indiana, guessed 1916. Joe Mathis, 428 S. Kingshighway, also identified them correctly, but guessed the year to be 1904. Mrs. Virginia Weidemann guessed the year to be 1915.

HERE ARE THE CORRECT NAMES OF THE EMPLOYES OF THE Sikeston Mercantile Company in 1908:

1. Chas. F. McMullin, President; 2. John E. Marshal, Treasurer; 3. Jos. H. Stubbs, Vice-President and General Manager; 4. Chas. Prow, Book Keeper; 5. Willis Guess, Drayman; 6. Henry Welsh, Undertaker and Embalmer; 7. W. E. Bennett, Dry Goods Department; 8. R. B. Brooks, Shoe Department; 9. Marion Jewel, Hardware Department; 10. Joe Mathis, Grocery Department; 11. Aulton Cravens, Grocery Department; 12. Leonard McMullin, Grocery Department; 13. P. H. Gross, Grocery Department; 14. J. P. Gilbert, Implement Department; 15. Steve Humphreys, Implement Department; 16. Ida Frazier, Shoe Department; 17. Iva Cole, Dry Goods Department; 18. Iva Myers, Dry Goods Department; 19. Mag Cooper, Dry Goods Department; 20. May Kavanagh, Cashier; 21. Beula Karnegor, Dry Goods Department; 22. Miss Alger, Dry Goods Department; 23. Mrs. Young, Dry Goods Department; 24. Robert Blakemore, Furniture Department; 25. Clyde Myers, Clothing Department; 26. Rolla Brown, Clothing Department; 27. Azzie Cravens, Delivery Man; 28. Monroe Cravens, Delivery Man; 29. Harry Martin, Warehouse Man; 30. Lee Lawrence, Grocery Department; 31. Marian Rozier, Milliner; 32. Alma McKnight, Milliner Department; 33. Joe Stubbs, Jr., Candy Boy; 34. Clay Stubbs, Candy Boy.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Monday, June 14 is Flag Day.

* * *

THE 14TH OF JUNE

Flag Day is the day designated for countless individual ceremonies where patriotic Americans throughout the nation join to display the Flag of the United States and pay it their reverence and respect.

Today is Flag Day.

Sikestonions in the past several years have been pretty well united in observance of the occasion. Some time back there seemed to be a dearth of Stars and Stripes among our residences; some of our places of business, too, apparently had run out of flags to fly, or just did not fly them. But more recently that has changed, and the change is something Sikeston can be proud of.

The Flag, of course, is a symbol. It represents the United States of America and everything about this country of ours: its cities and farms, its freedoms and rights, its ways of living, its national policies. Everything. Perhaps some folks are unhappy at times with the way some matters go; but then they remember that it is all under the Flag, and that the Flag is still waving despite other temporary difficulties over the many decades.

The bread and wine of Holy Communion are symbols, too, that have been here a long time because they are based on something very solid.

The Flag of the United States came into being on this same date in 1777 through a resolution adopted by the Congress, and Flag Day is on June 14 because of that fact. The resolution was simple and brief. It has stayed in effect through the years with changes only to keep the Flag up to date as new states were added to the Union.

"Resolved: that the flag of the 13 United States be made of 13 stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be 13 stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

That's the way the Flag has been ever since, except for its growing galaxy. The principles it symbolizes haven't changed much, either.

Fifty-one years ago, on Flag Day, Woodrow Wilson said of the Stars and Stripes: "It is henceforth to stand for self-possession, for dignity, for the assertion of the right of one nation to serve the other nations of the world -- an emblem that will not condescend to be used for purposes of aggression and self-aggrandizement; that is too great to be debased by selfishness; that has vindicated its right to be honored by all the nations of the world and feared by none who do righteousness."

President Wilson's words still hold good.

To say that as a symbol of our nation the Flag if what we make it, would not be new, but it is true. It means different things to different people. But taking them all together, it means America. It is a fine thing that today more and more folks are standing up and saying that whatever means America means a lot to them.

As we set out our flags today we should do so with some thoughtfulness. Too, we should let the youngsters help in the affair and should give them a word of explanation on what they're taking part in.

They're the right age to begin realizing.

Should an economist tell the truth or should he merely parrot the official Johnson administration line?

We are not enamored of the new economics.

Neither apparently is William M. Martin, Jr., Federal Reserve chairman, who warns that there are economic similarities now and those prevailing in 1929 before the great depression.

Martin's speech at Columbia University in New York was not an intemperate blast at the administration. He also mentioned the dissimilarities in present business conditions and those in 1929.

This caused a break in stock market prices, which isn't anything to become alarmed about. The market has been riding high and it is jittery and almost any recent negative news has sent prices plunging downward.

Rep. Wright Patman, chairman of the House Banking Committee, is a sworn enemy of Martin. He has escalated his vendetta against Martin - to coin a threadbare term used to describe the war in Viet Nam -- by urging that Martin resign.

Patman probably would be pleased if President Johnson fired Martin if he doesn't want to quit. The country shouldn't tolerate it.

What is needed in the federal government is more men willing to give honest answers and to speak their own minds freely. Martin should stay and he should continue to speak out. He will perform a real service to the nation, particularly if he sees any recession on the horizon and tells the country about it. The people deserve the best information that is available so that they can prepare for any adverse developments in making their own plans.

If the economic news from Washington is always tinged by political considerations the American people will never be told the truth and they will have no guidance useful in making their own decisions.

When politics take over, truth flies out the window. The effort then is devoted to getting someone into public office or keeping him there.

Patman accuses Martin of challenging the President on economic policy. Indeed he has, and more power to him.

We vote for freedom of information. It's in the public interest.

Let's not spoon feed the American people only the good economic news.

They want their news straight and useful and they will make constructive use of it to fit their own needs.

SEASONAL NOTE

What is so rare as a day in June? The poet James Russell Lowell asked the question with an inflection that forbade a positive answer. But a ten-year-old once gave way to temptation to tell the teacher in an English class that he liked Halloween better. He was sent into the dressing room for 20 minutes of repentance for contempt of literature.

The right answer is, of course, that then, if ever, come perfect days. Lowell himself gives it before any reader should have formed a doubt. Well, here it is June. So far the days have been sunny and cool, and a light breeze has brought a sea-freshness into the streets even of landlocked cities. The rain has paid some attention to the old rhyme about coming back another day, and has done even better. It has visited many of us only at night when, instead of having to cut our way through it in the sodden thoroughfare, we can listen to it gurgling with innocent glee in the rainspout, or purring a lullaby to us on the leaves.

So altogether there has been little to complain of. This year the month may live up to its billing. Even so, near unanimity of opinion about anything seems to stir up the rebel in a few of our neighbors. When we suggested to a taxi driver the other day that it looked as if it would be a lovely month, he only snapped that "It had better be" in a tone which discouraged us from trying to reopen the conversation. As for quoting Lowell -- well, we didn't. We guessed the driver might be that ten-year-old boy grown up.

WEEK MANMADE INVENTION

Unlike the year, the month and the day, which are all tied in with observable movements of the earth and moon, the week is a manmade invention, a period of time developed strictly for purposes of convenience. At some periods and places in history, this period of time has been as short as three days. At other periods and places, it has been as long as ten. The seven day week as we know it developed in the near east and was first used by the Babylonians and the Jews. It was not until the fourth century that the week of seven days was established as a regular calendar division by the Christian countries of western Europe.

YOU CAN'T ARGUE WITH ARITHMETIC

From 1100 jobs a few years ago to 0 today--that's the story of another New England woolen mill recently forced out of business by imported Japanese wool fabric for men's suits. Last year 11 such mills closed in America for the same reason.

A typical American mill wage rate is $1.93 an hour--5 to 7 times the Japanese wage rates. That is why, since the war, more than 100,000 American jobs in worsted mills alone have disappeared.

Hopeless? Not entirely. American mills are automating as fast as their profits give them the necessary money to buy cost-cutting equipment and so hold on to American jobs. But American labor shares the responsibility to cut costs by more efficient production. You can boast about your high wage rate, but it buys no groceries until you earn it, and you'll earn it when you produce such a value that the American public can afford to "Buy American" again.

ARE RECESSIONS OBSOLETE?

The current issue of a national business publication contains an article which explains that recessions have become obsolete. Among the reasons given are that:

--our economy is, at last, truly diversified,

--We have become smarter through experience,

-- government payrolls and spending add a steadying influence to our economy,

-- government policy won't allow a business downturn to get underway.

Experience teaches that each extended period of economic expansion has been hailed as the beginning of a new era of continuous prosperity. Each boom entices sideline commentators to pontificate on how we have finally attained success in overcoming the threat of business downturns (usually through governmental interference). Skeptics can view the appearance of such comments as "signs of the times," because they appear more frequently in the later stages of economic expansion.

Such rose-colored optimism should be tempered with a high degree of realism:

--It is true that business profits in dollar amount are at peak levels, but how about profits based on the volume of business?

--How much are profits overstated before being realistically adjusted to account for the effects of inflation?

-- To what extent do higher profits result from real operating efficiencies as compared to paper profits from arbitrary changes in tax laws? (Tax laws and investment credits can be changed any time politicians agree to do so.)

These questions call for some sobering, and, therefore, helpful thought -- especially as to the effectiveness of government in making recessions obsolete.

A sound basis for long term prosperity can rest only on the willing exchange of goods and services in a free market with a minimum of political interference. And this we have less of each year. In matter of fact, many elements of pre-1929 "prosperity" are with us today -- only to a greater and more disturbing degree:

--continued inflation of our money supply, which distorts and makes more difficult the evaluation of business performance,

--governmental influence in the determination of wages and prices,

--tax policies which, through the coercive power of the state, take productive income from some and give it to others who are less productive.

These disturbing elements interfere with the primary benefit of a free market system: to quickly and individually reward successful risk takers and producers on the one hand, and to retard unsuccessful ones on the other. Governmental interference in this process simply transfers the burden of mistakes from individuals to society as a whole, and such interference sets in motion the distorted forces that lead to government-induced economic collapses such as we had in 1929.

If past pitfalls are to be avoided, we must allow our economy to operate on a free exchange basis that gives quick and personal reward for success and quick and personal loss for failure. A prompt return to this basic principle is our best assurance for future prosperity.

NOTHING SERIOUS

At a party a physician was complaining about all the women who approached him for advice on these occasions. "You know," he said to the man sitting beside him, "you're a lawyer, do you think I should charge them for this advice even if I give it after office hours?"

"By all means," said the lawyer. "Advice is advice."

Next day the physician received an envelope from the lawyer.

The bill read simply: "For advice--$50."

"Six thousand Missouri motorists today have a better chance to cope with our traffic problem and stay alive."

This statement highlighted the report of the first fifty Adult Driver Improvement Schools conducted by the Missouri Highway Patrol.

Colonel Hugh H. Waggoner, Superintendent of the Missouri Highway Patrol, was reporting on the Patrol's increased effort to curb the traffic accident "explosion" that has skyrocketed traffic deaths to a 13 per cent increase for the first five months of this year over last year. Last year's traffic toll set a new high in Missouri.

The Adult Driver Improvement Schools, which are now being conducted throughout the State by a team of eighteen especially trained Highway Patrol Safety Officers, are designed to make better drivers of those who attend the school.

"These schools in the general sense aren't safety meetings. We have gathered together every bit of information which we think will help drivers do a better job of driving and avoid being involved in accidents and made it into a hard hitting three and a half hour school," Waggoner explained.

In talking about the response to the school, the Colonel said that he would like to accelerate the program to reach more drivers, but manpower problems curtailed expansion at this time.

"I am confident this school can lower traffic deaths, reduce injuries and cut the economic loss from traffic accidents," he said. "We stress defensive driving, how to avoid the accident situation and how to better the chances to stay alive when in the accident situation. We have learned many driving tricks from the millions of miles our patrolmen drive each year. We are including these in our schools."

The Patrol's Driver Improvement Schools are open to the public -- there is no charge, no tests or actual driving.

H. L. Hunt Says

PUNISHMENT AND CRIME

The idea of crime and the idea of punishment go together in our minds. Yet more and more they do not go together in reality.

This is unquestionably one of the primary causes of our spiralling crime rate. Many thoughtful men believe it to be the chief cause.

The faster the crime rate rises, the more diligently some strangely misguided people labor to reduce the frequency and effectiveness of punishment for crime. The Supreme Court issues a new edict almost every week to cripple the activities and limit the authority of law enforcement officers. Judges continually lenient toward convicted criminals are applauded, while those who are more stern are condemned.

The hue and cry over the death penalty, pro and con, tends to obscure the far more important issue of lesser penalties. Very few criminals ever face the possibility of being put to death. But all of them at one time or another face the possibility of imprisonment.

Imprisonment is our chief deterrent penalty against crime. It is an effective deterrent because the one value nearly everyone holds in common is the value of freedom. To deprive a man of his freedom is a grave and drastic step; but precisely because it is drastic, it is truly effective punishment to those found guilty of assaulting and robbing their fellow men.

It is sometimes objected that imprisonment is costly. Crime is more costly. It is sometimes said criminals should have "another chance." They give their victims no second chance. When criminal guilt is proved, punishment should be unfailing.

Port in the Storm

DA NANG, South Viet Nam AP -- A small group of American pilots called "The Blue Knights" have flown more than 750,000 miles in hope of tangling with enemy MIGs.

They are members of the U. S. Air Force's 476th Tactical Fighter Squadron and their speedy chariots are F104 Skyfighters.

"We've sighted MIGs once or twice, but they wouldn't come near us," said Maj. Walter W. Irwin, Apple Valley, Calif. "To the best of our knowledge, they were North Vietnamese, not Chinese."

The Blue Knights got a hurry-up call to speed here from their California base after two MIGs shot down two U. S. F105 Thunderchief fighter bombers on a mission against North Vietnamese targets early in April.

Defending the fallen Thunderchief pilots, Maj. Irwin remarked: "It isn't that the MIGs got them were superior airplanes. The Thunderchiefs were loaded down with bombs."

On their arrival here April 19, the Blue Knights were assigned to keep the MIGs off U. S. fighter bombers.

They've done their job to perfection.

"There hasn't been a single plane of ours shot down by an enemy plane since we came over," said Irwin. "Our striking forces have been unmolested from the air."

Even so, the Blue Knights are a bit blue about the whole business.

They have spent about 1,500 hours in the air on more than 570 sorties--every one to a North Vietnamese target area--and flown three-quarters of a million miles.

But what most of them really want is to test themselves in combat against the enemy. So far the MIGs have refused to respond to the challenge.

The pilots average age is 29 to 30. At 42, Irwin, the operations officer, is the "daddy rabbit" of the outfit.

The Skyfighter pilots are proud of their plane. It flies at twice the speed of sound and carries two air-to-air Sidewinder missiles plus a 20mm "Gatling gun" that can fire more than 4,000 rounds a minute.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The ambassador representing the oldest monarchy in the world has just resigned in revolt against Haile Selassie, Conquering Lion of the Tribe of Judah, Elect of God, Emperor of Ethiopia.

The ambassador, Berhanou Dinke, long considered a fixture in the Washington Diplomatic Corps, has left his embassy and is now in seclusion. He does not plan to return to Addis Ababa but will ask the State Department for asylum. Fearful of Ethiopian government agents, Dinke has declined to make known his whereabouts.

However, he has written a book, "My Experiences in His Majesty's Government," which has been surreptitiously circulated in Ethiopia and could cause revolution.

In the book, Ambassador Dinke urges democratic reforms against a regime which he says has become too autocratic and has been suppressing libery. He is careful not to incite bodily harm to the Emperor, to whom Dinke is related by marriage, but he is critical of Haile Selassie's one-man rule.

In 1963 when the Emperor visited the United States, Ambassador Dinke was his considerate host. The two men were together frequently and no one would have dreamed that differences could have developed between them.

—SIGNS OF UNREST—

Nor have there been any indications, until recently, that Haile Selassie's throne was not as solid as the mountains which have made his kingdom one of the most independent and inaccessible in Africa. For many years it was the only independent African nation and only Mussolini's modern and well-equipped Black Shirts were able to conquer it in 1936.

At that time, Haile Selassie, a lonely figure, appeared at the League of Nations to make a personal plea to the great powers for help. No one came to his defense. And the march of the dictators continued until it engulfed half the world.

After the war, Haile Selassie returned to his throne, and for the past twenty years has appeared to be one of the most stable rulers in the world. This writer lunched with him outside Addis Ababa one year ago this month, at which time he discussed the problems of education, social reform, and democratic government. I also watched him decorate a battalion of the Ethiopia Air Force for bravery in the border skirmishes with Somalia. He seemed to have the support of the Army.

However, there were student riots in Addis Ababa last month protesting the slowness of land reform. And earlier, in 1960, a revolt was staged by the Emperor's son. The two seemed to have made up, because both were at the same table when I lunched with Haile Selassie last June.

According to Ambassador Dinke, however, the entire Cabinet was executed after this revolt, and as of today no one dares disagree with the Emperor. The Army immediately got a 50 per cent pay raise, which may explain its loyalty.

—APPEAL FOR FREEDOM—

Emperor Haile Selassie ascended the throne a young man of 38, full of reforms. He abolished slavery, reduced the power of the rases, or dukes, who had dominated the country, established schools, started building dams and reclamation projects.

But as the years passed, the young men he had sent to Paris, London and New York, to be educated, came home dissatisfied and restless. They claimed reform was not moving fast enough. Eventually they helped hatch the revolt of 1960.

Flying back from Brazil where he was on a state tour, the Emperor was bitter. "Now I am reaping the crop I have sown," he said.

Ambassador Dinke was equally bitter when he mailed his resignation to the man to whom he is related.

"This resignation," he wrote, "is submitted with the view to organizing a council of citizens to plead the cause of freedom.

"I am in a free country where I can breathe, speak and write freely while my people, haunted by fear of arrest or punishment, impose upon themselves the limitation to express their human rights. This limitation and their hunger for freedom cannot be eternal. Herbert Hoover once made this living observation: 'The spark of liberty in the mind and spirit of man cannot be long extinguished; it will break into flames that will destroy every coercion which seems to limit it.'

"To this end, I appeal to all freedom-loving people to write to the Emperor urging him NOT to deny the right of the people to air their grievances, and to respect the constitution which he himself claimed to have granted of his own free will and accord.

"As one of my countrymen, Hagos Guebre Yesus, put it, in his land reform, 'The veil is too thin to shield this fraud.' This is the time to test its sincerity."

"The country is full of criticism and bitterness," Ambassador Dinke informed me. "I have outlined the remedies in my book 'My Experiences in His Majesty's Government' which I have mailed to Ethiopia in advance of my resignation. If they are not confiscated, copies of the book should be in the hands of many Ethiopian leaders this minute.

"I hope the book will do some good."

Dinke said he planned to remain in seclusion for some time, near either New York or Washington, but would keep in touch with Ethiopian leaders who shared his political views.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Union Turns Capitalist, Buys Corporation, Retains Old Management, Makes Profits, Saves Jobs.

New York: -- The other day Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz told the miniature hatters' convention that Adlai Stevenson had introduced its chief, Alex Rose, to him as "the wisest man you'll ever know."

"And," added the urbane Wirtz, "I've heard two Presidents (of the U. S.) since then say the same thing."

This concentration of eclat at the millinery makers' Lilliputian convention, and the parade of some of the nation's most powerful personalities drew this itinerant correspondent from the Washington trenches.

Vice-presidents and Cabinet members bearing messages from U. S. Presidents are as rare at small gatherings as the disappearing Nene, the female Hawaiian goose.

They came to pay homage to a powerful liberal vote-maker. But liberal though he is, Mr. Rose, the fascinating record shows, is eclectic and has endorsed Republicans--not all of them of the liberal wing.

Perhaps the best profile of this strange man, almost unknown west of the Hudson, though he has helped make more presidents than Col. House and Jim Farley, is in a rarely told hatters' union adventure. It proves that Mr. Rose is a wise man indeed, for he rarely permits his ideology to muddle its way into interfering with more bread and butter for his 35,000 members and better profits for the manufacturers who employ them.

The clearest view of this union venture could have been obtained at an old-fashioned meeting in the Town Hall of Amesbury, Mass. Actually it was a meeting of the stockholders of the Merrimac Hat Co. which, just six years ago, was hit by competition from the felt hat plants of Communist Czechoslovakia and appeared to be going out of business.

However, last month's shareholders' meeting was as vigorous and profitable as the company is today. What happened in the intervening six years?

In 1959, when Alex Rose and his colleagues in the United Hatters, Cap and Millinery Workers International learned that the Merrimac firm was about to go out of business and that the small New England town would suffer, the union bought the company.

The International raised most of the purchase money. The local Amesbury hatters raised an additional sum. And the townspeople bought stock as well.

But the union did not dismiss the management. Instead, company president, Hans Rie was asked to stay on as chief executive. He was told to retain such "associates and assistants in executive posts as he felt could contribute to the welfare of the enterprise." The union-controlled board of directors encouraged the development of new and attractive materials for sales promotion.

Management in this labor-sponsored hat company thus had an even freer hand in using its talents and capacities than it had previously.

All stockholders' interests have been treated with meticulous care. With management's talents now being nursed by the labor people, and the international union's leaders urging its local members to greater efficiency, the firm has prospered.

Stockholders therefore now receive an annual dividend of $2 a share -- equal to that paid by A. T. & T. or Boeing. Par value of each share now is $50.

With the union behind him, president Rie -- a specialist in "superior quality" felt hat production -- now is retrieving the market from the Czech salesmen.

Thus, in addition to the dividends per share, there is a special "dividend" per worker. Each employe gets a two per cent bonus at year's end. This is the equivalent of a full week's extra pay. So everybody's happy -- the management, the stockholders, the employes, the local union, and the townspeople.

And how does a labor-owned corporation bargain with the local union of the international which owns the firm? Exactly as do labor and private management--sometimes loud, sometimes bitter, always tough.

Thus jobs, wages, profits and community prosperity are preserved. There was good news in the Town Hall that night. It's a wise man who knows what side his members' bread is buttered. Small union. But big moral.

The Daily Sikeston Standard

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
Monday, June 14 is Flag Day.

* * *

THE 14TH OF JUNE

Flag Day is the day designated for countless individual ceremonies where patriotic Americans throughout the nation join to display the Flag of the United States and pay it their reverence and respect.

Today is Flag Day.

Sikestonions in the past several years have been pretty well united in observance of the occasion. Some time back there seemed to be a dearth of Stars and Stripes among our residences; some of our places of business, too, apparently had run out of flags to fly, or just did not fly them. But more recently that has changed, and the change is something Sikeston can be proud of.

The Flag, of course, is a symbol. It represents the United States of America and everything about this country of ours: its cities and farms, its freedoms and rights, its ways of living, its national policies. Everything. Perhaps some folks are unhappy at times with the way some matters go; but then they remember that it is all under the Flag, and that the Flag is still waving despite other temporary difficulties over the many decades.

The bread and wine of Holy Communion are symbols, too, that have been here a long time because they are based on something very solid.

The Flag of the United States came into being on this same date in 1777 through a resolution adopted by the Congress, and Flag Day is on June 14 because of that fact. The resolution was simple and brief. It has stayed in effect through the years with changes only to keep the Flag up to date as new states were added to the Union.

"Resolved: that the flag of the 13 United States be made of 13 stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be 13 stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

That's the way the Flag has been ever since, except for its growing galaxy. The principles it symbolizes haven't changed much, either.

Fifty-one years ago, on Flag Day, Woodrow Wilson said of the Stars and Stripes: "It is henceforth to stand for self-possession, for dignity, for the assertion of the right of one nation to serve the other nations of the world -- an emblem that will not condescend to be used for purposes of aggression and self-aggrandizement; that is too great to be debased by selfishness; that has vindicated its right to be honored by all the nations of the world and feared by none who do righteousness."

President Wilson's words still hold good. To say that as a symbol of our nation the Flag if what we make it, would not be new, but it is true. It means different things to different people. But taking them all together, it means America. It is a fine thing that today more and more folks are standing up and saying that whatever means America means a lot to them.

As we set out our flags today we should do so with some thoughtfulness. Too, we should let the youngsters help in the affair and should give them a word of explanation on what they're taking part in.

They're the right age to begin realizing.

Should an economist tell the truth or should he merely parrot the official Johnson administration line?

We are not enamored of the new economics.

Neither apparently is William M. Martin, Jr., Federal Reserve chairman, who warns that there are economic similarities now and those prevailing in 1929 before the great depression.

Martin's speech at Columbia University in New York was not an intemperate blast at the administration. He also mentioned the dissimilarities in present business conditions and those in 1929.

This caused a break in stock market prices, which isn't anything to become alarmed about. The market has been riding high and it is jittery and almost any recent negative news has sent prices plunging downward.

Rep. Wright Patman, chairman of the House Banking Committee, is a sworn enemy of Martin. He has escalated his vendetta against Martin - to coin a threadbare term used to describe the war in Viet Nam -- by urging that Martin resign.

Patman probably would be pleased if President Johnson fired Martin if he doesn't want to quit. The country shouldn't tolerate it.

What is needed in the federal government is more men willing to give honest answers and to speak their own minds freely. Martin should stay and he should continue to speak out. He will perform a real service to the nation, particularly if he sees any recession on the horizon and tells the country about it. The people deserve the best information that is available so that they can prepare for any adverse developments in making their own plans.

If the economic news from Washington is always tinged by political considerations the American people will never be told the truth and they will have no guidance useful in making their own decisions.

When politics take over, truth flies out the window. The effort then is devoted to getting someone into public office or keeping him there.

Patman accuses Martin of challenging the President on economic policy. Indeed he has, and more power to him.

We vote for freedom of information. It's in the public interest.

Let's not spoon feed the American people only the good economic news.

They want their news straight and useful and they will make constructive use of it to fit their own needs.

SEASONAL NOTE

What is so rare as a day in June? The poet James Russell Lowell asked the question with an inflection that forbade a positive answer. But a ten-year-old once gave way to temptation to tell the teacher in an English class that he liked Halloween better. He was sent into the dressing room for 20 minutes of repentance for contempt of literature.

The right answer is, of course, that then, if ever, come perfect days. Lowell himself gives it before any reader should have formed a doubt. Well, here it is June. So far the days have been sunny and cool, and a light breeze has brought a sea-freshness into the streets even of landlocked cities. The rain has paid some attention to the old rhyme about coming back another day, and has done even better. It has visited many of us only at night when, instead of having to cut our way through it in the sodden thoroughfare, we can listen to it gurgling with innocent glee in the rainspout, or purring a lullaby to us on the leaves.

So altogether there has been little to complain of. This year the month may live up to its billing. Even so, near unanimity of opinion about anything seems to stir up the rebel in a few of our neighbors. When we suggested to a taxi driver the other day that it looked as if it would be a lovely month, he only snapped that "It had better be" in a tone which discouraged us from trying to reopen the conversation. As for quoting Lowell -- well, we didn't. We guessed the driver might be that ten-year-old boy grown up.

WEEK MANMADE INVENTION

Unlike the year, the month and the day, which are all tied in with observable movements of the earth and moon, the week is a manmade invention, a period of time developed strictly for purposes of convenience. At some periods and places in history, this period of time has been as short as three days. At other periods and places, it has been as long as ten. The seven day week as we know it developed in the near east and was first used by the Babylonians and the Jews. It was not until the fourth century that the week of seven days was established as a regular calendar division by the Christian countries of western Europe.

YOU CAN'T ARGUE WITH ARITHMETIC

From 1100 jobs a few years ago to 0 today--that's the story of another New England woolen mill recently forced out of business by imported Japanese wool fabric for men's suits. Last year 11 such mills closed in America for the same reason.

A typical American mill wage rate is $1.93 an hour--5 to 7 times the Japanese wage rates. That is why, since the war, more than 100,000 American jobs in worsted mills alone have disappeared.

Hopeless? Not entirely. American mills are automating as fast as their profits give them the necessary money to buy cost-cutting equipment and so hold on to American jobs. But American labor shares the responsibility to cut costs by more efficient production. You can boast about your high wage rate, but it buys no groceries until you earn it, and you'll earn it when you produce such a value that the American public can afford to "Buy American" again.

ARE RECESSIONS OBSOLETE?

The current issue of a national business publication contains an article which explains that recessions have become obsolete. Among the reasons given are that:

--our economy is, at last, truly diversified,

--We have become smarter through experience,

-- government payrolls and spending add a steadying influence to our economy,

-- government policy won't allow a business downturn to get underway.

Experience teaches that each extended period of economic expansion has been hailed as the beginning of a new era of continuous prosperity. Each boom entices sideline commentators to pontificate on how we have finally attained success in overcoming the threat of business downturns (usually through governmental interference). Skeptics can view the appearance of such comments as "signs of the times," because they appear more frequently in the later stages of economic expansion.

Such rose-colored optimism should be tempered with a high degree of realism:

--It is true that business profits in dollar amount are at peak levels, but how about profits based on the volume of business?

--How much are profits overstated before being realistically adjusted to account for the effects of inflation?

-- To what extent do higher profits result from real operating efficiencies as compared to paper profits from arbitrary changes in tax laws? (Tax laws and investment credits can be changed any time politicians agree to do so.)

These questions call for some sobering, and, therefore, helpful thought -- especially as to the effectiveness of government in making recessions obsolete.

A sound basis for long term prosperity can rest only on the willing exchange of goods and services in a free market with a minimum of political interference. And this we have less of each year. In matter of fact, many elements of pre-1929 "prosperity" are with us today -- only to a greater and more disturbing degree:

--continued inflation of our money supply, which distorts and makes more difficult the evaluation of business performance,

--governmental influence in the determination of wages and prices,

--tax policies which, through the coercive power of the state, take productive income from some and give it to others who are less productive.

These disturbing elements interfere with the primary benefit of a free market system: to quickly and individually reward successful risk takers and producers on the one hand, and to retard unsuccessful ones on the other. Governmental interference in this process simply transfers the burden of mistakes from individuals to society as a whole, and such interference sets in motion the distorted forces that lead to government-induced economic collapses such as we had in 1929.

If past pitfalls are to be avoided, we must allow our economy to operate on a free exchange basis that gives quick and personal reward for success and quick and personal loss for failure. A prompt return to this basic principle is our best assurance for future prosperity.

NOTHING SERIOUS

At a party a physician was complaining about all the women who approached him for advice on these occasions. "You know," he said to the man sitting beside him, "you're a lawyer, do you think I should charge them for this advice even if I give it after office hours?"

"By all means," said the lawyer. "Advice is advice."

Next day the physician received an envelope from the lawyer.

The bill read simply: "For advice--$50."

"Six thousand Missouri motorists today have a better chance to cope with our traffic problem and stay alive."

This statement highlighted the report of the first fifty Adult Driver Improvement Schools conducted by the Missouri Highway Patrol.

Colonel Hugh H. Waggoner, Superintendent of the Missouri Highway Patrol, was reporting on the Patrol's increased effort to curb the traffic accident "explosion" that has skyrocketed traffic deaths to a 13 per cent increase for the first five months of this year over last year. Last year's traffic toll set a new high in Missouri.

The Adult Driver Improvement Schools, which are now being conducted throughout the State by a team of eighteen especially trained Highway Patrol Safety Officers, are designed to make better drivers of those who attend the school.

"These schools in the general sense aren't safety meetings. We have gathered together every bit of information which we think will help drivers do a better job of driving and avoid being involved in accidents and made it into a hard hitting three and a half hour school," Waggoner explained.

In talking about the response to the school, the Colonel said that he would like to accelerate the program to reach more drivers, but manpower problems curtailed expansion at this time.

"I am confident this school can lower traffic deaths, reduce injuries and cut the economic loss from traffic accidents," he said. "We stress defensive driving, how to avoid the accident situation and how to better the chances to stay alive when in the accident situation. We have learned many driving tricks from the millions of miles our patrolmen drive each year. We are including these in our schools."

The Patrol's Driver Improvement Schools are open to the public -- there is no charge, no tests or actual driving.

Port in the Storm

H. L. Hunt Says

PUNISHMENT AND CRIME

The idea of crime and the idea of punishment go together in our minds. Yet more and more they do not go together in reality.

This is unquestionably one of the primary causes of our spiralling crime rate. Many thoughtful men believe it to be the chief cause.

The faster the crime rate rises, the more diligently some strangely misguided people labor to reduce the frequency and effectiveness of punishment for crime. The Supreme Court issues a new edict almost every week to cripple the activities and limit the authority of law enforcement officers. Judges continually lenient toward convicted criminals are applauded, while those who are more stern are condemned.

The hue and cry over the death penalty, pro and con, tends to obscure the far more important issue of lesser penalties. Very few criminals ever face the possibility of being put to death. But all of them at one time or another face the possibility of imprisonment.

Imprisonment is our chief deterrent penalty against crime. It is an effective deterrent because the one value nearly everyone holds in common is the value of freedom. To deprive a man of his freedom is a grave and drastic step; but precisely because it is drastic, it is truly effective punishment to those found guilty of assaulting and robbing their fellow men.

It is sometimes objected that imprisonment is costly. Crime is more costly. It is sometimes said criminals should have "another chance." They give their victims no second chance. When criminal guilt is proved, punishment should be unfailing.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The ambassador representing the oldest monarchy in the world has just resigned in revolt against Haile Selassie, Conquering Lion of the Tribe of Judah, Elect of God, Emperor of Ethiopia.

The ambassador, Berhanou Dinke, long considered a fixture in the Washington Diplomatic Corps, has left his embassy and is now in seclusion. He does not plan to return to Addis Ababa but will ask the State Department for asylum. Fearful of Ethiopian government agents, Dinke has declined to make known his whereabouts.

However, he has written a book, "My Experiences in His Majesty's Government," which has been surreptitiously circulated in Ethiopia and could cause revolution.

In the book, Ambassador Dinke urges democratic reforms against a regime which he says has become too autocratic and has been suppressing libery. He is careful not to incite bodily harm to the Emperor, to whom Dinke is related by marriage, but he is critical of Haile Selassie's one-man rule.

In 1963 when the Emperor visited the United States, Ambassador Dinke was his considerate host. The two men were together frequently and no one would have dreamed that differences could have developed between them.

—SIGNS OF UNREST—

Nor have there been any indications, until recently, that Haile Selassie's throne was not as solid as the mountains which have made his kingdom one of the most independent and inaccessible in Africa. For many years it was the only independent African nation and only Mussolini's modern and well-equipped Black Shirts were able to conquer it in 1936.

At that time, Haile Selassie, a lonely figure, appeared at the League of Nations to make a personal plea to the great powers for help. No one came to his defense. And the march of the dictators continued until it engulfed half the world.

After the war, Haile Selassie returned to his throne, and for the past twenty years has appeared to be one of the most stable rulers in the world. This writer lunched with him outside Addis Ababa one year ago this month, at which time he discussed the problems of education, social reform, and democratic government. I also watched him decorate a battalion of the Ethiopia Air Force for bravery in the border skirmishes with Somalia. He seemed to have the support of the Army.

However, there were student riots in Addis Ababa last month protesting the slowness of land reform. And earlier, in 1960, a revolt was staged by the Emperor's son. The two seemed to have made up, because both were at the same table when I lunched with Haile Selassie last June.

According to Ambassador Dinke, however, the entire Cabinet was executed after this revolt, and as of today no one dares disagree with the Emperor. The Army immediately got a 50 per cent pay raise, which may explain its loyalty.

—APPEAL FOR FREEDOM—

Emperor Haile Selassie ascended the throne a young man of 38, full of reforms. He abolished slavery, reduced the power of the rases, or dukes, who had dominated the country, established schools, started building dams and reclamation projects.

But as the years passed, the young men he had sent to Paris, London and New York, to be educated, came home dissatisfied and restless. They claimed reform was not moving fast enough. Eventually they helped hatch the revolt of 1960.

Flying back from Brazil where he was on a state tour, the Emperor was bitter. "Now I am reaping the crop I have sown," he said.

Ambassador Dinke was equally bitter when he mailed his resignation to the man to whom he is related.

"This resignation," he wrote, "is submitted with the view to organizing a council of citizens to plead the cause of freedom.

"I am in a free country where I can breathe, speak and write freely while my people, haunted by fear of arrest or punishment, impose upon themselves the limitation to express their human rights. This limitation and their hunger for freedom cannot be eternal. Herbert Hoover once made this living observation: 'The spark of liberty in the mind and spirit of man cannot be long extinguished; it will break into flames that will destroy every coercion which seems to limit it.'

"To this end, I appeal to all freedom-loving people to write to the Emperor urging him NOT to deny the right of the people to air their grievances, and to respect the constitution which he himself claimed to have granted of his own free will and accord.

"As one of my countrymen, Hagos Guebre Yesus, put it, in his land reform, 'The veil is too thin to shield this fraud.' This is the time to test its sincerity."

"The country is full of criticism and bitterness," Ambassador Dinke informed me. "I have outlined the remedies in my book 'My Experiences in His Majesty's Government' which I have mailed to Ethiopia in advance of my resignation. If they are not confiscated, copies of the book should be in the hands of many Ethiopian leaders this minute.

"I hope the book will do some good."

Dinke said he planned to remain in seclusion for some time, near either New York or Washington, but would keep in touch with Ethiopian leaders who shared his political views.

DA NANG, South Viet Nam AP -- A small group of American pilots called "The Blue Knights" have flown more than 750,000 miles in hope of tangling with enemy MIGs.

They are members of the U. S. Air Force's 476th Tactical Fighter Squadron and their speedy chariots are F104 Skyfighters.

"We've sighted MIGs once or twice, but they wouldn't come near us," said Maj. Walter W. Irwin, Apple Valley, Calif. "To the best of our knowledge, they were North Vietnamese, not Chinese."

The Blue Knights got a hurry-up call to speed here from their California base after two MIGs shot down two U. S. F105 Thunderchief fighter bombers on a mission against North Vietnamese targets early in April.

Defending the fallen Thunderchief pilots, Maj. Irwin remarked: "It isn't that the MIGs got them were superior airplanes. The Thunderchiefs were loaded down with bombs."

On their arrival here April 19, the Blue Knights were assigned to keep the MIGs off U. S. fighter bombers.

They've done their job to perfection.

"There hasn't been a single plane of ours shot down by an enemy plane since we came over," said Irwin. "Our striking forces have been unmolested from the air."

Even so, the Blue Knights are a bit blue about the whole business.

They have spent about 1,500 hours in the air on more than 570 sorties--every one to a North Vietnamese target area--and flown three-quarters of a million miles.

But what most of them really want is to test themselves in combat against the enemy. So far the MIGs have refused to respond to the challenge.

The pilots average age is 29 to 30. At 42, Irwin, the operations officer, is the "daddy rabbit" of the outfit.

The Skyfighter pilots are proud of their plane. It flies at twice the speed of sound and carries two air-to-air Sidewinder missiles plus a 20mm "Gatling gun" that can fire more than 4,000 rounds a minute.

Miss Carol Werneck

Miss Carol Werneck Is Installed As Honored Queen Of Job's Daughters

Miss Carol Werneck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adron Werneck, was crowned Honored Queen of Bethel number 27 of the International Order of Job's Daughters Saturday evening, June 5, at the Masonic Temple in a most impressive and beautiful ceremony.

The temple was simply yet graciously decorated with a large spray of purple carnations and white gladioli accented with green foliage and touched by "baby breath." An eye-catching purple and white satin ribbon completed the arrangement. Miss Werneck chose purple and white, the colors of the organization.

The ceremony began promptly as Mrs. Aquilla Grimes, Bethel Guardian, was escorted into the room by Dana Garner, Installing Senior Custodian and Carolyn McCord, Installing Junior Custodian.

Mrs. Grimes formally opened the installation ceremony and the Reverend Joseph Wagner, rector of the First Methodist Church, gave the invocation before Miss Rita Mathis, Installing Honored Queen, was escorted into the Bethel by Mr. Aquilla Grimes, Associate Guardian of the Bethel.

Miss Mathis gracefully accepted her position in the East, and asked that the other Installing Officers be escorted into the Bethel. After they were escorted into the room, Miss Mathis introduced the following officers: Installing Guide, Miss Carol Miller; Installing Marshall, Miss Katie Blanton; Installing Chaplain, Miss Becky Turner; Installing Junior Custodian, Miss Carolyn McCord; Installing Senior Custodian, Mrs. David Garner; Installing Recorder, Miss Jane Wyman; Installing Musician, Mrs. Elmer Poage; and Installing soloist, Mrs. M. L. Canedy and Miss Jeannie Winters.

Immediately following the introduction of the Installing Officers, the elected and appointed officers were escorted into the Bethel by the Installing Guide and Marshall.

After the entrance of the newly elected and appointed officers, the Holy Bible was reverently brought into the Bethel by Installing Chaplain, Miss Becky Turner. The Bethel Choir entered the room just ahead of Miss Turner and formed an aisle of honor on either side of the altar, where the Bible was to be placed. As the Installing Chaplain knelt at the altar to open the Holy Bible, the lights were lowered and Miss Jeannie Winters hushed the crowd by beautifully singing "He."

The Installing Marshall presented the flag of our country west of the altar and after a tribute to the National Emblem was made by the Installing Honored Queen, the "Star Spangled Banner," was sung by everyone present. The Marshall placed the flag in the East and the crowd repeated the Pledge of Allegiance.

After the crowd was greeted by the Installing Honored Queen and after a prayer was given by the Installing Chaplain, the Bethel officers were introduced as follows: Honored Queen, Carol Werneck; Senior Princess, Melinda Morrison; Junior Princess, Becky Sloan; Guide, Debbie Ingram; Marshall, Pricilla Righter; Recorder, Pam Marsh; Treasurer, Jodie Graff; Chaplain, Beth Montgomery; Librarian, Judi Pike; Musician, Dixie Wheeler; Assistant Musician, Carolyn Hill; First Messenger, Debbie Couch; Second Messenger, Debbie Collins; Third Messenger, Sherri Sprout; Fourth Messenger, Elizabeth McCollum; Fifth Messenger, Marsha Morrison; Inner Guard, Karen Mills; Outer Guard, Carolyn Lucy; Senior Custodian, Margaret Morrison; and Junior Custodian, Katie Stallings.

Preceding the obligation which was given to the officers by the Installing Honored Queen, the lights were dimmed and Miss Jeannie Winters sang a very appropriate song, "You'll Never Walk Alone."

Miss Mathis, after giving the obligation, installed all of the Bethel officers in due form.

Miss Carol Werneck was escorted to the altar by the Installing Guide and Marshall and, there they caused her to quietly kneel. Miss Mathis approached the altar and made appropriate remarks before she placed a glittering crown on Miss Werneck's head and invested her with the Cape of Royal Purple Velvet. Mrs. Canedy sang a very original song to the new queen after which Miss Werneck's cousin, Linda Werneck, presented her with a gift. Miss Werneck's father proudly escorted her to the East where she was presented with the gavel of her office after the Installing Recorder read the proclamation.

Miss Werneck took charge of the ceremony and immediately went into the ceremony of Escorts and Honors. First to be escorted were Miss Werneck's ministers, the Reverend Joseph Wagner and the Reverend Willard Spencer, who after being introduced were given honorable seats in the East.

Junior Past Honored Queen, Miss Becky Turner, was escorted west of the altar where Miss Werneck presented her with one dozen red roses and her Past Honored Queen's Jewel. Mrs. Canedy sang a song to the retiring Honored Queen, after which Mrs. Grimes presented Miss Turner with a token of her appreciation and Mr. Grimes presented Miss Werneck with a token of his appreciation.

At this time, Miss Sharon Shain and Miss Carol Kim, Bethel choir members were escorted west of the altar where the new Honored Queen presented them with gifts. Both girls are moving and the Honored Queen offered the Bethel's best wishes.

The ceremony of Escorts and Honors continued with the escorting and introducing of the evening's Installing Officers, and, with the escorting and introducing of the Bethel Guardians, Mr. and Mrs. Grimes.

The Masons and the Eastern Star were acknowledged and sincerely thanked before the Honored Queen's family was escorted to the East.

Miss Werneck closed the ceremony of escorts, honors, and introduction and extended her gratitude to everyone present.

The American Flag was retired by the Marshall, Pricilla Righter, and the girls went into the traditional closing ceremony. While singing "Onward Christian Soldiers," the Job's Daughters formed the Cross of Jesus and knelt to sing, "Nearer My God to Thee." The Reverend Willard Spencer gave the benediction and the Bethel Guardian formally closed the ceremony.

Immediately following the Installation, the Job's Daughters were entertained by the Travelers at a Hootenanny in the basement of the temple.

Cards Split Twin-Bill With Braves, Win Nightcap 12 to 2

ST. LOUIS AP -- Both Milwaukee and the St. Louis Cardinals went away happy Sunday from a bitter rhubarb in which catcher Gene Oliver of the Braves was ejected twice in one inning, and the Cardinals lodged a protest.

Milwaukee Manager Bobby Bragan, who also was booted out with pitcher Hank Fischer in the inning, was pleased because his second place club won three of four games with the Cardinals, including 4-1 victory in the first game of Sunday's doubleheader.

Cardinal Manager Red Schoendienst was happy because his team won the rhubarb-favored nightcap, 12-2, getting 15 hits and-Schoendienst hoped - cracking a slump.

"I hope the team gets a lift out of this," Schoendienst said. "All the balls were falling in there today. I think everybody loosened up."

The victory was only the fourth in 18 games for the Cardinals. Hits were painfully scarce until the second game explosion Sunday.

Bragan walked up and down his rather quiet dressing room, shouting "Five out of seven's okay with me" and "I'll settle for three-out-of-four in this town anytime."

The fourth inning of Sunday's second game was a scorekeeper's nightmare. The first rhubarb started with a play at the plate in which umpire Stan Landes called St. Louis' Dick Groat safe.

Brave catcher Gene Oliver leaped to an argument with Landes, letting the ball roll into the dust while Cardinal Jerry Buchek trotted from first to third. Oliver was charged with an error for that.

Oliver was thrown out and pitched his mitt high into the air. But he went to the dugout, donned his catcher's mask, and returned to the field.

Landers walked back to the plate to resume the game, looked at Oliver, did a double take, and threw the catcher out again.

Then Schoendienst set up a beef, contending Bragan had gone to the mound twice in the same inning and should be forced to relieve pitcher Fischer. Landes wouldn't allow this and Schoendienst played the game under protest.

Two plays later, Lou Brock doubled to right and Cardinal Julian Javier bumped into Fischer as he rounded third.

Javier was out at home but umpire Augie Donatelli allowed the run, explaining Fischer had obstructed Javier.

Then came the big rhubarb in which Fischer and Bragan were tossed out.

"I saw him coming at me and tried to move to my left," Fischer said after the game.

"He struck his elbow out and went out of his way to get me, and the ump said I ran into him."

Javier had another version. "I make my turn at third a little wide," he said. "I was just trying to get home and he (Fischer) was in my way. He didn't do it deliberately."

Nicklaus Man To Watch In U. S. Open at St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) —Regardless of what Joe Dey did to the U.S. Open course at Bellerive Country Club during the weekend, the man to watch when the tournament opens Thursday still will be Jack Nicklaus.

Dey, executive director of the U.S. Golf Association, surveyed the course Saturday and then ordered the fairways widened on all but one of the par 4 holes and on both par 5s.

"Regardless of what you may have read in magazines or what the whole country seems to believe," he said, "we want the golf course to be playable and fair."

This should not make much difference to Nicklaus, the favorite to finish first in the field of 150. Nicklaus, the top money-winner on the pro tour, has scored well in practice over the 7,191-yard course, longest in Open history.

Nicklaus and the rest of the tour will practice on the course today throgh Wednesday.

They will have an easier time of it after Day's plotting, but the distance, numerous traps, and large, undulating, fast greens still will make it a difficult test. Par is 70, but few predict the winner will break 280.

Dey said the average increases in width were from five to six yards.

"What we're doing in general is cutting back the Bermuda rough so that the fairways are mostly their original width," he said. "On No. 7, it was only 21 yards wide from the edge of the bunker to the rough. We think the fairway ought to be at least 30 yards wide."

No. 7 is a 401-yard par 4.

Dey called the general condition of the course "wonderful".

"Everything has come just as we hoped it would," he said.

Chamberlain Fined $750 By N.B.A.

NEW YORK (AP) — Wilt Chamberlain, star center of the Philadelphia 76ers, has been fined $750 by National Basketball Association President Walter Kennedy because of a magazine article which appeared under Chamberlain's byline.

Chamberlain's name appeared last April over a story in Sports Illustrated, titled: "My Life in a Bush League." Kennedy said the article, critical of NBA owners and coaches, "contained many wholly inaccurate statements of fact, all of which drew conclusions from an erroneous premise."

The Treasury is seeking a substitute for silver in coins. How about trying two-way stretch material?

Big Red Signs Three More Draft Choices

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 14 -- Three more football Cardinal draft choices came to terms today, giving the Big Red a total of 11 of a possible 14 draft choices signed for 1965.

One more, flanker Buddy French of Alabama, is still not committed.

Defensive end Frank Roy of Utah, fullback Steve Murphy of Northwestern and tight end Tony Giacobazzi of Iowa are the three latest Cardinal rookies. They will report to the team's Lake Forest, Illinois, training camp on July 19.

Roy, the Big Red's seventh draft choice, is 6-3 and weighs 240. Murphy, drafted 13th, is 6-0 and weighs 215; and Giacobazzi, the club's 20th selection, is 6-3 and weighs 230.

The Cardinals made 20 selections during the meeting last November 28, but six are "futures" with another year of collegiate eligibility. This group includes halfback Johnny Roland of Missouri, tackle Glenn Hines of Arkansas, quarterback Jimmy Heidel of Mississippi, end Chuck Drulis Jr., of Duke, halfback Harlan Lane of Baylor and halfback Roy Shivers of Utah State.

Two of the Cardinals' choices, quarterback Joe Namath of Alabama and halfback Bob Bonds of San Jose State, have signed with other teams.

The Big Red signed draft choices, by round, are:

Our Michael Leading Two Year Old

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The way things are going Johnny Sellers has his mount for next year's Kentucky Derby. The name of the colt is Our Michael the leading contender for the 2-year-old championship of 1965.

Sellers, who won the 1961 Derby astride Carry Back, has ridden Our Michael in all of his five races to date at five different tracks.

Result: four victories and one second with the latest triumph coming last Saturday in the 5½-furlong Christiana Stakes at Delaware Park.

In the Christiana, Our Michael spotted New Windsor a two-length lead, then drew out in the last furlong to beat Flame Tree by 2½ lengths as New Windsor faded to third.

The impressive performance by Our Michael overshadowed Marshua's victory over What a Treat in the Coaching Club American Oaks at Aqueduct and Carpenter's Ruler's nose triumph over Terry's Secret in the Argonaut Stakes at Hollywood Park.

In Saturday's other features Gummo won the Swaps Handicap at Arlington Park, Prairie Schooner scored in the Macomber Handicap at Suffolk Downs and Reverse took the Michigan Derby at Hazel Park.

June is busting out all over —with vacationing school kids.

Dan Sikes Wins Cleveland Open

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer

CLEVELAND AP -- Easy-going Dan Sikes knew what he was doing when he rolled in a 35-foot putt on the final hole to capture the $135,000 Cleveland Opne Golf Championship.

"I had to make that putt. . . who wants to play off with Tony Lema?" the rangy Sikes quipped after he whipped Champagne Tony by one stroke Sunday.

The end came dramatically when Sikes, who hadn't won a tournament since the Doral, Fla., Open in 1963, sank his pressure putt from the edge of the 18th green.

It was his fifth birdie of the round and gave him a five-under par 66 on the Highland Park 6,821-yard layout.

Sikes, who started the final round three strokes back of the 31 - year - old Lema, finished with a 72-hole total of 272--12 strokes under par.

It was a great comeback for the 24-year-old Sikes, a non practicing attorney, whose best previous effort this year was a second place finish in the Los Angeles Open.

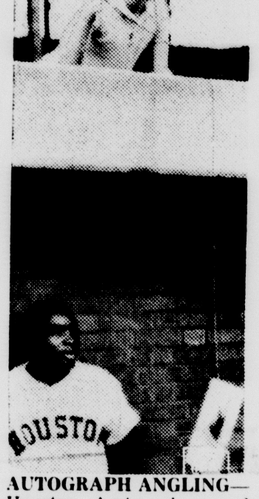
Lema, who failed in his bid to win a second straight Cleveland Open, also lost the $25,000 first prize, biggest purse on the tour this year.

Australia's Bruce Devlin, a consistent money-winner, kept the pressure on the leaders right to the end with a sizzling 65, best round of the tournament.

The 27-year-old Devlin, who putted brilliantly, started the day six strokes off the pace and wound up third with a 274.

Bert Weaver's 71 gave him 279 for fourth place while Mike Souchak, Julius Boros, Dick Sikes and Tommy Aaron deadlocked for fifth with 280s.

Other top finishers included Bob Rosburg with a 281 and Arnold Palmer, Randy Glover, Billy Maxwell and Gordon Jones with 282s.



AUTOGRAPH ANGLING—Houston Astros' second baseman Joe Morgan figures there's something fishy going on here as a clever young Chicagoan drops his line over the Wrigley Field dugout. This one didn't get away. Morgan signed.

John Deere And Malone & Hyde Win In Musial League

In Little League games Saturday night, John Deere rolled past Collin's in the first game and Malone & Hyde went all the way to beat K.S.I.M. in the second. John Deere took 5 runs in the first inning and increased the margin as the game went on, to beat Collin's with a score of 20 to 12. Hornback led Collin's in their struggle as he whacked 3 for 3. Figley was the winning pitcher for John Deere while he gave the loss to L. Miller.

Malone & Hyde walked over K.S.I.M. in the second game as they could produce only one hit and manage nine runs compared to their opponent's 13 hits and 22 runs. Eisenbach, the winning pitcher, held K.S.I.M. to their lone hit. Keefer pounded that hit in the first frame for K.S.I.M. Pratt and Eisenbach both had hits for every time they stepped to the plate. Tiechman was the losing pitcher.

Cards Split Twin-Bill With Braves, Win Nightcap 12 to 2

ST. LOUIS AP -- Both Milwaukee and the St. Louis Cardinals went away happy Sunday from a bitter rhubarb in which catcher Gene Oliver of the Braves was ejected twice in one inning, and the Cardinals lodged a protest.

Milwaukee Manager Bobby Bragan, who also was booted out with pitcher Hank Fischer in the inning, was pleased because his second place club won three of four games with the Cardinals, including 4-1 victory in the first game of Sunday's doubleheader.

Cardinal Manager Red Schoendienst was happy because his team won the rhubarb-favored nightcap, 12-2, getting 15 hits and-Schoendienst hoped - cracking a slump.

"I hope the team gets a lift out of this," Schoendienst said. "All the balls were falling in there today. I think everybody loosened up."

The victory was only the fourth in 18 games for the Cardinals. Hits were painfully scarce until the second game explosion Sunday.

Bragan walked up and down his rather quiet dressing room, shouting "Five out of seven's okay with me" and "I'll settle for three-out-of-four in this town anytime."

The fourth inning of Sunday's second game was a scorekeeper's nightmare. The first rhubarb started with a play at the plate in which umpire Stan Landes called St. Louis' Dick Groat safe.

Brave catcher Gene Oliver leaped to an argument with Landes, letting the ball roll into the dust while Cardinal Jerry Buchek trotted from first to third. Oliver was charged with an error for that.

Oliver was thrown out and pitched his mitt high into the air. But he went to the dugout, donned his catcher's mask, and returned to the field.

Landers walked back to the plate to resume the game, looked at Oliver, did a double take, and threw the catcher out again.

Then Schoendienst set up a beef, contending Bragan had gone to the mound twice in the same inning and should be forced to relieve pitcher Fischer. Landes wouldn't allow this and Schoendienst played the game under protest.

Two plays later, Lou Brock doubled to right and Cardinal Julian Javier bumped into Fischer as he rounded third.

Javier was out at home but umpire Augie Donatelli allowed the run, explaining Fischer had obstructed Javier.

Then came the big rhubarb in which Fischer and Bragan were tossed out.

"I saw him coming at me and tried to move to my left," Fischer said after the game.

"He struck his elbow out and went out of his way to get me, and the ump said I ran into him."

Javier had another version. "I make my turn at third a little wide," he said. "I was just trying to get home and he (Fischer) was in my way. He didn't do it deliberately."

Nicklaus Man To Watch In U. S. Open at St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) —Regardless of what Joe Dey did to the U.S. Open course at Bellerive Country Club during the weekend, the man to watch when the tournament opens Thursday still will be Jack Nicklaus.

Dey, executive director of the U.S. Golf Association, surveyed the course Saturday and then ordered the fairways widened on all but one of the par 4 holes and on both par 5s.

"Regardless of what you may have read in magazines or what the whole country seems to believe," he said, "we want the golf course to be playable and fair."

This should not make much difference to Nicklaus, the favorite to finish first in the field of 150. Nicklaus, the top money-winner on the pro tour, has scored well in practice over the 7,191-yard course, longest in Open history.

Dey said the average increases in width were from five to six yards.

"What we're doing in general is cutting back the Bermuda rough so that the fairways are mostly their original width," he said. "On No. 7, it was only 21 yards wide from the edge of the bunker to the rough. We think the fairway ought to be at least 30 yards wide."

No. 7 is a 401-yard par 4.

Dey called the general condition of the course "wonderful".

"Everything has come just as we hoped it would," he said.

Big Red Signs Three More Draft Choices

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 14 -- Three more football Cardinal draft choices came to terms today, giving the Big Red a total of 11 of a possible 14 draft choices signed for 1965.

One more, flanker Buddy French of Alabama, is still not committed.

Defensive end Frank Roy of Utah, fullback Steve Murphy of Northwestern and tight end Tony Giacobazzi of Iowa are the three latest Cardinal rookies. They will report to the team's Lake Forest, Illinois, training camp on July 19.

Roy, the Big Red's seventh draft choice, is 6-3 and weighs 240. Murphy, drafted 13th, is 6-0 and weighs 215; and Giacobazzi, the club's 20th selection, is 6-3 and weighs 230.

The Cardinals made 20 selections during the meeting last November 28, but six are "futures" with another year of collegiate eligibility. This group includes halfback Johnny Roland of Missouri, tackle Glenn Hines of Arkansas, quarterback Jimmy Heidel of Mississippi, end Chuck Drulis Jr., of Duke, halfback Harlan Lane of Baylor and halfback Roy Shivers of Utah State.

Two of the Cardinals' choices, quarterback Joe Namath of Alabama and halfback Bob Bonds of San Jose State, have signed with other teams.

The Big Red signed draft choices, by round, are:

Our Michael Leading Two Year Old

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The way things are going Johnny Sellers has his mount for next year's Kentucky Derby. The name of the colt is Our Michael the leading contender for the 2-year-old championship of 1965.

Sellers, who won the 1961 Derby astride Carry Back, has ridden Our Michael in all of his five races to date at five different tracks.

Result: four victories and one second with the latest triumph coming last Saturday in the 5½-furlong Christiana Stakes at Delaware Park.

In the Christiana, Our Michael spotted New Windsor a two-length lead, then drew out in the last furlong to beat Flame Tree by 2½ lengths as New Windsor faded to third.

The impressive performance by Our Michael overshadowed Marshua's victory over What a Treat in the Coaching Club American Oaks at Aqueduct and Carpenter's Ruler's nose triumph over Terry's Secret in the Argonaut Stakes at Hollywood Park.

In Saturday's other features Gummo won the Swaps Handicap at Arlington Park, Prairie Schooner scored in the Macomber Handicap at Suffolk Downs and Reverse took the Michigan Derby at Hazel Park.

June is busting out all over —with vacationing school kids.

Dan Sikes Wins Cleveland Open

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer

CLEVELAND AP -- Easy-going Dan Sikes knew what he was doing when he rolled in a 35-foot putt on the final hole to capture the $135,000 Cleveland Opne Golf Championship.

"I had to make that putt. . . who wants to play off with Tony Lema?" the rangy Sikes quipped after he whipped Champagne Tony by one stroke Sunday.

The end came dramatically when Sikes, who hadn't won a tournament since the Doral, Fla., Open in 1963, sank his pressure putt from the edge of the 18th green.

It was his fifth birdie of the round and gave him a five-under par 66 on the Highland Park 6,821-yard layout.

Sikes, who started the final round three strokes back of the 31 - year - old Lema, finished with a 72-hole total of 272--12 strokes under par.

It was a great comeback for the 24-year-old Sikes, a non practicing attorney, whose best previous effort this year was a second place finish in the Los Angeles Open.

Lema, who failed in his bid to win a second straight Cleveland Open, also lost the $25,000 first prize, biggest purse on the tour this year.

Australia's Bruce Devlin, a consistent money-winner, kept the pressure on the leaders right to the end with a sizzling 65, best round of the tournament.

The 27-year-old Devlin, who putted brilliantly, started the day six strokes off the pace and wound up third with a 274.

Bert Weaver's 71 gave him 279 for fourth place while Mike Souchak, Julius Boros, Dick Sikes and Tommy Aaron deadlocked for fifth with 280s.

Other top finishers included Bob Rosburg with a 281 and Arnold Palmer, Randy Glover, Billy Maxwell and Gordon Jones with 282s.

John Deere And Malone & Hyde Win In Musial League

In Little League games Saturday night, John Deere rolled past Collin's in the first game and Malone & Hyde went all the way to beat K.S.I.M. in the second. John Deere took 5 runs in the first inning and increased the margin as the game went on, to beat Collin's with a score of 20 to 12. Hornback led Collin's in their struggle as he whacked 3 for 3. Figley was the winning pitcher for John Deere while he gave the loss to L. Miller.

Malone & Hyde walked over K.S.I.M. in the second game as they could produce only one hit and manage nine runs compared to their opponent's 13 hits and 22 runs. Eisenbach, the winning pitcher, held K.S.I.M. to their lone hit. Keefer pounded that hit in the first frame for K.S.I.M. Pratt and Eisenbach both had hits for every time they stepped to the plate. Tiechman was the losing pitcher.

Betterment For Cities

Cities entered in the Missouri Community Betterment Program tend to attract new industries and enjoy a notable number of industrial expansions.

This was revealed in a recent analysis of new industrial plant locations and manufactiring expansions in Missouri during 1964, compiled by the Missouri Division of Commerce and Industrial Development.

The study shows that one out of every four communities in the CID sponsored community improvement program last year acquired at least one new industry compared to a state-wide record of one new industry for each eleven communities. One city in the program announced the acquisition of five new industries during the year.

The analysis shows that member cities of the Community Betterment Program captured 47 per cent of the new industries that located in the state during the period.

There were 160 Missouri towns and cities in the Program during 1964 with 40 of the number acquiring new industries. Five new plant locations were announced for the city of Bonne Terre which resulted in 89 new jobs being created. Sedalia ranked second with four new enterprises announced that will employ up to 90 persons. Cape Girardeau, Hannibal, Joplin, Kirksville, Lee's Summit, Mountain Grove, Neosho, Republic, and Sikeston each announced the acquisition of two industries with a total of 316 new jobs created. Twenty-nine cities in the program acquired one industry during the year with new jobs created expected to exceed 1,385.

There was also a healthy rise in plant expansions in cities that participated in the Community Betterment Program during 1964. The Division of Commerce announced that 56 communities in the state reported plant expansions last year with 30 of the number being members of the Missouri Community Betterment Program.

Plant expansions last year in cities belonging to the program created in excess of 477 additional jobs in the communities, Gene Clack, Director of the Missouri Community Betterment Program announced today. "This analysis indicates cities with a self-improvement program and striving to attain established goals are apt to prosper," he added.

Immoral Law

(Editorial in "The Wall Street Journal")

When President Johnson last Monday asked Congress for a new law to safeguard the voting rights of Negro citizens he rested his case on the Constitution and on a basic principle of morality.

What he has now proposed that the Congress do is enact a law which would violate that Constitution he asks us not to flout and, more, which is itself immoral.

If you think not so, consider:

The Administration bill offers a formula — a complicated one, which we will come to in a moment -- to prohibit certain States from using any test of a citizen's ability to read and write our language as a qualification for voting.

The argument for doing this is the 15th Amendment to the Constitution which provides, clearly enough, that neither the Federal Government nor any State shall deprive a citizen of his vote "on account of" his race or color.

But the proposed bill does not stop with providing means against the violation of the 15th Amendment. It does not aim at insuring that any such State literacy test shall be fairly drawn and impartially administered so that it may not be used as an excuse to deprive anyone of his vote "on account of" his race.

The effect -- and indeed the purpose -- would be to abolish such tests entirely in the affected States. And that flies squarely in the face of this self-same Constitution which the President professes to uphold.

The very first article of that Constitution authorizes the individual States to decide the qualifications of voters in both federal and State elections, subject only to the proviso that whoever is deemed qualified to vote for "the most numerous branch of the State legislature" is automatically qualified to vote in federal elections.

Making this a State function was no casual decision. It was reaffirmed in identical language in the 17th Amendment -- adopted, incidentally, more than 40 years after the 15th Amendment, which provided that all such qualifications should be impartially applied among all citizens.

This principle in the Constitution has been repeatedly upheld and affirmed by the U.S. Supreme Court, not merely in dusty antiquity but as recently as 1959 by judges presently sitting upon that bench.

Now we are well aware that there are a good many people, and perhaps the President is included, who oppose any literacy requirement. They say that a man's illiteracy is irrelevant to the question of having his judgment counted in public affairs. No man can quarrel with the right of such people to argue their case, and, if persuasive, to alter the Constitution so as to prohibit them.

But the requirement that voters be able to read and write is by no means restricted to those Southern States now the object of this special legislation. Many others --including New York State-- require that qualification, as the Constitution entitles them to do.

If it is immoral, as the President says, to deprive a qualified citizen of his right to vote "under color of a literacy test," is it moral to violate one part of the Constitution under the color of upholding another which is in no wise in conflict?

Nor does the question end there, for what this bill proposes to do is to set up a double standard. Some States would be permitted to keep their literacy requirement. Others would not.

The formula prescribed is that of a ratio between the number of persons of voting age within a State and the numbers of voters in an election. If 50 per cent or more of the voting age inhabitants do vote, then the State is absolved. The federal authorities will keep out, and the State may set its own qualifications for voters, including literacy tests. Otherwise, no.

This formula has been carefully devised so that in practice it is expected to apply only to six states, Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi, Georgia, South Carolina and Virginia. In these states the federal authorities would not only have the right to supervise voter registration but to abolish the voter qualifications they don't like.

A few moments reflection on this formula will suggest such weird paradoxes, and the possibility of such strange discriminations, as to stagger the mind.

A minor one is that a strict application of the formula would probably make it applicable to Alaska. However, a way has been devised to exempt it, which as much as anything suggests that the intent is not to write a general rule of law but to subject certain States to special laws.

Not so minor, but certainly weird, is the provision that a person once registered as a voter by the federal authorities will be stricken from the list if he fails to vote "at least once during three consecutive years while listed." In short, you have to vote or you can't.

Of more consequence is the fact that if we have this law a citizen, white or Negro, can be entitled to a vote in Alabama no matter how illiterate he is, or for that matter even if he is a moron. But if the same citizen, white or Negro, lives in New York state he will not be entitled to vote.

This would create a truly ingenious paradox. The illiterate citizen, Negro or otherwise, sould find himself with more "rights" in Alabama and her five outcast sister States than in the great State of New York. More, the educational level of the voting citizens of Alabama, the low level of which is part of the general complaint against it by civil rights leaders, would be further reduced. And this by federal sanction.

Unfortunately, the irony is not funny. Beneath the paradox lies a serious question. Is it moral that our national laws should apply one rule to one State and another to another requiring that the people of one State abolish qualifications for voters while the people of another State may uphold their standards?

Nor is that the end of the consequences of that weird formula. Recall that it permits the Federal Government to put all this machinery in motion, the takeover of the whole voting procedure by federal authorities, only when the voting percentage of a State falls below 50 per cent of the voting age population. If there was ever a device open to what President Johnson calls manipulation, this is it.

So long as a State contrives that one-half of its adults vote, it is free of the formula. This will not be overlooked by ingenious men who can contrive many things when justice is measured by percentages.

And this brings us to what we think is the fundamental immorality of this proposed law, unintentioned though it may be by those who drew it.

Any citizen, white or Negro, has the right to be treated by the law like all other citizens. If he has to meet qualifications to vote -- age or any other -- they must be only the qualifications asked of all. If he qualifies like any other he has the right to vote, and to deny him that right is to deny him what is inalienably his.

It makes no difference whether 99 per cent of his neighbors vote or whether only 20 per cent do. It makes no difference whether he has voted in the last three elections, or in none at all before he presents himself at the polls. His right is to vote or not vote as he pleases.

Twenty-nine cities in the program acquired one industry during the year with new jobs created expected to exceed 1,385.

There was also a healthy rise in plant expansions in cities that participated in the Community Betterment Program during 1964. The Division of Commerce announced that 56 communities in the state reported plant expansions last year with 30 of the number being members of the Missouri Community Betterment Program.

Plant expansions last year in cities belonging to the program created in excess of 477 additional jobs in the communities, Gene Clack, Director of the Missouri Community Betterment Program announced today. "This analysis indicates cities with a self-improvement program and striving to attain established goals are apt to prosper," he added.

PORK RIND

For a deadly bait for big bass and pike make your own pork rind . . . like this. Cut fresh rind one inch wide and ten inches long. Taper toward rear and split end back two inches. Insert a No. 4 hook at the front and half way back insert another. Tie the two together with 50-pound-test monofilament. Troll or cast.

Immoral Law

(Editorial in "The Wall Street Journal")

When President Johnsor last Monday asked Congress for a new law to safeguard the voting rights of Negro citizens he rested his case on the Constitution and on a basic principle of morality.

What he has now proposed that the Congress do is enact a law which would violate that Constitution he asks us not to flout and, more, which is itself immoral.

If you think not so, consider:

The Administration bill offers a formula — a complicated one, which we will come to in a moment -- to prohibit certain States from using any test of a citizen's ability to read and write our language as a qualification for voting.

The argument for doing this is the 15th Amendment to the Constitution which provides, clearly enough, that neither the Federal Government nor any State shall deprive a citizen of his vote "on account of" his race or color.

But the proposed bill does not stop with providing means against the violation of the 15th Amendment. It does not aim at insuring that any such State literacy test shall be fairly drawn and impartially administered so that it may not be used as an excuse to deprive anyone of his vote "on account of" his race.

The effect -- and indeed the purpose -- would be to abolish such tests entirely in the affected States. And that flies squarely in the face of this self-same Constitution which the President professes to uphold.

The very first article of that Constitution authorizes the individual States to decide the qualifications of voters in both federal and State elections, subject only to the proviso that whoever is deemed qualified to vote for "the most numerous branch of the State legislature" is automatically qualified to vote in federal elections.

Making this a State function was no casual decision. It was reaffirmed in identical language in the 17th Amendment -- adopted, incidentally, more than 40 years after the 15th Amendment, which provided that all such qualifications should be impartially applied among all citizens.

This principle in the Constitution has been repeatedly upheld and affirmed by the U.S. Supreme Court, not merely in dusty antiquity but as recently as 1959 by judges presently sitting upon that bench.

Now we are well aware that there are a good many people, and perhaps the President is included, who oppose any literacy requirement. They say that a man's illiteracy is irrelevant to the question of having his judgment counted in public affairs. No man can quarrel with the right of such people to argue their case, and, if persuasive, to alter the Constitution so as to prohibit them.

But the requirement that voters be able to read and write is by no means restricted to those Southern States now the object of this special legislation. Many others --including New York State-- require that qualification, as the Constitution entitles them to do.

If it is immoral, as the President says, to deprive a qualified citizen of his right to vote "under color of a literacy test," is it moral to violate one part of the Constitution under the color of upholding another which is in no wise in conflict?

Nor does the question end there, for what this bill proposes to do is to set up a double standard. Some States would be permitted to keep their literacy requirement. Others would not.

The formula prescribed is that of a ratio between the number of persons of voting age within a State and the numbers of voters in an election. If 50 per cent or more of the voting age inhabitants do vote, then the State is absolved. The federal authorities will keep out, and the State may set its own qualifications for voters, including literacy tests. Otherwise, no.

This formula has been carefully devised so that in practice it is expected to apply only to six states, Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi, Georgia, South Carolina and Virginia. In these states the federal authorities would not only have the right to supervise voter registration but to abolish the voter qualifications they don't like.

A few moments reflection on this formula will suggest such weird paradoxes, and the possibility of such strange discriminations, as to stagger the mind.

A minor one is that a strict application of the formula would probably make it applicable to Alaska. However, a way has been devised to exempt it, which as much as anything suggests that the intent is not to write a general rule of law but to subject certain States to special laws.

Not so minor, but certainly weird, is the provision that a person once registered as a voter by the federal authorities will be stricken from the list if he fails to vote "at least once during three consecutive years while listed." In short, you have to vote or you can't.

Of more consequence is the fact that if we have this law a citizen, white or Negro, can be entitled to a vote in Alabama no matter how illiterate he is, or for that matter even if he is a moron. But if the same citizen, white or Negro, lives in New York state he will not be entitled to vote.

This would create a truly ingenious paradox. The illiterate citizen, Negro or otherwise, sould find himself with more "rights" in Alabama and her five outcast sister States than in the great State of New York. More, the educational level of the voting citizens of Alabama, the low level of which is part of the general complaint against it by civil rights leaders, would be further reduced. And this by federal sanction.

Unfortunately, the irony is not funny. Beneath the paradox lies a serious question. Is it moral that our national laws should apply one rule to one State and another to another requiring that the people of one State abolish qualifications for voters while the people of another State may uphold their standards?

Nor is that the end of the consequences of that weird formula. Recall that it permits the Federal Government to put all this machinery in motion, the takeover of the whole voting procedure by federal authorities, only when the voting percentage of a State falls below 50 per cent of the voting age population. If there was ever a device open to what President Johnson calls manipulation, this is it.

So long as a State contrives that one-half of its adults vote, it is free of the formula. This will not be overlooked by ingenious men who can contrive many things when justice is measured by percentages.

And this brings us to what we think is the fundamental immorality of this proposed law, unintentioned though it may be by those who drew it.

Any citizen, white or Negro, has the right to be treated by the law like all other citizens. If he has to meet qualifications to vote -- age or any other -- they must be only the qualifications asked of all. If he qualifies like any other he has the right to vote, and to deny him that right is to deny him what is inalienably his.

It makes no difference whether 99 per cent of his neighbors vote or whether only 20 per cent do. It makes no difference whether he has voted in the last three elections, or in none at all before he presents himself at the polls. His right is to vote or not vote as he pleases.

PRAYER
For Today From The Upper Room

Monday, June 14, 1965
My servant Caleb, because He had another spirit with him, and hath followed me fully, him will I bring into the land whereinto he went; and his seed shall possess it. (Proverbs 14:24)
PRAYER: We thank Thee, O Lord, for the great biblical characters who believed in Thee and remained faithful in spite of all situations. Grant me, O Lord, to trust in Thee and follow Thee fully, as others have done. For the Savior's sake. Amen.

Symbolic Letters

Meaning of the X and P religious symbols is explained thusly: Chi and Rho are the first two letters of the Greek word XPISTOS (Christos) and so often are used as an abbreviation for the name of Christ.

Although the Frisco station has been completed and is ready for occupancy down to the smallest detail, the official opening will not be held until sometime next week, according to station agent Tom Malone. Delay is being cuased by the grounds not being completely filled in, Mr. Malone says.

Mr. and Mrs. John Powell and children left Monday morning for Salt Lake City, Utah, and other western points. They plan to spend the next two months vacationing. Mr. Powell has resigned his position as bookkeeper with the Farmer's Supply Co. J. E. Green, who until recently was connected with Stubbs Motor Co., will be connected with the Farmer's Supply Co., in Mr. Powell's place.

Sportsmen's Park with its new large dance pavillion and its bathing facilities, will open Tuesday night with music by Pickell Cullison's seven-piece orchestra. The new amusement park, which is located about one mile east of Sikeston, is being equipped by C. B. Watson and business associates of Cairo. The pavilion will be under the floor management of Ernest Harper on dance nights. The pavilion is also equipped for moving picutres and vaudeville. The bathing beach is an old swimming hole, which is to be glorified with a white sand beach, boats, bath houses, a wharf and diving boards. The water is the natural underground springs, which have filled in the cavity left after many years of sand dredging.

The fire department rolled across Center Street Wednesday afternoon a trifle too late to save the large frame building, which had caught on fire. The house, which was owned by L. M. Stallcup and G. B. Greer, was formerly the Darby home and was very old. John Brumit had the place rented and his household furnishings were a complete loss.

ABILENE, Tex. -- Lloyd D. Rice, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Rice of 309 Second St., East Prairie, Mo., has been promoted to airman second class in the U. S. Air Force at Dyess AFB, Tex.

Airman Rice is an air policeman in a unit that supports the Strategic Air Command mission of keeping the nation's intercontinental missiles and jet bombers on constant alert.

The airman attended Anniston (Mo.) High School. His wife, Patricia, is the daughter of Mrs. Bob Cade of 207 W. Olive St., East Prairie.

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark. —Airman First Class Gary L. Avitts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cheslie E. Avitts of 400 E. Eighth St., Portageville, Mo., has been selected Outstanding Maintenance Man of the Month at Blytheville AFB, Ark.

Airman Avitts was chosen for the honor in recognition of his exemplary conduct and duty performance. He is an aircraft radio repairman in a unit which supports the Strategic Air Command mission of keeping the nation's intercontinental missiles and jet bombers on constant alert.

The airman is a graduate of Portageville High School. His wife, Gwendoly, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Taylor of Hayti, Mo.

Longbow's Effectiveness

The famous English longbow was from five to six feet in height and an archer could shoot six aimed shots a minute at an effective range of 200 yards.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I was upset by the letter from the woman who wanted to tie her husband's jaws together with a silk stocking to keep him from snoring. Some women may think I'm nutty as a fruitcake but the sound of my husband snoring is the sweetest sound I know. It tells me that he is at my side--where he belongs.

Not only do I enjoy hearing him snore, but I love to look at his face when he is asleep. He looks so much like our son when he was a baby. There is a quality of innocence in his face that reduces me to mush. His hair is mussed up, like a little boy's, and his lips have a mischievous curve.

My husband has no idea I like to watch him sleep so please don't pring my intitials or the name of this city. Just sign me. -- MRS. CONTENTED

Dear Mrs.: You sound like a lady in love. How lovely--for both of you.

Dear Ann Landers: When I was 17 I fell for a handsome guy who played drums in a well-known band. I was stubborn, foolish and full of romantic fantasies.

When I became pregnant I was glad because I thought sure Ed would marry me. I was wrong. He said if I tried to force a marraige he'd swear the baby wasn't his and get two of his buddies to testify in court that his story could be true.

A friend of my older brother heard of my trouble and asked me to marry him. He said he had always been in love with me and wanted to take care of me and the child. I agreed.

It is not true that you can't learn to love a person. I learned to love my husband and I'd put our marriage up against anyone's. Ed's child is now four years old. And I now have a little girl.

The drummer boy called yesterday from Detroit. He is playing a job here next week and wants to see me and "his son." He says he has never been able to forget me and now he wants to patch things up. When I told him "No", he said he has legal rights. Does he? I am so confused and frightened I don't know what to do. He is calling again next week. Please give me some advice. --BAD PAST

Dear Past: The drummer boy has no legal rights. When he calls again tell him to take his drum and beat it.

Dear Ann Landers: I want you to know before you read this letter that I am no kid. I'm a married woman. My friends tell me I am behaving like a 6-year-old. Am I?

My little dog was very dear to me. I thought more of Pike than I do of most of my friends.

Last week Poke became ill. I was in bed with the flu and could not take him to the vet, so I asked my sister to take him. Poke died on the way to the hospital.

I was so attached to Poke I can't stop thinking about him. I find myself getting his food and listening for his scratching at the door. My friends have told me to get another dog. I'm afraid I couldn't bear to go through this agony again. What do you say?--HOUSTON

Dear Houston: Life is full of risks. Those who are afraid to make an emotional investment for fear of being hurt cheat themselves of the most meaningful part of living.

Your suffering, in a sense, is a measure of the joy Poke brought to you. If he hadn't meant a great deal you wouldn't be so bereft. Get another dog. You'll be glad you did.

Parents are people--they can be right and they can be wrong. To help understand their viewpoint and to promote harmony at home, write for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents." enclosing with your request 20¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Increase Calls For Choppers After Rains

KENNETT -- The Missouri State Employment Service reports that excessive rains in the Bootheel have increased demands for cotton choppers 30 per cent above the anticipated needs and that the choppers are receiving wages between 60 and 80 cents per hour.

The Dunklin County strawberry harvest ended last week and 60 laborers from Texas were referred by the Kennett State Employment Office to Michigan for work there.

The farm labor bulletin, released by the Missouri Division of Employment Security, pointed out that in the Sikeston area there is a shortage of workers temporarily because of the excessive shower activity in that section and the failure of pre-emergence weed chemicals to control grass in cotton fields. Wages in some Sikeston localities are the highest since 1959 for cotton chopping. By about June 14 this situation is expected to return to a normal status.

The Farm Labor Information Station and Rest Camp on Sikeston Route Two served 820 migrants during the week ending May 30. Of this number 809 were from Texas, seven from Arkansas and four from Alabama. When they departed, 41 were enroute to Illinois, 160 to Indiana, 554 to Michigan, 61 to Ohio and four remained to Missouri. To date, 3,711 persons have used the camp facilities this year. This number is 308 below the comparable date last year.

The Poplar Bluff area report states that too much rain has been falling there and all crops need plowing and chopping. Some farmers are paying 75 cents an hour for cotton choppers and the demand is pressing for farm hands and cotton choppers.

Cotton chopping has become general over most of Pemiscot County with the demand for choppers increasing daily. It is reported that farmers are competing for available labor at pick-up points.

The demand for farm labor continues to be heavy in the Cape Girardeau area also. The situation there has been balanced with a surplus of inexperienced single male workers, ages 16 to 20, with the closing of high school and college.

Morehouse News

Cleddis Huffman was mowing his lawn Tuesday afternoon after work and a piece of rusty wire went in his leg above the knee. The doctor was unable to get it out and he has taken pencillin, tetanus shot and also an X-ray and was unable to work the remainder of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Abernathy and family and Mrs. Barbara West and baby attended the cemetery decoration Sunday at McGres Chapel near Lutesville.

Mrs. Anna Brown, 93, returned home Friday after spending four weeks in the Sikeston Hospital, suffering from a severe heart attack.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Clark attended the graduation of their grandson, Timothy Lee, Thursday night from the eighth grade at McKinzie Junior High in St. Louis and their granddaughter, Sharon Lee, who graduated from Afton High School Friday night. The latter suffered a mild heart attack and spent the weekend in the Lutheran Hospital in St. Louis. She had a severe heart attack two years ago.

Mrs. Eleanor Fox, Misses Thelma and Nellie Reynolds attended the Sikeston order of Eastern Star Lodge Thursday night at the Masonic Temple where the District Deputy, Mrs. Lela Maitland, was introduced.

Mrs. Artie Heath, Sunday School teacher, and her helper, Mrs. Carl McKnight, gave her Beginner's Class a picnic Sunday at the Assembly of God Church. Those attending were Mrs. Louis Driner and daughter, Nancy, Steve McKnight, Darlene and Phyllis and Sonja Heath.

The Vacation Bible School is in the second week at the Morehouse Methodist Church, with a good enrollment.

Mrs. Hazel Saulters underwent surgery Saturday at the Lucy Lee Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

Mrs. Marvalene Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Launius and John of Morehouse, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sloan and Mrs. Allie Stroud of Sikeston, Claude Hunt and Mr. and Mrs. Bud Hunt and daughter of St. Louis, attended the cemetery association held Sunday at the Walker's Church in Bloomfield.

It takes a lot of "outside" help to get this year's big telephone job done...

This year Southwestern Bell is investing nearly $1 million a day in an intensified construction effort to make your telephone service (already the most modern and reliable in the world) even better.

These construction dollars, pouring into communities large and small, account for some 17,500 jobs among the hundreds of firms which sell supplies, services and materials to the telephone company.

These jobs mean more paydays for secretaries, accountants, architects, brickmasons, carpenters, engineers, truck drivers, bulldozer operators, ditch diggers—thousands of people who aren't telephone company employees.

There's another tangible benefit, too. Because hundreds of individual projects affect virtually every telephone exchange we serve, the economic impact in these communities will be significant and widespread.

That's how Southwestern Bell's construction program works to help build a more prosperous America. You, personally, will benefit through even better telephone service. "Your Town, USA" benefits from a surge of new dollars into the local economy.

PRAYER
For Today From The Upper Room

Monday, June 14, 1965

My servant Caleb, because He had another spirit with him, and hath followed me fully, him will I bring into the land whereinto he went; and his seed shall possess it. (Proverbs 14:24)

PRAYER: We thank Thee, O Lord, for the great biblical characters who believed in Thee and remained faithful in spite of all situations. Grant me, O Lord, to trust in Thee and follow Thee fully, as others have done. For the Savior's sake. Amen.

Symbolic Letters

Meaning of the X and P religious symbols is explained thusly: Chi and Rho are the first two letters of the Greek word XPISTOS (Christos) and so often are used as an abbreviation for the name of Christ.

Although the Frisco station has been completed and is ready for occupancy down to the smallest detail, the official opening will not be held until sometime next week, according to station agent Tom Malone. Delay is being cuased by the grounds not being completely filled in, Mr. Malone says.

Mr. and Mrs. John Powell and children left Monday morning for Salt Lake City, Utah, and other western points. They plan to spend the next two months vacationing. Mr. Powell has resigned his position as bookkeeper with the Farmer's Supply Co. J. E. Green, who until recently was connected with Stubbs Motor Co., will be connected with the Farmer's Supply Co., in Mr. Powell's place.

Sportsmen's Park with its new large dance pavillion and its bathing facilities, will open Tuesday night with music by Pickell Cullison's seven-piece orchestra. The new amusement park, which is located about one mile east of Sikeston, is being equipped by C. B. Watson and business associates of Cairo. The pavilion will be under the floor management of Ernest Harper on dance nights. The pavilion is also equipped for moving picutres and vaudevile. The bathing beach is an old swimming hole, which is to be glorified with a white sand beach, boats, bath houses, a wharf and diving boards. The water is the natural underground springs, which have filled in the cavity left after many years of sand dredging.

The fire department rolled across Center Street Wednesday afternoon a trifle too late to save the large frame building, which had caught on fire. The house, which was owned by L. M. Stallcup and G. B. Greer, was formerly the Darby home and was very old. John Brumit had the place rented and his household furnishings were a complete loss.

ABILENE, Tex. -- Lloyd D. Rice, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Rice of 309 Second St., East Prairie, Mo., has been promoted to airman second class in the U. S. Air Force at Dyess AFB, Tex.

Airman Rice is an air policeman in a unit that supports the Strategic Air Command mission of keeping the nation's intercontinental missiles and jet bombers on constant alert.

The airman attended Anniston (Mo.) High School. His wife, Patricia, is the daughter of Mrs. Bob Cade of 207 W. Olive St., East Prairie.

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark. —Airman First Class Gary L. Avitts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cheslie E. Avitts of 400 E. Eighth St., Portageville, Mo., has been selected Outstanding Maintenance Man of the Month at Blytheville AFB, Ark.

Airman Avitts was chosen for the honor in recognition of his exemplary conduct and duty performance. He is an aircraft radio repairman in a unit which supports the Strategic Air Command mission of keeping the nation's intercontinental missiles and jet bombers on constant alert.

The airman is a graduate of Portageville High School. His wife, Gwendoly, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Taylor of Hayti, Mo.

Longbow's Effectiveness

The famous English longbow was from five to six feet in height and an archer could shoot six aimed shots a minute at an effective range of 200 yards.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I was upset by the letter from the woman who wanted to tie her husband's jaws together with a silk stocking to keep him from snoring. Some women may think I'm nutty as a fruitcake but the sound of my husband snoring is the sweetest sound I know. It tells me that he is at my side--where he belongs.

Not only do I enjoy hearing him snore, but I love to look at his face when he is asleep. He looks so much like our son when he was a baby. There is a quality of innocence in his face that reduces me to mush. His hair is mussed up, like a little boy's, and his lips have a mischievous curve.

My husband has no idea I like to watch him sleep so please don't pring my intitials or the name of this city. Just sign me. -- MRS. CONTENTED

Dear Mrs.: You sound like a lady in love. How lovely--for both of you.

Dear Ann Landers: When I was 17 I fell for a handsome guy who played drums in a well-known band. I was stubborn, foolish and full of romantic fantasies.

When I became pregnant I was glad because I thought sure Ed would marry me. I was wrong. He said if I tried to force a marraige he'd swear the baby wasn't his and get two of his buddies to testify in court that his story could be true.

A friend of my older brother heard of my trouble and asked me to marry him. He said he had always been in love with me and wanted to take care of me and the child. I agreed.

It is not true that you can't learn to love a person. I learned to love my husband and I'd put our marriage up against anyone's. Ed's child is now four years old. A nd I now have a little girl.

The drummer boy called yesterday from Detroit. He is playing a job here next week and wants to see me and "his son." He says he has never been able to forget me and now he wants to patch things up. When I told him "No", he said he has legal rights. Does he? I am so confused and frightened I don't know what to do. He is calling again next week. Please give me some advice. --BAD PAST

Dear Past: The drummer boy has no legal rights. When he calls again tell him to take his drum and beat it.

Dear Ann Landers: I want you to know before you read this letter that I am no kid. I'm a married woman. My friends tell me I am behaving like a 6-year-old. Am I?

My little dog was very dear to me. I thought more of Pike than I do of most of my friends.

Last week Poke became ill. I was in bed with the flu and could not take him to the vet, so I asked my sister to take him. Poke died on the way to the hospital.

I was so attached to Poke I can't stop thinking about him. I find myself getting his food and listening for his scratching at the door. My friends have told me to get another dog. I'm afraid I couldn't bear to go through this agony again. What do you say?--HOUSTON

Dear Houston: Life is full of risks. Those who are afraid to make an emotional investment for fear of being hurt cheat themselves of the most meaningful part of living.

Your suffering, in a sense, is a measure of the joy Poke brought to you. If he hadn't meant a great deal you wouldn't be so bereft. Get another dog. You'll be glad you did.

Parents are people--they can be right and they can be wrong. To help understand their viewpoint and to promote harmony at home, write for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents." enclosing with your request 20¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Increase Calls For Choppers After Rains

KENNETT -- The Missouri State Employment Service reports that excessive rains in the Bootheel have increased demands for cotton choppers 30 per cent above the anticipated needs and that the choppers are receiving wages between 60 and 80 cents per hour.

The Dunklin County strawberry harvest ended last week and 60 laborers from Texas were referred by the Kennett State Employment Office to Michigan for work there.

The farm labor bulletin, released by the Missouri Division of Employment Security, pointed out that in the Sikeston area there is a shortage of workers temporarily because of the excessive shower activity in that section and the failure of pre-emergence weed chemicals to control grass in cotton fields. Wages in some Sikeston localities are the highest since 1959 for cotton chopping. By about June 14 this situation is expected to return to a normal status.

The Farm Labor Information Station and Rest Camp on Sikeston Route Two served 820 migrants during the week ending May 30. Of this number 809 were from Texas, seven from Arkansas and four from Alabama. When they departed, 41 were enroute to Illinois, 160 to Indiana, 554 to Michigan, 61 to Ohio and four remained to Missouri. To date, 3,711 persons have used the camp facilities this year. Fireworks And Fun Planned For July 5

BLOOMFIELD -- A gigantic night fireworks display, music, games and food will be the big attractions again this year at the annual Bloomfield Fourth of July Picnic.

Subject to minor changes and additions, the entire program was worked out by men at a meeting in the new Bank of Bloomfield civic assembly room.

In charge of the meeting were John Davis and Bill Fulkerson, co-chairmen of the ways and means committee, who made the assignments and outlined the program and the duties of the program committee.

In order to raise funds to pay for the entertainment and prizes, the ways and means committee appointed Fred Stoll and Fred Koenig to sell advertising space in The Vindicator to the business firms in Bloomfield, a plan used last year.

James Spain was named chairman of the games committee and charged with the duties of buying prizes, setting up stands and getting his assistants.

Tom Hewgley was made chairman of the games for youngsters, including two baseball games between the top Little League and the top Pony League teams. He also was asked to see if other children's games could be arranged.

Charles Christian was named chairman of the popcorn and lemonade stand.

The Lions Club was given the job of operating the Sno-Cone stand.

Mack Scism and Charles Graham will be in charge of the electric light and power facilities.

Dick Hart was named chairman of the musical entertainment committee. This committee will try to obtain a band for the afternoon and one for the evening to provide dance music for teenagers and possibly gospel singers.

Co-chairmen for the food committee are Don Gibbs, Elmer Hopkins and James Pepper. They are to provide the chickens for the barbecue dinner and the provisions for the sandwich stands.

The hamburger stand will be operated by the Amvets.

Bill Fulkerson, C. L. Rudder and Marvin Smith will be in charge of the chicken barbecue dinner operation.

Bloyce Unger and Harry Norman were given two details; to head the finance committee and to be in charge of the ticket sales for the barbecue chicken dinners.

Bob Gaines is charged with preparing the park grounds before and during the picnic, using the fire truck equipment to keep down dust if necessary.

Elmer Spangler was named chairman of the fireworks committee. His committee will set off the fireworks displays July 5, the date of the picnic.

Alvin Corbin and Fred Koenig are co-chairmen of the grounds committee. This year the plans are to have the stands erected in the form of a midway, giving a carnival atmosphere to the picnic.

Because July 4 falls on a Sunday this year Independence Day will be observed July 5. The annual picnic will be on that date.

A DUO of new stars, "The Buffalo Boys," will join the electrical fair troupe . . .Ready to sing and play at the drop of a chord, Rich Hugo and Wayne Hillman will tour the annual meeting circuit this summer appearing at the 28th annual meeting of the Scott - New Madrid-Mississippi Electric Cooperative June 25.

Purchases Town, Population 50

MENLO PARK, Calif. AP--In the sagebrush and jack-rabbit country of lonely northeastern Navada, Kenneth Krueger, a train - weary San Francisco Bay area commuter, found the little town of Currie - population 50 - for sale.

It was just what he and his wife Jeannette had been looking for. So they bought it with their life savings of $85,000.

Tuesday, Kreuger, 45, and his wife will pull up stakes at their apartment here and point their station wagon east for Currie.

The ex-suburbanites are assured of a cordial reception. Krueger, until last week motor vehicle inspector for Pacific Telephone & Tellegraph Co. in San Francisco, automatically will become the town mayor, sheriff, fire chief, ranger, assessor and landlord.

That's because he not only bought the town's 75 acres but its few houses and businesses as well. Krueger and his wife will run the general store, the service station, a bar and a trailer park.

Until 1900 Currie was a railhead for cattle and sheep growers. Now the livestock goes to market in trucks but Currie still caters to hunters and fishermen. It lies at the foot of the towering Goshute and Ruby mountains whose slopes abound in elk and deer and whose streams and tumble with trout.

A blink of the eye and you're past it on U. S. 93, 76 miles north of Ely.

The Kruegers don't know exactly when they got the yen to flee suburbia.

But, Krueger says, "five years ago, on our vacations, we began probing all the desolate areas of California. We were hunting for a spot where, if you wanted to make it as such, you could practically live the year 1859 all over again."

For various reasons the land they saw in California didn't appeal.

Last year the Kruegers stopped in Currie. There they met F. A. Majors who wanted to sell the town --lock, stock and barrel.

"We had the money, says Krueger, "But, believe me, it wasn't through inheritance or anything like that. It was our savings, close-to-the vest living."

"Yes, even beans and hot dogs, at times."

The couple will live in a two-bedroom house. "It's not like here on the peninsula or in San Francisco," Krueger admits. "But I've seen worse. It's livable."

Drueger says he expects his position as the town's only businessman to keep him on the jot most of the time.

"But it's going to be a lot more than just punching a time clock. We're going to build up Currie, but still keep it on a real, live old frontier basis. We've never been happier in our lives."

Doniphan Woman Heads Democrats

KENNETT — Mrs. Orlean Kobert of Doniphan was installed as president of the 10th District Missouri Federation of Women's Democratic Clubs. She succeeds Mrs. Fred Rigdon of Kennett. Ninety Democratic women and their guests gathered at the Kennett American Legion Building for the district meeting.

Mrs. Lue Lozier, president of the Missouri Federation of Women's Democratic Clubs installed the new officers.

Other officers are: Mrs. David Rolwing of Charleston, first vice president; Mrs. Mabel Abington of Poplar Bluff, second vice-president; Mrs. Wilma Ringer of Dexter, third vice-president; Mrs. Norma Kay of Chaffee, fourth vice-president; Mrs. Bill Rose of Cape Girardeau, fifth vice-president; Mrs. Faye Romburg of Farmington, recording secretary; Mrs. Beatrice Green of Doniphan, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Elmer Kreyling of Perryville, treasurer; Mrs. W. O. Edwards of New Madrid, auditor; and Margaret Rone of Hayti, parliamentarian.

Among the special guests were State Director of Revenue Tom David, his wife and daughter, State Auditor Haskel Holman and assistant budget director A. C. Sullivan.

Speaker was Rep. David Rolwing of Charleston who discussed the reapportionment issue now confronting the Missouri Legislature.

The Mississippi County legislator noted that the Missouri Legislature set the precedent for electing members of the Senate and House of Representatives when it became a state and other legislative bodies followed its example by electing senators on the basis of population and representatives from each county.

However, he said, Missouri legislators have not been able to find any precedent to follow in complying with the recent Supreme Court ruling that the House must be reapportioned according to population. He said even the Solicitor General in Washington, D.C. has been unable to offer a guideline for the legislature to follow.

Rolwing said the Missouri Legislature is trying to follow county lines as much as possible in its attempt to reapportion, but under the present plan, about half of the representatives in Missouri would come from St. Louis County, St. Louis, Jackson County and Springfield.

He said 24 states have already petitioned Congress to call a constitutional convention on the issue. Only nine more states are needed for this to be done, he said.

The 10th District of Missouri Federation of Women's Democratic Clubs is composed of Butler, Cape Girardeau, Dunklin, Mississippi, New Madrid, Pemiscot, Perry, Ripley, Scott, St. Francois, Ste. Genevieve and Stoddard counties.

Fireworks And Fun Planned For July 5

BLOOMFIELD -- A gigantic night fireworks display, music, games and food will be the big attractions again this year at the annual Bloomfield Fourth of July Picnic.

Subject to minor changes and additions, the entire program was worked out by men at a meeting in the new Bank of Bloomfield civic assembly room.

In charge of the meeting were John Davis and Bill Fulkerson, co-chairmen of the ways and means committee, who made the assignments and outlined the program and the duties of the program committee.

In order to raise funds to pay for the entertainment and prizes, the ways and means committee appointed Fred Stoll and Fred Koenig to sell advertising space in The Vindicator to the business firms in Bloomfield, a plan used last year.

James Spain was named chairman of the games committee and charged with the duties of buying prizes, setting up stands and getting his assistants.

Tom Hewgley was made chairman of the games for youngsters, including two baseball games between the top Little League and the top Pony League teams. He also was asked to see if other children's games could be arranged.

Charles Christian was named chairman of the popcorn and lemonade stand.

The Lions Club was given the job of operating the Sno-Cone stand.

Mack Scism and Charles Graham will be in charge of the electric light and power facilities.

Dick Hart was named chairman of the musical entertainment committee. This committee will try to obtain a band for the afternoon and one for the evening to provide dance music for teenagers and possibly gospel singers.

Co-chairmen for the food committee are Don Gibbs, Elmer Hopkins and James Pepper. They are to provide the chickens for the barbecue dinner and the provisions for the sandwich stands.

The hamburger stand will be operated by the Amvets.

Bill Fulkerson, C. L. Rudder and Marvin Smith will be in charge of the chicken barbecue dinner operation.

Bloyce Unger and Harry Norman were given two details; to head the finance committee and to be in charge of the ticket sales for the barbecue chicken dinners.

Bob Gaines is charged with preparing the park grounds before and during the picnic, using the fire truck equipment to keep down dust if necessary.

Elmer Spangler was named chairman of the fireworks committee. His committee will set off the fireworks displays July 5, the date of the picnic.

Alvin Corbin and Fred Koenig are co-chairmen of the grounds committee. This year the plans are to have the stands erected in the form of a midway, giving a carnival atmosphere to the picnic.

Because July 4 falls on a Sunday this year Independence Day will be observed July 5. The annual picnic will be on that date.

A DUO of new stars, "The Buffalo Boys," will join the electrical fair troupe . . .Ready to sing and play at the drop of a chord, Rich Hugo and Wayne Hillman will tour the annual meeting circuit this summer appearing at the 28th annual meeting of the Scott - New Madrid-Mississippi Electric Cooperative June 25.

Purchases Town, Population 50

THE CITY OF
Resolution

A resolution declaring the necessity for the construction of 1 1/2 inch hotmix asphaltic pavement on 6 inch soil cement base on Indiana Street from Missouri Avenue to Broadway in the City of Sikeston, Missouri; stating the nature of the improvement; the estimated cost and providing that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills levied and assessed against the abutting property. Be it resolved by the Council of the City of Sikeston, State of Missouri, as follows: Section 1: That the Council of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said Street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the City of Sikeston. Section 2: That the nature and scope of the improvements shall consist of furnishing all costs, including labor, materials and transportation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement. Section 3: That the estimated cost of the improvement is $2.60 per lineal foot of abutting property, to be charged against the lots and tracts of land abutting the improvement. Section 4: That payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills evidencing special assessments against the abutting property in the manner specified by the statutes of the State of Missouri and the ordinances of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, because in the opinion of the City Council the General Revenue fund of the City of Sikeston is not in a condition to warrant an expenditure therefrom to pay for the improvement. Section 5: That any work performed on construction of the improvement shall be in compliance with the provisions of the prevailing wage laws of the State of Missouri, such prevailing wage rates having been established by the Industrial Commission of Missouri. Section 6: That the City Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy of this Resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the City of Sikeston, so that it shall be published for seven consecutive insertions. Read the first, second and third times and passed and approved this 7th day of June, 1965. Approved: Kendall Sikes, Mayor; Attest: John W. Vaughn, City Clerk.

The banana (an African name) was first brought to America shortly after the time of Columbus from the Canary Islands. It was first established in Hispaniola and soon spread to other islands and the mainland. More than 3,000,000 tons of bananas are exported each year. The United States is the world's largest importer of this fruit, although large quantities also go to Great Britain and continental Europe, especially from the West Indies and Africa.

Section 4: That payment of all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills evidencing special assessments against the abutting property in the manner specified by the statutes of the State of Missouri and the ordinances of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, because in the opinion of the City Council the General Revenue fund of the City of Sikeston is not in a condition to warrant an expenditure therefrom to pay for the improvement. Section 5: That any work performed on construction of the improvement shall be in compliance with the provisions of the prevailing wage laws of the State of Missouri, such prevailing wage rates having been established by the Industrial Commission of Missouri. Section 6: That the City Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy of this Resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the City of Sikeston, so that it shall be published for sever consecutive insertions. Read the first, second and third times and passed and approved this 7th day of June, 1965. Approved: Kendall Sikes, Mayor; Attest: John W. Vaughn, City Clerk.

matter of fact

The banana (an African name) was first brought to America shortly after the time of Columbus from the Canary Islands. It was first established in Hispaniola and soon spread to other islands and the mainland. More than 3,000,000 tons of bananas are exported each year. The United States is the world's largest importer of this fruit, although large quantities also go to Great Britain and continental Europe, especially from the West Indies and Africa.

Flood Kills One

REEDS SPRING, Mo. (AP) — The cloudburst that flooded Reeds Spring Saturday night caused damage estimated at more than $1 million and killed one man.

Mayor Frank Judah estimated the loss. He said the Hagle Germain factory reported a loss of $750,000, mostly to materials, and more than $50,000 damage resulted at Rushong's Inc., a combined department store and market.

The mayor said about 20 business places had damage from $500 to $8,000, and many homes were flooded. Blacktop pavement was washed away on some streets by water four feet deep that rushed down from the Ozark hills.

Swept to his death was Charles L. Hargus, 44, of Springfield, Mo. Hargus and his wife were driving to Table Rock Lake to fish when their car and trailer were caught in the flood. Mrs. Hargus climbed atop the trailer and was rescued.

The water had receded by Sunday morning. Mayor Judah said it would take 30 days to clean up the mess.

Reeds Spring, with 555 residents, is 35 miles south of Springfield.

Rep. Durward Hall, R-Mo., said his office in Washington is taking steps to obtain disaster aid for Reeds Spring. He said it had contacted the Federal Housing Administration and the Small Business Administration for information about long-term, low interest loans.

Hall also said he had talked with Gov. Warren Hearnes and that the governor had promised every possible aid.

Robert Wilcox of Springfield, health educator for the Missouri district division of health, said state public health nurses will hold a typhoid and tetanus immunization clinic at the Reeds Spring drug store. The clinic will continue for about six days. The vaccine is free.

Hamra's Enterprises In Suit

Hamra's Department Stores, Inc., and Hamra's Apparel, Inc., were named in a civil injunction suit under the Fair Labor Standards Act on file today in U.S. District Court at Cape Girardeau.

The three firms maintain a common central office and warehouse at 210 First Street, Kennett, Mo. Hamra's Enterprises, Inc., has a place of business at Sikeston, Mo. Hamra's Department Stores, Inc., has two establishments at Kennett, and Hamra's Apparel, Inc., has retail stores at Dexter, Malden, and Portageville, Mo., and at Piggott, Ark.

Three employees at the central office and warehouse, involved in ordering and handling interstate shipments, were allegedly not paid the required $1.25 minimum wage.

The complaint said that 13 employees of the Kennett establishment covered by the Act because the enterprise as a whole is covered, were not paid either the $1.15 hourly minimum wage, nor time-and-a-half for hours worked in excess of 42 per workweek.

The court was asked to bar future violations, and to require the defendants to maintain adequate time and pay records, as prescribed under the statute.

Three gold mines, which reach more than 9,000 feet below the surface, lie within the municipal area of Johannesburg, South Africa.

Outstate Urban Areas Championed

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- Larger urban areas in outstate Missouri may help solve some of the problems in the Kansas City and St. Louis metropolitan areas.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes advanced that idea Friday night in a speech before the Missouri Good Roads Association.

He envisioned rejuvenation of 25 outstate cities to counteract urban decay and rural population losses.

Hearnes said new highways can stimulate growth of outstate cities -- such as a new route from Kirksville to the Arkansas line and a diagonal route from northeastern to southwestern Missouri.

Such highways may become financially possible under the new "Little Appalachia" plan which the governors of Missouri, Arkansas, Kansas and Oklahoma pushing.

Hearnes said the four states hope to receive $1 to $2 million at the state, primarily for highway planning. Ultimately aid might reach $300 million.

Speaking of urban outstate areas he said:

"We might envision a healthy tri-city area of Jefferson City-Columbia - Fulton with 300,000 or perhaps a half million people, a Kirksville with 250,000 population, West Plains 100,000, a thriving Mexico with as many -- all very strong, well balanced, economically thriving centers.

"Springfield, Sikeston, Cape Girardeau, Joplin, Hannibal -- all would be nearby centers to attract the people, instead of one or two huge cities in which the people would be absorbed in the maze of massive problems."

Versatility, Key At DuQuoin State Fair

DU QUOIN, Ill. -- (Special) -- Versatility keys the Du Quoin State Fair's night show extravaganze this year as zany Phyllis Diller, sweet-singing Brenda Lee and remarkable George Kirby head a quality cast which also is the largest ever to appear here.

All prominent on the nation's top entertainment circuit, Diller, Lee and Kirby will furnish more than one-half of the 150-minute show runs for seven nights, Aug. 30 through Sept. 5, in the Du Quoin exposition's 43d year.

A resident of nearby Webster Groves, Mo., and mother of "Fang" Diller's five children, Phyllis is best known as one of the rare female stand-up comics who has appeared on countless television shows.

Miss Lee also has made more than her share of tv appearances since her first hit recording, "Jambalaya," and network show in 1956. Dozens of other hits have followed as has international fame, the result of working visits to Europe and South America. Also appearing with Miss Lee at Du Quoin will be The Casuals, a talented singing - instrumental group.

Kirby, of course, will be making a repeat performance at the Fair following his smash Labor Day - night appearance last year. An imaginative mimic, singer, raconteur, pianist and dialectician, Kirby was a show-stopper in his first visit and has an even larger collection of triumphs now.

Others scheduled to appear are Gus Augspurg and his Girl Friends, the Good Time Singers, The Half Brothers, Manhattan Rockets, and Lou Breese's Orchestra. Johnny Matson will serve as m.c.

Tickets to all night performances, as well as other Du Quoin Fair attractions, are now available.

Discovery Bill Being Urged On

Senator Edward V. Long (D.-Mo.) today urged the Senate Commerce Committee to approve a bill which would make new scientific discoveries more accessible to industry and small business.

The bill would help state organizations in transferring to business firms new ideas from university and Federal research projects.

"In the past 10 years, the Government has supported almost $100 billion in research and development. It is just plain good business sense to seek additional usage of this bought and paid for resource of technical knowledge," Senator Long said.

Under this bill "states such as Missouri can benefit from research and development done anywhere."

The bill would permit an institution designated by the governor of each state to draw up and administer 5-year plans for the utilization of scientific information. The plans would be approved by the Secretary of Commerce. The Federal government would supply funds equal to state funds up to certain levels. Missouri, for instance, would be eligible for around one-half million dollars in Federal funds.

The bill would help states provide surveys, demonstration clinics, and information centers. In addition to Federal funds for states, the bill would help open up to all firms the results of Federal research.

"Small business is particularly at a disadvantage in fields where technological change is rapid," Senator Long said. "Technical extension services from nearby universities can bring small business scientific knowledge developed under U.S. tax-dollar funding."

The Senator praised the Midwest Research Institute of Kansas City, and the University of Missouri Extension Division. Both already have technical transfer programs.

MRI is today conducting a pilot project for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The University Extension Division has been sharing the discoveries of the University's research laboratories with many small Missouri firms.

Both MRI and the University demonstrate that "local effort, personalized and selective, is the key to technological transfer. The proposed Act has this idea as a basic ingredient," Senator Long said.

"If the proposed joint state-Federal approach can extract an additional bonus benefit of $1 from every $1000 invested in science and engineering, it will have paid for itself. I am certain the value will be many times that amount. It will lead to a new surge in the American economy."

House Passes Re-Districting

JEFFERSON CITY AP--The status of major issues before the Missouri Legislature:

Reapportionment -- House has passed a bill setting up the 168 proposed districts for the House. Meanwhile, a joint committee of the House and Senate was prepared to try to work out a compromise on the suggested constitutional amendment on House redistricting. The House wants four - year staggered terms for its members, plus increased clerical staffs. The Senate wants House members to remain on two-year terms, keep the same clerical limits and establish a commission to set House district lines. A special commission forged ahead in plans for senatorial redistricting. And a House committee figured on a couple of more meetings before drafting congressional district lines in accordance with federal one - man - one vote decisions.

Appropriations -- Headed into conference committee this week with a target of completion on major bills by around mid-June. Meanwhile, the omnibus, or catchall, appropriation bill should clear the House Appropriations Committee early in the coming week.

Commission on the Arts -- Passed by the House and in the midst of a Senate argument. It should be settled there one way or other by mid-week. If amendments are accepted it might have to go back to the House.

Sixty per cent majority for general obligation bond issues --Passed by the House and if it is to be successful it must emerge from the Senate Judiciary Committee this week.

Conflict of Interest--The bill requiring lobbyists to report their connections and how they spend their money, and preventing public officials from private gain because of their positions, has passed the House and is pending on the Senate calendar with a committee amendment attached.

Mental Retardation Clinics--A bill to establish nine regional clinics at an estimated cost of $3.6 million has passed both houses and is heading for the desk of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes who recommended it.

Sales Tax--The bill to change the tax to a gross receipts tax and close a court discovered loophole is on the Senate Calendar. So is a bill to make purchasers start paying the tax on purchases of 15 cents or more, instead of 25 cents or more.

Cooking Sweetbreads

Sweetbreads may be braised or fried without precooking; however, the membrane must first be removed. If they're going to be used in a salad or creamed with ham or veal, do precook them to make them firm as well as to keep them white.

When they're not used immediately after purchasing, precook them also. This variety meat is very delicate and highly perishable. Precooking increases the keeping quality slightly.

Elks Induct Eighteen

Eighteen new members were inducted into the Elks Lodge last week.

They are Rene DeKriek, N. E. Fuchs III, Lawrence Robbins, Loomis Mayfield, Jr., James Moore III, Bob Wilson, Robert Ralph, George Bluemlein, Bill Keefer, Ed Michael, W. J. Crutcher, Paul Meyer, John Moll, R. L. Saulter, Alton McCann, J. R. Watson, W. P. Hunter, Jr. and Ernest Bizzell.

A dance was held Saturday night at the Lodge for Elks and their guests.

Sunday along with the Chaffee Lodge, Sikeston Elks held Flag Day Services at Chaffee.

The next meeting will be held June 23 at Elks Lodge.

A social outcast is an honest person who always tells the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth.

CONTRARY WINDS

Airmen say that one of the first rules they learn is to turn their plane towards the wind and fly against it. The wind lifts the plane up to higher heights.

Where did they learn that? They learned it from the birds. If the bird is flying for pleasure, it goes with the wind. But if the bird meets danger it turns right round, faces the wind and flies higher and higher toward the very sun.

Discipline, difficulties and often suffering are God's winds —His contrary winds, sometimes His buffeting winds. They can be God's hurricane, but they take human life and lift it to higher levels toward God's Heaven and the atmosphere the soul requires for fuller development.

Obstacles ought to set us singing. The wind finds voice, not when rushing across the open sea, but when hindered by the outstretched arms of tall pine trees or broken by the fine strings of an Aeolian harp. Then it is heard in songs of power and beauty that stimulate the imagination and elevate the soul.

Do not resist or fear the winds of discipline, of hardness or even of opposition. Let them blow freely upon your life. Like the bird and the plane, you will be lifted up to where you may see wonders that otherwise you would never know.

Nothing happens by chance. God has a plan for every life, and it is an infallible truth that "all things work together for good to them that love God," and His paths are ever mercy and truth. — Margaret Guerney

Flood Kills One

REEDS SPRING, Mo. (AP) — The cloudburst that flooded Reeds Spring Saturday night caused damage estimated at more than $1 million and killed one man.

Mayor Frank Judah estimated the loss. He said the Hagle General Factory reported a loss of $750,000, mostly to materials, and more than $50,000 damage resulted at Bushong's Inc., a combined department store and market.

The mayor said about 20 business places had damage from $500 to $8,000, and many homes were flooded. Blacktop pavement was washed away on some streets by water four feet deep that rushed down from the Ozark hills.

Swept to his death was Charles L. Hargus, 44, of Springfield, Mo. Hargus and his wife were driving to Table Rock Lake to fish when their car and trailer were caught in the flood. Mrs. Hargus climbed atop the trailer and was rescued.

The water had receded by Sunday morning. Mayor Judah said it would take 30 days to clean up the mess.

Reeds Spring, with 555 residents, is 35 miles south of Springfield.

Rep. Durward Hall, R-Mo., said his office in Washington is taking steps to obtain disaster aid for Reeds Spring. He said it had contacted the Federal Housing Administration and the Small Business Administration for information about long-teram, low interest loans.

Hall also said he had talked with Gove Warren Hearnes and that the governor had promised every possible aid.

Robert Wilcox of Springfield, health educator for the Missouri district division of health, said state public health nurses will hold a typhoid and tetanus immunization clinic at the Reeds Spring drug store. The clinic will continue for about six days. The vaccine is free.

Hamra's Enterprises In Suit

Hamra's Department Stores, Inc., and Hamra's Apparel, Inc., were named in a civil injunction suit under the Fair Labor Standards Act on file today in U.S. District Court at Cape Girardeau.

The three firms maintain a common central office and warehouse at 210 First Street, Kennett, Mo. Hamra's Enterprises, Inc., has a place of business at Sikeston, Mo. Hamra's Department Stores, Inc., has two establishments at Kennett, and Hamra's Apparel, Inc., has retail stores at Dexter, Malden, and Portageville, Mo., and at Piggott, Ark.

Three employees at the central office and warehouse, involved in ordering and handling interstate shipments, were allegedly not paid the required $1.25 minimum wage.

The complaint said that 13 employees of the Kennett establishment covered by the Act because the enterprise as a whole is covered, were not paid either the $1.15 hourly minimum wage, nor time-and-a-half for hours worked in excess of 42 per workweek.

The court was asked to bar future violations, and to require the defendants to maintain adequate time and pay records, as prescribed under the statute.

Three gold mines, which reach more than 9,000 feet below the surface, lie within the municipal area of Johannesburg, South Africa.

Outstate Urban Areas Championed

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- Larger urban areas in outstate Missouri may help solve some of the problems in the Kansas City and St. Louis metropolitan areas.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes advanced that idea Friday night in a speech before the Missouri Good Roads Association.

He envisioned rejuvenation of 25 outstate cities to counteract urban decay and rural population losses.

Hearnes said new highways can stimulate growth of outstate cities -- such as a new route from Kirksville to the Arkansas line and a diagonal route from northeastern to southwestern Missouri.

Such highways may become financially possible under the new "Little Appalachia" plan which the governors of Missouri, Arkansas, Kansas and Oklahoma pushing.

Hearnes said the four states hope to receive $1 to $2 million at the state, primarily for highway planning. Ultimately aid might reach $300 million.

Speaking of urban outstate areas he said:

"We might envision a healthy tri-city area of Jefferson City-Columbia - Fulton with 300,000 or perhaps a half million people, a Kirksville with 250,000 population, West Plains 100,000, a thriving Mexico with as many -- all very strong, well balanced, economically thriving centers.

"Springfield, Sikeston, Cape Girardeau, Joplin, Hannibal -- all would be nearby centers to attract the people, instead of one or two huge cities in which the people would be absorbed in the maze of massive problems."

Versatility, Key At DuQuoin State Fair

DU QUOIN, ILL. -- (Special) -- Versatility keys the Du Quoin State Fair's night show extravaganze this year as zany Phyllis Diller, sweet-singing Brenda Lee and remarkable George Kirby head a quality cast which also is the largest ever to appear here.

All prominent on the nation's top entertainment circuit, Diller, Lee and Kirby will furnish more than one-half of the 150-minute show runs for seven nights, Aug. 30 through Sept. 5, in the Du Quoin exposition's 43d year.

A resident of nearby Webster Groves, Mo., and mother of "Fang" Diller's five children, Phyllis is best known as one of the rare female stand-up comics who has appeared on countless television shows.

Miss Lee also has made more than her share of tv appearances since her first hit recording, "Jambalaya," and network show in 1956. Dozens of other hits have followed as has international fame, the result of working visits to Europe and South America. Also appearing with Miss Lee at Du Quoin will be The Casuals, a talented singing - instrumental group.

Kirby, of course, will be making a repeat performance at the Fair following his smash Labor Day - night appearance last year. An imaginative mimic, singer, raconteur, pianist and dialectician, Kirby was a show-stopper in his first visit and has an even larger collection of triumphs now.

Others scheduled to appear are Gus Augspurg and his Girl Friends, the Good Time Singers, The Half Brothers, Manhattan Rockets, and Lou Breese's Orchestra. Johnny Matson will serve as m.c.

Tickets to all night performances, as well as other Du Quoin Fair attractions, are now available.

Discovery Bill Being Urged On

Senator Edward V. Long (D.-Mo.) today urged the Senate Commerce Committee to approve a bill which would make new scientific discoveries more accessible to industry and small business.

The bill would help state organizations in transferring to business firms new ideas from university and Federal research projects.

"In the past 10 years, the Government has supported almost $100 billion in research and development. It is just plain good business sense to seek additional usage of this bought and paid for resource of technical knowledge," Senator Long said.

Under this bill "states such as Missouri can benefit from research and development done anywhere."

The bill would permit an institution designated by the governor of each state to draw up and administer 5-year plans for the utilization of scientific information. The plans would be approved by the Secretary of Commerce. The Federal government would supply funds equal to state funds up to certain levels. Missouri, for instance, would be eligible for around one-half million dollars in Federal funds.

The bill would help states provide surveys, demonstration clinics, and information centers. In addition to Federal funds for states, the bill would help open up to all firms the results of Federal research.

"Small business is particularly at a disadvantage in fields where technological change is rapid," Senator Long said. "Technical extension services from nearby universities can bring small business scientific knowledge developed under U.S. tax-dollar funding."

The Senator praised the Midwest Research Institute of Kansas City, and the University of Missouri Extension Division. Both already have technical transfer programs.

MRI is today conducting a pilot project for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The University Extension Division has been sharing the discoveries of the University's research laboratories with many small Missouri firms.

Both MRI and the University demonstrate that "local effort, personalized and selective, is the key to technological transfer. The proposed Act has this idea as a basic ingredient," Senator Long said.

"If the proposed joint state-Federal approach can extract an additional bonus benefit of $1 from every $1000 invested in science and engineering, it will have paid for itself. I am certain the value will be many times that amount. It will lead to a new surge in the American economy."

House Passes Re-Districting

JEFFERSON CITY AP--The status of major issues before the Missouri Legislature:

Reapportionment -- House has passed a bill setting up the 168 proposed districts for the House. Meanwhile, a joint committee of the House and Senate was prepared to try to work out a compromise on the suggested constitutional amendment on House redistricting. The House wants four - year staggered terms for its members, plus increased clerical staffs. The Senate wants House members to remain on two-year terms, keep the same clerical limits and establish a commission to set House district lines. A special commission forged ahead in plans for senatorial redistricting. And a House committee figured on a couple of more meetings before drafting congressional district lines in accordance with federal one - man - one vote decisions.

Appropriations -- Headed into conference committee this week with a target of completion on major bills by around mid-June. Meanwhile, the omnibus, or catchall, appropriation bill should clear the House Appropriations Committee early in the coming week.

Commission on the Arts -- Passed by the House and in the midst of a Senate argument. It should be settled there one way or other by mid-week. If amendments are accepted it might have to go back to the House.

Sixty per cent majority for general obligation bond issues --Passed by the House and if it is to be successful it must emerge from the Senate Judiciary Committee this week.

Conflict of Interest--The bill requiring lobbyists to report their connections and how they spend their money, and preventing public officials from private gain because of their positions, has passed the House and is pending on the Senate calendar with a committee amendment attached.

Mental Retardation Clinics--A bill to establish nine regional clinics at an estimated cost of $3.6 million has passed both houses and is heading for the desk of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes who recommended it.

Sales Tax--The bill to change the tax to a gross receipts tax and close a court discovered loophole is on the Senate Calendar. So is a bill to make purchasers start paying the tax on purchases of 15 cents or more, instead of 25 cents or more.

Cooking Sweetbreads

Sweetbreads may be braised or fried without precooking; however, the membrane must first be removed. If they're going to be used in a salad or creamed with ham or veal, do precook them to make them firm as well as to keep them white.

When they're not used immediately after purchasing, precook them also. This variety meat is very delicate and highly perishable. Precooking increases the keeping quality slightly.

Elks Induct Eighteen

Eighteen new members were inducted into the Elks Lodge last week.

They are Rene DeKriek, N. E. Fuchs III, Lawrence Robbins, Loomis Mayfield, Jr., James Moore III, Bob Wilson, Robert Ralph, George Bluemlein, Bill Keefer, Ed Michael, W. J. Crutcher, Paul Meyer, John Moll, R. L. Saulter, Alton McCann, J. R. Watson, W. P. Hunter, Jr. and Ernest Bizzell.

A dance was held Saturday night at the Lodge for Elks and their guests.

Sunday along with the Chaffee Lodge, Sikeston Elks held Flag Day Services at Chaffee.

The next meeting will be held June 23 at Elks Lodge.

A social outcast is an honest person who always tells the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth.

CONTRARY WINDS

Airmen say that one of the first rules they learn is to turn their plane towards the wind and fly against it. The wind lifts the plane up to higher heights.

Where did they learn that? They learned it from the birds. If the bird is flying for pleasure, it goes with the wind. But if the bird meets danger it turns right round, faces the wind and flies higher and higher toward the very sun.

Discipline, difficulties and often suffering are God's winds —His contrary winds, sometimes His buffeting winds. They can be God's hurricane, but they take human life and lift it to higher levels toward God's Heaven and the atmosphere the soul requires for fuller development.

Obstacles ought to set us singing. The wind finds voice, not when rushing across the open sea, but when hindered by the outstretched arms of tall pine trees or broken by the fine strings of an Aeolian harp. Then it is heard in songs of power and beauty that stimulate the imagination and elevate the soul.

Do not resist or fear the winds of discipline, of hardness or even of opposition. Let them blow freely upon your life. Like the bird and the plane, you will be lifted up to where you may see wonders that otherwise you would never know.

Nothing happens by chance. God has a plan for every life, and it is an infallible truth that "all things work together for good to them that love God," and His paths are ever mercy and truth. — Margaret Guerney

Carpenters Local Honors Members

The United Brotherhood of Carpenters Local 618 held a fish and chicken dinner Saturday night in the Odd Fellows Hall, honoring 11 members of the union who had 25 years service. Mel Shasserre, state secretary of the Carpenters Union, made the presentation of the pins to three of the men present.

The membership of Local 618 in this area is 64, with most of the members and their wives present for the festivities. The state representative made a short address, told of the many changes that have taken place since 1940, when the average wage was 35 to 50 cents per hour. He reminded his audience that the older members made it possible for better wages for the younger generation.

The officers of the Local union 618 are, President, Hale Price, Bloomfield; vice-president, Bill Brooks, Sikeston; secretary, Gray Johnson, Lilbourn; financial secretary and treasurer, Donald Bacon, Bloomfield; J. H. Griffin, Bloomfield, is the business representative.

The eleven members who have served the organization for 25 years are, William R. Bacon, Fred C. Bauer, Ellis H. Bollinger, W. R. Heath, Harvey Kaiser, Charles J. McCollum, Eugene Oliver, L. B. Patterson, Harvey Thurston, S. R. Vinson and Dow G. Vowels.

Stock Market Drifts Uneven

NEW YORK AP -- The stock market failed to hold a small early gain and drifted unevenly this afternoon. Trading was moderate.

The list gained a little in early trading as it followed through from Friday's sharp recovery drive. The business background was regarded as favorable but considerable hesitation was linked to the increasing involvement of U. S. forces in South Viet Nam.

Auto stocks backed away from early gains and were mixed, despite good reports from the industry. A slightly higher tone prevailed on balance among steels, tobaccos, electrical equipments and rails.

The big international oils were mostly unchanged. Drugs and aerospace issues headed lower irregularly. Chemicals, electronics and nonferrous metals were mixed.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .4 at 321.7 with industrials up .2, rails up .7 and utilities up .1.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was down 1.70 at 880.00.

American Photocopy was heavily traded as interest continued in it on the basis of its proposed joint venture with IBM on a business copying machine. "Apeco" was the most active stock Friday. IBM was ahead more than 5 points at the start but trimmed its gain to 3 or so.

Prices were generally higher on the American Stock Exchange. Trading was moderate.

Corporate bonds declined. U. S. Treasury bonds were unchanged.

U. S. Life Tells Of Moonshiners

RICHMOND, Va. AP--Moonshiners no longer are heading for the hills, they're heading for the big city.

Makers of illicit whisky-usually country boys according to the folk legends--are moving to the city because, says Stanley E. Gaulding, head of the enforcement division of Virginia's Alcoholic Beverage Control Board, "the hunters are driving them out of the woods and because of the lack of foliage in winter for cover.

"They also want to be closer to their markets."

Cairo Eligible For Urban Renewal

CAIRO--Cairo has been recertified by the Housing and Home Finance Agency as having a Workable Program for Community Improvement, Mayor Tom Beadles said today.

Recertification means the city will remain eligible for several types of federal assistance, including Urban Renewal.

Mayor Beadles pointed out that recertification does not mean approval of any specific federal aid. The Workable Program is a showing by the community of how it intends to use its own public and private resources to eliminate and prevent slums and blight.

The Cairo program has been renewed each of the past several years. Renewal is made only when the community shows reasonable progress each year under its Workable Program.

Pigeons Outlawed From San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO AP -- If a pigeon could read, he'd know he is outlawed from downtown San Francisco, starting July 1.

That's when a new section of the Police Code, approved by the Board of Supervisors, takes effect. It sets up 10 acres--all away from downtown -- where pigeons may be fed. Elsewhere, the code calls for pigeon traps.

But the code isn't clear on who's responsible. So the swarms of pigeons go right on convening at the bus terminal, the railroad depot, on cornices of downtown buildings, monuments, fountains and streets.

"We don't plan to do anything about the pigeons until we see how the public drive for a sanctuary in Golden Gate Park progresses," says Dr. Ellis Sox, the city's health director.

"And even then, it is not up to my department to remove the birds from the downtown area.

"If, after a time, the proposed sanctuary is not ready, then we will ask that pigeon traps be set up in Union Square and other populated areas heavily populated by pigeons. But we do not have funds to finance such a program."

Pigeons Helps Get Degree

MIAMI, Fla. AP -- Pigeons helped put a working mother through college and they may help her win a master's degree.

Marjorie Gleason graduated this spring in Florida Atlantic University's first class as a bachelor of arts in humanities. She paid for gasoline used commuting between her Opa-locka home, near Miami, and Florida Atlantic in Boca Raton, 30 miles north, by carrying caged racing pigeons in the trunk of her car and releasing them on campus for training flights back to Opa-locka.

The brown - haired, brown-eyed housewife is shooting now for another pigeon - ferrying deal to pay commuting expenses.

Mrs. Gleason said she "just had to finish college--20 years and six children after attending Flint, Mich., Junior College."

She and her husband, Ralph H., came from Flint to Opa-locka when Gleason was assigned there as a Marine Corps aviator during the Korean War.

Ferdinand de Lesseps, French engineer, began both the Suez and Panama Canals, but completed only the former.
